QUAKE DESTRUCTION — This is the view of Casma, a city 30 miles south of Chimbote, Peru, showing the devastation caused by Sunday's killer earthquake. Supplies Are Airlifted Into Peru

LIMA (UPI) — Tons of relief supplies for earthquake survivors flowed into Peru today from the United States and a half dozen other nations. A witness told how one entire town simply "disappeared" in a mass of mud.

A new tremor Wednesday night—three days after the killer quake struck—sent thousands of jittery residents streaming into the streets of Lima. But there were no reports of casualties.

A big C130 transport plane of the U. S. Air Force loaded with relief supplies was flying in from the Panama Canal Zone. It carried hundreds of gallons of fuel for helicopters to be used for relief flights in the devastated Huaylas Valley where destruction was so heavy that authorities feared 30,000 people may have been killed.

Armando Pen, a part owner of a circus, told how events occurred Sunday at the town of Yungay, a village he could see from his vantage point at Chimbote.

"The performance had not yet begun," he said. "The earth began to shake and we all ran out of the tent.

"Then we saw a black mass of mud come down on the city.

"Yungay disappeared from our view. A great clour of dust went up.

"We saw scores of people run into the plaza of Yungay to save themselves but they were buried by the mud."

The new tremor, just after 11 p.m., lasted 40 seconds—enough time for occupants of the lower floors of homes and apartments to reach the streets, many in pajamas.

Aftershocks following Sunday's quake shook the area frequently Monday and Tuesday but had subsided until the new jolt Wednesday night.

The Health Ministry reported typhoid, apparently from contaminated drinking water, in Huaraz, Ranrahirca and Yungay, three virtually destroyed towns.

Helicopters airlifted 480 injured persons Wednesday from Huaraz, in the Andes 180 miles northeast of Lima, but a priest complained by radio they were not bringing food fast enough. Hunger was reported severe in neighboring villages.

(The Associated Press, meanwhile, reported that Peruvian army engineers at Huaraz have decided to set fire to the city because of health dangers from decomposing bodies. The information was received in Lima from an American missionary reporting by ham radio.)

A Health Ministry spokesman said "This is likely so. So far there have been few supplies in relation to the need."

Paratroopers assisted by Indian laborers finally cleared a 1,600 foot landing strip at Huaraz late Wednesday and a bimotor plane landed with fuel for helicopters operating there.

Rescue efforts were being coordinated from Chimbote, a port city north of Huaraz also hard hit by the quake. U.S. Hercules transport planes from the Panama Canal Zone, Brazilian and Argentine aircraft and the fleet of helicopters were operating under the direction of the Peruvian air force.

Promotion Possible For Judge

If the Northwest Judicial District in West Marin is eliminated, as recommended again this year by the county administrator, Justice Court Judge David R. Baty could become the next municipal court judge.

This possibility loomed today as County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney delved into the various legal puzzles posed by the two vacancies that will occur on the municipal court bench.

FIRST OPENING

The first opening will come in September when Judge Hadden W. Roth resigns. The second opening will come at the end of this year when Judge Alvin H. Goldstein's term expires. He did not seek reelection.

Baty said this morning he would go along with the abolition of the northwest district and take the municipal court post on one condition: a branch of municipal court is maintained at Point Reyes Station.

Baty has been an attorney for 15 years and justice court judge in Point Reyes Station 11 years.

If Baty succeeds Roth, no gubernatorial appointment would be needed.

FIGHT IT OUT

The two front-runners in Tuesday's election, Ernest C. Zunino and Robert A. Smallman, will fight it out in November for Goldstein's post.

Even if Gov. Ronald Reagan were to appoint Zunino or Smallman to the first vacancy, the two will still be in the November runoff because candidates cannot withdraw, said Maloney. "Under the law, you can withdraw only if you're dead, and only then if it happens 40 days before the election."

Maloney added that these are his offhand opinions. If he were asked for a formal opinion by the county clerk, he would have to go into more detail in researching the legal questions.

BICYCLE PUMP SAVES THE DAY FOR LIFESAVER

SKEGNESS, England (AP) — Every time Peter Thawley tried to kiss the hedgehog, he got a mouthful of prickly spines. So he blew it up with a bicycle pump instead.

Thawley found the foot-long hedgehog floating unconscious in a goldfish pond.

"I tried to give it the kiss of life but you can't kiss a hedgehog—it hurts," Thawley said. "I put my bicycle pump in his mouth and inflated him, squeezing his stomach to force the air in and out."

The animal revived, drank a few spoonfuls of brandy and waddled off.

Five Die As Army Truck Hits River

WERTHEIM, Germany (UPI)—A U.S. army truck carring 15 soldiers drove over an embankment into the Main River at Wertheim today, a military spokesman said. He said five soldiers were killed and five others injured in the accident.

The spokesman said the soldiers—from the 1st Battalion, 7th Infantry—were in a 2 1-2 ton army truck travelling from Aschaffenburg to Wertheim.

He said the driver apparrently lost control of the vehicle while crossing a bridge over the Main River. Ten of the truck's 15 occupants were thrown clear, and of these five were injured, he said.

They were taken to Wuerzburg Army Hpsital.

The spokesman said their names were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The spokesman was unable to say whether the five who died in the truck, drowned or were killed by the impact.

West German police said the truck swerved too tightly while taking a sharp right hand bend at the end of the bridge and the vehicle pitched over the river embankment and landed on its roof in the water, half submerged.

GI's from the Wertheim garrison, firemen and civilian salvage corps workers helped recover the truck and aid the accident victims.

Two More Quit Sausalito Board

Special Election Planned

Two more trustees of the Sausalito School District, Nathaniel Johnson and James E. Muldoon, have resigned from the district board. Trustee C. Gerald Clear announced his resignation yesterday.

Johnson, the board president, on a San Francisco television made his announcement today on a San Francisco television program, and Muldoon made his in a letter to Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools.

The three resignations came less than 48 hours after the district's two other trustees, David E. Freeheim and Martha Freebairn-Smith, were recalled by voters. They will be replaced by Jerry L. Whitcomb and Delta Christ, both of Sausalito, who ran for board posts in the recall election.

SPECIAL ELECTION

Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services for the county schools office, said the county superintendent will call a special election to fill the vacant seats. He said the law requires the election be held within 120 days of the resignations.

Spain said the county will not move to take over operation of the school district "as long as there is a superintendent and one or more board members and they attempt to operate the district."

Only if the remaining trustees refuse to operate the district, would the county move in automatically, Spain said. He added that the county schools office will help the board by providing any services, such as administrative or business services, it may request.

LEG AILMENT

In his letter of resignation Muldoon, who is ill with a leg ailment, stressed the successful recall played no part in his decision. He said his resigning may help "restore to the children of this troubled district the opportunity for an education directed toward a desire to improve their

NEW PULLOUTS SET

Nixon Cites U.S., Cambodia Success

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon claimed complete success for his controversial Cambodian operations Wednesday night and announced the United States had resumed withdrawing its troops from Vietnam.

Another 50,000 Americans will be out of Vietnam by Oct. 15, he said, in a resumption of his program to reduce by half the U.S. military force there within the next year.

"I can now state that this has been the most successful operation of this long and very difficult war," Nixon told a nationwide radio and television audience.

Basing his assessments on the reports he received Sunday in California from his top field commander, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Nixon said the major military objectives of the Cambodian thrusts had now been achieved and all Americans, including advisers and supply personnel, will be out of Cambodia by the June 30 deadline he had earlier set.

Bombing raids also will halt then, he said, but will be resumed "if necessary to protect the lives and security of our forces in South Vietnam."

Hoping to head off a Senate move to prohibit any future military operations in Cambodia, the President issued a strong plea for support of his "program for peace."

"We have a program for peace—and the greater the support the administration receives in its efforts, the greater the opportunity to win the just peace we all desire," he said.

But early reaction gave little indication he had changed many minds. "He is still ambivalent on the main point that U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam must be constant and accelerated, without a built-in veto by Saigon and Hanoi," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Senate and House GOP leaders Hugh Scott and Gerald R. Ford praised the President for keeping faith with the American people but Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, a war critic, said Nixon's remarks "bring us no closer to an end of the Indochina War."

Using film clips of the captured war materials to illustrate his point, Nixon contended the supplies seized in Cambodia "nearly equal what we captured in all of Vietnam last year."

"Had this war material made its way into South Vietnam and been used against American and allied troops, U.S. casualties would have been vastly increased," he said.

"With the rainy season now beginning, it will take the enemy months to rebuild his shattered installations and to replace the equipment we have captured or destroyed."

He said the Cambodian operations, the object of "an unprecedented barrage of criticism," not only had eliminated an immediate danger to American forces in Vietnam, but had won precious time for the South Vietnamese to train for the job of protecting themselves and "insured the continuance and success of our withdrawal program."

The 50,000-troop withdrawal announced by the President was the first increment in the program he outlined April 20 for reducing the U.S. force level in Vietnam by 150,000 men by next May.

With the 110,000 men already brought home, this would reduce the 540,000-man force

Rafferty Says Runoff Expected, Likes Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Max Rafferty was forced into a November runoff election with his former chief deputy, Wilson Riles, today as additional returns were counted from Tuesday's primary.

Rafferty said "we were expecting a runoff" because of the large field of nine candidates.

With 94.4 per cent of the vote counted, Rafferty led 48.8 per cent to 25.3 per cent for Riles and 12.6 per cent for Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles Board of Education. Rafferty needed more than 50 per cent of the total vote to win outright in the primary.

Rafferty, in a telephone interview from his Sacramento office, said he planned to campaign more vigorously during the general election, depending on "how much money we can scrape together."

"We're going to be talking about our educational policies and how we've applied them to California's schools," he said.

Rafferty said, "I'm not exactly unhappy" with his large vote.

The vote totals included 90.9 per cent of Orange County's returns, 84.5 per cent of San Diego's and 92.9 per cent of Los Angeles'. No votes were yet into the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento from Fresno County, where a massive computer foulup delayed counting.

Riles, 52, a Negro, staged a vigorous campaign against his former boss, charging he could do a better job than Rafferty.

Rafferty, 53, was first elected in 1962 and was re-elected in the 1966 primary, rolling up 3 million votes, 1.5 million more than all of his three opponents combined.

Rafferty upset veteran Republican Sen. Thomas Kuchel in the GOP primary in 1968, but lost to Alan Cranston in the general election. That was Rafferty's only bid for partisan office. The superintendency position is nonpartisan.

Riles was considered last year by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch for appointment to

MARIN'S BUDGET UNVEILED TODAY

An illustrated story on next year's proposed $36,024,555 county budget, which would raise property taxes 8 cents per $100 assessed valuation, appears today on page 30.

Marin County Supervisors accepted the proposed budget for study Tuesday and will begin consideration of individual department needs on June 15.

Fresno Vote Remains In Computer

FRESNO (UPI)—The age of the computer may have dawned on the rest of the world some time ago, but in Fresno it has yet to arrive—at least as far as vote counting is concerned.

The county has a computer system capable of tabulating in less than three hours the 60,000 votes cast in Tuesday's primary election. But this morning, a full 36 hours after the polls closed, not one vote has been counted.

The problem is not with the computer but with its programming, which was not completed by the time election day rolled around.

A spokesman for Auditor-Controller Maurice Uhler said a systems analyst, Murray Hunter, of the Honeywell Corp. in Sacramento, was being brought in today to help the regular programmer finish the job.

Work has been going on round the clock for the past two days, but Uhler's office said it will be 5 p.m. today at the earliest before ballots can be counted.

The county uses a punch card system which would make it almost impossible to count the votes by hand.

Many of the candidates waiting to learn their fate in the elections seem to be taking the difficulty in strike but several were less charitable.

Fresno assemblyman George Zenovich, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 16th District Senate post, said the county board of supervisors, Uhler and the county's administrative officer should be made to explain why the system was not ready.

Supervisor John Krebs, who was not running for reelection, called for an investigation and termed the failure "inexcusable."

U.S. Increases Venezuelan Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today the United States will increase imports from Venezuela during the second half of 1970.

It also indicated an increase in Venezuelan oil imports may be extended beyond this year.

The disclosures were made by White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler after President Nixon and Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera held their concluding talk of Caldera's state visit.

Rules Panel Clears Way On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Rules Committee on a 9-6 vote today cleared the way for an up or down test in the House on accepting intact a Senate-passed voting rights bill that also contains provision for allowing 18-year-olds to vote.

Democratic leaders were not sure the votes were available to put the measure across, and they delayed the House vote for at least a week —possibly longer.

Rules Panel Clears Way On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Rules Committee on a 9-6 vote today cleared the way for an up or down test in the House on accepting intact a Senate-passed voting rights bill that also contains provision for allowing 18-year-olds to vote.

Democratic leaders were not sure the votes were available to put the measure across, and they delayed the House vote for at least a week —possibly longer.

Denies Pollution

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chevron Oil Co. has pleaded innocent to federal charges involving massive pollution of waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

"Chevron pleads not guilty to each of the 900 counts of the indictment," attorney Lawrence Benson said Wednesday at a brief arraignment in U.S. District Court.

It was the first case of its kind and Asst. U.S. Atty. Julian Murray told the court it may get into "a new field of law" before it's over.

Judge Alvin B. Rubin gave Benson 60 days in which to prepare defense motions on the charges that Chevron failed to equip 90 of its offshore wells with safety devices.

To Higher Ground

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A ruptured reservoir and flood waters from six days of rain drove more than 500 persons to emergency shelters and closed major highways in Florida's Panhandle Wednesday night.

No injuries were reported.

At Pensacola, police evacuated 400 persons as up to seven feet of water slammed into their homes after the wall of a city reservoir burst in two places. Electricity was knocked out in some sections, including one hospital.

Search Continues

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Navy frogmen today continued to search for the bodies of French film director Albert Lamorisse and three companions who died Wednesday when their helicopter crashed into the Karaj Dam lake 27 miles northwest of Tehran.

Frogmen indicated the wreckage of the helicopter in 450 feet of water. Missing with Lamorisse were his assistant, Dalbes Lemobil, and the Iranian pilot and co-pilot.

Lamorisse, who was known for his aerial photography, won international acclaim for his film "the Red Balloon," the simple tale of a Parisian boy who is followed by a stray balloon. The film won a 1956 Cannes Grand Prix, an Oscar and six other prizes.

SAIGON (AP) — A 24-year-old Buddhist nun burned herself to death early this morning to protest the Vietnam war, Buddhist sources said.

They reported Hoang Thi Gai, a worker in the Ngoc Ninh orphanage in the coastal city of Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of Saigon, doused herself with kerosene and set herself afire.

Border Fire

SEOUL (AP) — North Korean machine gunners fired across the Imjin River into South Korea Wednesday night, wounding two Korean civilians who were asleep in their home, the United Nations Command reported today.

Statistics show that 70 per cent of the fatal and serious wounds during World War II were received in the chest or abdomen.

Says Indians Armed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A government official says that the Indians on Alcatraz Island are armed with 35 guns, but adds that "it is idiotic to fight for an island that's inactive."

"I don't think it makes sense to risk the lives of the men who take the Indians off the island, or of the Indians," Thomas Hannon said Wednesday. He is the regional director of the General Services Administration.

Leaves Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — American moonwalker Neil Armstrong left Moscow today at the end of a 10-day tour of the Soviet Union.

He will go to Rome for a short visit before returning to the United States, U.S. embassy officials said.

The astronaut was seen off at Moscow's Sheretmetyevo airport by his cosmonaut hosts during the visit, Maj. Gen. Georgy Beregovoi and Konstantin Feoktistov, and by prominent Soviet space scientist Anatoly Blagonravov.

Near Fourth Day

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov neared the end of a third seemingly routine day in orbit today, strengthening the general view that their space flight is a workhorse operation to perfect maneuvers that have not gone well before. Tass said the space ship Soyuz 9 completed its 38the orbit of the earth this morning, the two crewmen fulfilled the program of their third day in flight, and the cosmonauts "carried out medical health control and passed to the orbital compartment for rest."

Head Of Mellon Holdings Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richard King Mellon demanded privacy, insisted on loyalty from his friends and associates and shared one of the nation's largest private fortunes with charity.

The tycoon died Wednesday after a four-day illness at West Penn Hospital. He was 70. Death was attributed to natural causes.

Mellon was a shy man who avoided public appearances. The value of his wealth has never been revealed, but it had been estimated up to $3 billion. His charities totaled perhaps $70 million.

He was the son of Richard B. Mellon. The elder Mellon and brother, Andrew W. Mellon, built their father's banking business into a financial empire which ultimately embraced huge holdings in such corporate giants as Gulf Oil Corp., the Aluminum Co. of America, Koppers Co. and General Motors.

Andrew became secretary of the Treasury under President Warren G. Harding in 1921, a year after his nephew Richard started his business training as a bank messenger.

When Andrew Mellon died in 1939, his nephew took over direction of the family business interests.

The bulk of Mellon's philanthropy was channeled through the R. K. Mellon Foundation. Since 1947 some $43 million had been distributed through this trust alone.

On his rolling timbered estate, Huntland Downs, on the edge of the Laurel Mountains in Ligonier, 50 miles east of Pittsburgh, Mellon raised horses and engaged in experimental farming.

RICHARD K. MELLON
Demanded privacy

He gave Ligonier shade trees each year and sent checks to each fire department in the valley. He gave $100,000 for a community playground, built a library and a $1.5 million town hall and endowed each with operating funds.

Mellon served in both world wars and was a retired Army Reserve lieutenant general. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his World War II service.

Mellon will lie in state at the United Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh's East Liberty section from 10 a.m. Thursday until noon Friday. Burial will be at 2 p.m. Friday.

He is survived by his wife Constance, whom he married in 1936, and four adopted children.

The first scientific census of modern times was that taken in New France in 1666.

Senate Gets Bill To Hike Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — After surviving war critics' attacks in the House, a bill to raise the national debt ceiling by $18 billion heads for the Senate amid indications its quick passage might hinge on the Cambodian war policy debate.

The House passed the measure Wednesday by a 236-127 vote. It permits raising the national debt limit from $377 billion to $395 billion.

Some senators mentioned the possibility that action on the bill might be delayed if debate continues on another measure to curtail military spending in Cambodia.

The debt ceiling bill must be passed by July 1 or the government will be unable to pay its bills.

The Nixon administration asked for the increase to cover expected deficits in the budget.

While the budget projects a deficit of only $1.3 billion for the year beginning July 1, this figure does not reflect the use of surpluses in special trust funds —which become part of the debt —nor the likelihood that not all President Nixon's revenue proposals will be approved.

Congressional estimates indicated general revenues might be as much as $16.8 billion below expenditures.

War critics in the House first tried to amend the bill Wednesday to lop $6 billion off the ceiling increase and require a corresponding reduction in defense spending.

A 273-85 procedural vote blocked that attempt, with 71 Democrats and 14 Republicans voting to permit amending the bill, 127 Democrats and 146 Republicans voting against.

Israeli Jets Press Suez Raids, Pound Jordan For Civilian Deaths

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli warplanes pressed a round-the-clock blitz against Egyptian targets along the Suez Canal today in a campaign to knock out Arab artillery and frustrate installation of Soviet-built antiaircraft missiles.

New fighting erupted in the southern Jordan Valley between Israeli and Jordanian forces, and Israeli newspapers warned of stern action by the Jewish state against Jordan to end attacks on civilian settlements. The Jordanian press warned of counter retaliation.

Action in the Middle East Wednesday was described as the heaviest since the war in June, 1967, and communiques today indicated no letup in the level of fighting.

Jordanian spokesmen reported 19 Jordanians slain and 42 wounded Wednesday in Israeli air attacks flown in reprisal for Jordanian shelling of the Israeli resort city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee.

Tel Aviv communiques said Israeli pilots hit Egyptian targets in the Suez Canal area for five hours in a mission that ended at 12:30 a.m., then went back to the attack at 6:30 a.m. in a raid that lasted 2 1-2 hours. Another wave of jet fighter-bombers swept over the canal at 10 a.m. and blazed away for more than two hours before returning to base.

Israeli spokesmen said there were no aircraft losses in the Suez missions.

Cairo communiques said groups of Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian positions in the central and northern sector of the canal. A military spokesman said the raiders were intercepted by Egyptian fighter planes supported by antiaircraft fire.

The report from Cairo said Egyptian artillerymen on the west bank of the canal unleashed a heavy barrage of shells Wednesday night against Israeli positions across the waterway in the Sinai Peninsula, an area of Egypt which Israeli forces have occupied since the 1967 war.

Viet Reds In Paris Blast Nixon's Report On War

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong denounced today President Nixon's latest Indochina speech as proof he wants to extend and prolong the war in search of military victory.

Entering the 69th session of the Vietnam peace conference, Hanoi's negotiator, Nguyen Minh Vy, accused Nixon of "having recourse to threats in hopes of limiting the Vietnamese people in the exercise of their legitimate defense."

"Mr. Nixon has furnished new proof that despite his multiple statements that he is animated by a desire for peace, is ready to negotiate, his administration during this time still seeks a military victory, a position of strength by the prolongation and an extension of the war."

He said Nixon's policy can "only drag the United States into a war extended to all the Indochinese peninsula and lead it to new defeats."

Nguyen Van Tien, negotiator of the Viet Cong delegation, said Nixon brought forth nothing new.

"He cannot fool anyone, nor camouflage the heavy U. S. troops losses in Cambodia," Tien said.

Tien said, "The piecemeal withdrawal of troops shows once again his obstinate policy and determination to prolong the military occupation of South Vietnam."

Straw Poll Indicates Class Work Is First

A straw poll taken by a displeased chemistry teacher indicates that a majority of College of Marin faculty agree with him that teaching scheduled classes is more important than "crusades, politics, athletic, (or) 'in lieu of sessions' ".

Teacher Paul C. Llewellyn reacted to May's 3-day campus "strike" by writing a tartly worded letter to all fulltime teachers. It said that the view of some faculty members that out-of-class activities are more important than meeting scheduled classes is "unethical, immoral and illegal."

" . . .the community has a right to expect us to do the job for which we were hired. These other activities which have merit should not interfere with our obligations to our students . . .," he wrote.

Llewellyn asked teachers to indicate whether they agreed or not with his position. Out of 67 replies, he said, 38, or about 57 percent, agreed with him and 29 did not.

"Most of the letters were returned with comment," he said. "Most of them were quite emphatic ,one way or the other," he said.

Approximately half the school's 129 full-time teachers answered the poll.

Many who disagreed with him, Llewellyn said, thought he considered outside activities, such as the peace movement, unimportant. "I think they're important," he said, "but not as important as education."

Llewellyn said a major reason the public is rejecting school bond issues in recent elections is the belief "they're not getting their money's worth" when students or teachers leave the classroom for political or other outside activity.

Straw Poll Indicates Class Work Is First

A straw poll taken by a displeased chemistry teacher indicates that a majority of College of Marin faculty agree with him that teaching scheduled classes is more important than "crusades, politics, athletic, (or) 'in lieu of sessions' ".

Teacher Paul C. Llewellyn reacted to May's 3-day campus "strike" by writing a tartly worded letter to all fulltime teachers. It said that the view of some faculty members that out-of-class activities are more important than meeting scheduled classes is "unethical, immoral and illegal."

" . . .the community has a right to expect us to do the job for which we were hired. These other activities which have merit should not interfere with our obligations to our students . . .," he wrote.

Llewellyn asked teachers to indicate whether they agreed or not with his position. Out of 67 replies, he said, 38, or about 57 percent, agreed with him and 29 did not.

"Most of the letters were returned with comment," he said. "Most of them were quite emphatic ,one way or the other," he said.

Approximately half the school's 129 full-time teachers answered the poll.

Many who disagreed with him, Llewellyn said, thought he considered outside activities, such as the peace movement, unimportant. "I think they're important," he said, "but not as important as education."

Llewellyn said a major reason the public is rejecting school bond issues in recent elections is the belief "they're not getting their money's worth" when students or teachers leave the classroom for political or other outside activity.

existing when Nixon took office to 280,000 men.

The President dealt only indirectly with one factor that has fueled criticism of his policy—fears that the South Vietnamese will continue and expand their operations in Cambodia and irreversibly widen the war.

Discussions with the Saigon government indicate their objective is the security of their own country, Nixon said, and added:

"Their activity in Cambodia in the future—after their withdrawal from the sanctuaries—will be determined by the actions of the enemy."

Nixon issued another plea to Hanoi for meaningful negotiations. "The door to a negotiated peace remains wide open," he said. "Every offer we have made at the conference table, publicly or privately, I herewith reaffirm."

He coupled this with a warning that if North Vietnam increases its attacks he will "take strong and effective measures to deal with that situation."

Auto Dealership Suffers Vandalism

Officials of Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael told police today the rear windows of three new autos were smashed by unidentified missiles during the night.

existing when Nixon took office to 280,000 men.

The President dealt only indirectly with one factor that has fueled criticism of his policy—fears that the South Vietnamese will continue and expand their operations in Cambodia and irreversibly widen the war.

Discussions with the Saigon government indicate their objective is the security of their own country, Nixon said, and added:

"Their activity in Cambodia in the future—after their withdrawal from the sanctuaries—will be determined by the actions of the enemy."

Nixon issued another plea to Hanoi for meaningful negotiations. "The door to a negotiated peace remains wide open," he said. "Every offer we have made at the conference table, publicly or privately, I herewith reaffirm."

He coupled this with a warning that if North Vietnam increases its attacks he will "take strong and effective measures to deal with that situation."

Broemmel Forecasts Assessment Hikes

More than half of Marin's homeowners face higher assessments for next fiscal year.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, speaking on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" today, said that assessment values on 41,000 properties (54 per cent) in Marin have been raised.

The assessment is 23 per cent of the fair market value of property in the county as determined by the assessor.

Broemmel explained that the housing shortage and skyrocketing construction costs have pushed up the market value of most homes. This is especially true in southern Marin, he said. Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon and the view areas of Mill Valley got big increases because of the desirability of the properties and the proximity to San Francisco. Assessment increases in northern Marin were not so great because there is relatively abundant land for expansion there, he explained.

Broemmel, who has been county assessor since 1959, dismissed the "so-called cycle system" as an explanation of the jump in southern Marin assessments this year.

Although Marin properties for some years were appraised in rotation, they aren't now, he said.

He said his reassessment procedures have placed Marin first in assessment equality in the state according to the state Board of Equalization.

Next year, the assessed rate must be raised from 23 per cent to 25 per cent of market value, he noted — "which would automatically increase the tax base by about 9 per cent."

$400,000 Suit Filed In San Quentin Death

A San Rafael attorney has filed a $400,000 wrongful death suit against the State of California and officials of San Quentin Prison in the Feb. 26 death of a young San Quentin inmate.

Attorney Salle S. Soladay said the suit, filed yesterday with the state Board of Control in Sacramento, claims Fred Edward Billingslea, 24, of Detroit, Mich. was "maliciously assaulted, choked, gassed and killed" by prison guards.

Mrs. Soladay is asking $150,000 in compensatory damages from both the state and Warden Louis Nelson, Associate Warden James W. L. Park and several prison guards. She is also seeking $250,000 in punitive damages from the prison officials in the name of Billingslea's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Billingslea, and his wife Susan, all of Detroit.

She said her suit is a test case because, under present laws, the state is immune from liability for any injuries or deaths to prisoners in its institutions, unless it can be proven prison officials did not provide adequate medical treatment.

"At present, only individual guards or other officials can be sued if they mutilate or kill a prisoner," the attorney said.

The suit states that Billingslea, who had a history of mental disorder, was gassed with tear gas in his cell, then dragged to a quiet cell, a type of cell which, according to Mrs. Soladay, has very little ventilation. During the dragging the inmate's larynx was fractured, the attorney claims.

The suit also states that Billingslea was again gassed with tear gas by guards before the door to the quiet cell was closed.

Mrs. Soladay said she has done extensive research in preparing the case and has talked to many prisoners who were in the cellblock where the death occurred.

At the time of Billingslea's death, the Marin County coroner's office listed the cause as pulmonary edema, a lung condition, and noted the prisoner had a fractured larynx.

The attorney said that prior to his death, the young man had informed his family that he was afraid he was going to be killed in San Quentin.

"I am hoping the courts will make the state liable in these kinds of cases," Mrs. Soladay said, "Because we don't know how man Fred Billingslease there have been in the past or will be in the future and nothing can be done until the laws are changed."

Warden Nelson, informed of the action, refused to comment except to say, "This is not the first suit against us and it will not be the last."

Broemmel Forecasts Assessment Hikes

More than half of Marin's homeowners face higher assessments for next fiscal year.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, speaking on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" today, said that assessment values on 41,000 properties (54 per cent) in Marin have been raised.

The assessment is 23 per cent of the fair market value of property in the county as determined by the assessor.

Broemmel explained that the housing shortage and skyrocketing construction costs have pushed up the market value of most homes. This is especially true in southern Marin, he said. Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon and the view areas of Mill Valley got big increases because of the desirability of the properties and the proximity to San Francisco. Assessment increases in northern Marin were not so great because there is relatively abundant land for expansion there, he explained.

Broemmel, who has been county assessor since 1959, dismissed the "so-called cycle system" as an explanation of the jump in southern Marin assessments this year.

Although Marin properties for some years were appraised in rotation, they aren't now, he said.

He said his reassessment procedures have placed Marin first in assessment equality in the state according to the state Board of Equalization.

Next year, the assessed rate must be raised from 23 per cent to 25 per cent of market value, he noted — "which would automatically increase the tax base by about 9 per cent."

Mental Health Panel Opposes Fund Trims

An alcohol detoxification program and additions to the mental retardation program should remain in the 1970-71 budget for community mental health services, the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board decided last night.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, in an economy move, has recommended a total mental health services budget of $3,391,396, which would delete $189,000 needed for alcohol detoxification and additions to the mental retardation program.

The advisory board, headed by chairman Peter Palmer, decided to oppose the administrator's proposed cuts.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella and board member George Monardo reported that a nine-man screening committee will meet next week to begin screening applicants for the job of director of the Marin Mental Health Center.

Trudy Baum, a director of the Marin Association for Mental Health, suggested that a new screening committee from outside the community be chosen because some members of the present committee may have preconcieved ideas. The advisory board, however, decided to stick with the present screening committee, composed of two representatives from the county, two from Marin Hospital District, one from Marin Psychiatric Association, and four from the advisory board.

Chairman Palmer announced that the next meeting of the advisory board will be held at 8 p.m. June 24 in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

Election Day Plan Presented

STANFORD (UPI) — A Stanford University faculty-student committee has recommended that work loads be limited and classes canceled Nov. 2 and 3 so students can participate in the November elections.

The committee report said it was "imperative" that students, as citizens, "be encouraged to use the political process in seeking change."

Mental Health Panel Opposes Fund Trims

An alcohol detoxification program and additions to the mental retardation program should remain in the 1970-71 budget for community mental health services, the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board decided last night.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, in an economy move, has recommended a total mental health services budget of $3,391,396, which would delete $189,000 needed for alcohol detoxification and additions to the mental retardation program.

The advisory board, headed by chairman Peter Palmer, decided to oppose the administrator's proposed cuts.

The Larkspur City Council went along last night with a request from the park and recreation commission that two young persons be added to the commission.

The council expanded the commission from five to seven members and said that applications from "students in local schools" will be reviewed so that the new members may be appointed in the fall.

In other action last night, the council approved the park and recreation commission's recommendations for refurbishing of Dolliver Park. At the request of about 500 citizens, the commission had recommended that the city fix up restrooms, build a fence and install garbage cans as well as replace a broken merry-go-round.

Councilman Neil G. Brixon expressed a hope that the park "is now rid of hippies" and that improvements would last. The council will consider the expenditure of about $2,000 on the project when it discusses next year's budget.

The Larkspur City Council also:

APPOINTMENT — Reappointed Dr. Arnold Mayer to the park and recreation commission.

PLANNER — Reappointed Joseph Picetti to the planning commission.

Horse Dealer Enters Denial Of Charges

Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick, 30, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to six counts of fraud stemming from horse dealings as well as one of felony assault.

Sedgwick is accused of hiring two Sacramento men whom he knew in state prison to beat another Novato horseman. One of the Sacramento men, Pierre Jon Hall, 30, has already admitted beating up Dallas Lee Wyatt, 36, on the Atherton Stables property on March 29.

The second man, James Marquis Jr., 37, pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday.

Both his and Sedgwick's cases were continued to June 15 for setting of a trial date.

Sedgwick has been accused of hiring Hall and Marquis to beat Wyatt because Wyatt, who rents the Atherton Stables from Sedgwick, had complained of Sedgwick's horse dealings.

Sedgwick operates the Novato Thoroughbred Farms.

Anti-Ambassador Marches Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans living in asylum in Sweden organized at least one of the recent demonstrations against U.S. Ambassador Jerome H. Holland, says Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme.

Holland, a Negro, has encountered some hostile crowds and shouts of "nigger" in the weeks since his arrival in Sweden. At one point he was reported considering returning to the United States.

Palme arrived in Washington Wednesday for an eight-day private visit.

He said his government had investigated the incidents carefully, found only a "small group of extremists" to be behind them, and said in one instance they were Americans who had found asylum there.

Fairfax Trustees Set Milk Program Outlay

The Fairfax School District has approved participation in a milk program for the coming school year at an estimated cost of $85 to $100 a year.

Until last year, participation in the program cost the district nothing, but milk prices outran the state subsidy according to board secretary Gwyneth McGee.

She said the district — which approved the program Tuesday — will pay one penny for each 10 bottles of milk. Children now pay 5 cents and the state 3 cents for each bottle of milk, she said.

The voluntary daily program in the district's four schools had 480 participants in April, out of almost 1100 students, according to Mrs. McGee.

The Fairfax District Board also:

BUDGET — Put off until June 16 a discussion of the budget as Supt. H. Reginald Hammond was absent because of illness.

ENROLLMENT — Were informed that school enrollment in the district is 1,072 students, down nine from May 21.

VISITATION — Heard a report from Charlene Locati, a teacher at Deer Park School, on a tour by the School Planning Committee of schools in Sonoma, Petaluma, Mill Valley and Marin City to study school organization for a possible reorganization of the district.

EVALUATION — Approved continuation for another year of a team-teaching program for fith and sixth graders combined at Deer Park School after a report on it by teachers Peggy Petersen and Nancy Leisure.

LETTER — Ordered that a letter be sent to Sen. John J. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, urging him to support inclusion of a school financing provision in Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform bill.

EXCEPTION — Made an exception to a board policy that only school personnel may have keys to schools and authorized one for recreation director Tony Barbera for Fairfax Parks and Recreation Department night classes at Central School.

TEACHERS — Approved a tentative list of 12 summer school teachers.

Pot Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Stanley Michael Kelly, 20, of North Hollywood, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after Judge Hadden W. Roth ruled that the search and seizure of the suspected pot had been illegal.

Until last year, participation in the program cost the district nothing, but milk prices outran the state subsidy according to board secretary Gwyneth McGee.

She said the district — which approved the program Tuesday — will pay one penny for each 10 bottles of milk. Children now pay 5 cents and the state 3 cents for each bottle of milk, she said.

The voluntary daily program in the district's four schools had 480 participants in April, out of almost 1100 students, according to Mrs. McGee.

The Fairfax District Board also:

BUDGET — Put off until June 16 a discussion of the budget as Supt. H. Reginald Hammond was absent because of illness.

ENROLLMENT — Were informed that school enrollment in the district is 1,072 students, down nine from May 21.

VISITATION — Heard a report from Charlene Locati, a teacher at Deer Park School, on a tour by the School Planning Committee of schools in Sonoma, Petaluma, Mill Valley and Marin City to study school organization for a possible reorganization of the district.

EVALUATION — Approved continuation for another year of a team-teaching program for fith and sixth graders combined at Deer Park School after a report on it by teachers Peggy Petersen and Nancy Leisure.

LETTER — Ordered that a letter be sent to Sen. John J. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, urging him to support inclusion of a school financing provision in Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform bill.

EXCEPTION — Made an exception to a board policy that only school personnel may have keys to schools and authorized one for recreation director Tony Barbera for Fairfax Parks and Recreation Department night classes at Central School.

TEACHERS — Approved a tentative list of 12 summer school teachers.

Pot Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Stanley Michael Kelly, 20, of North Hollywood, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after Judge Hadden W. Roth ruled that the search and seizure of the suspected pot had been illegal.

Kelly was arrested Jan. 29 when a California Highway Patrolman went over to investigate his minibus which was parked on a shoulder of Highway 101. An odor of marijuana greeted the officer, and a search of the vehicle produced a small quantity of suspected pot.

Spelling Bee's Champ Is A Girl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Libby Childress of Mount Airy, N.C., won the 1970 National Spelling Bee today after outlasting 74 grade-shool children.

The 14-year-old eighth-grader reached the final round with Tom Moe Jr. of Denver, Colo. The two teen-agers battled through 17 words before Tom stumbled on the word corymb, meaning a flower or fruit cluster. He misspelled it "chorimbe."

DRAMA REVIEW

'Whispers' Might Become A Sentimental Sleeper

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A frankly folksy musical, "Whispers on the Wind," dared premiere Wednesday night at off-Broadway's Theater De Lys.

It is professionally neat and persuasively modest, deliberately countering in method and content the show world's current mania for candor, sophistication and the downbeat. But sweet simplicity has kept "The Fantasticks" running for 10 years, so this just might become another sentimental sleeper.

The cast of five, slipping in and out of multiple vignettes with easy adaptibility, trace the life of a youth through the bruises and smiles of Midwestern upbringing, the break from home to compromise success in big town.

Writer John B. Kuntz has an eye for the tiny significances of youth and an ear for the sad-funny inevitabilities of later years. His lyrics for Lor Crane's score advance matters with cadences that mildly echo Dylan Thomas. The music is unelaborate but attractive in rendition by a quintet of guitars, flutes and electric piano.

The actors sing along heartily, with Nancy Dussault, David Cryer, Patrick Fox, Mary Louise Wilson and R.G. Brown sharing in much merited applause.

Burt Brinckerhoff's direction occasionally indulges in more than necessary activity up and down the platforms and through the panels of David F. Segal's setting, in big scenes atones with lyrical eloquence.

"Whispers on the Wind" speaks softly of life, love and loneliness, but creates entertainment of triumphantly ingratiating charm.

Tom Hayden, leader of the Students for a Democratic Society and one of the "Chicago Seven" convicted of inciting a riot at the 1968 Democratic convention, will speak tomorrow at College of Marin at a rally sponsored by the Black and Asian Students Union.

The rally, on behalf of three inmates of the California Correctional Facility at Soledad charged with killing a guard, will start at 7 p.m. in the student center.

Other speakers will be John Thorne, defense attorney for the "Soledad Three", a relative of one defendant; Robert Fisher, member of the BASU, and Brian V. Beard of Marin City.

The San Francisco Mime Troupe is also to perform.

Radio Club Sets Meeting Tomorrow

The Marin Amateur Radio Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Calvin Hall at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The program — open to the public — will include a film of previous Field Day activities and planning of this year's test of amateur communications in the field under emergency conditions June 27 and 28.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Whispers' Might Become A Sentimental Sleeper

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A frankly folksy musical, "Whispers on the Wind," dared premiere Wednesday night at off-Broadway's Theater De Lys.

It is professionally neat and persuasively modest, deliberately countering in method and content the show world's current mania for candor, sophistication and the downbeat. But sweet simplicity has kept "The Fantasticks" running for 10 years, so this just might become another sentimental sleeper.

The cast of five, slipping in and out of multiple vignettes with easy adaptibility, trace the life of a youth through the bruises and smiles of Midwestern upbringing, the break from home to compromise success in big town.

Writer John B. Kuntz has an eye for the tiny significances of youth and an ear for the sad-funny inevitabilities of later years. His lyrics for Lor Crane's score advance matters with cadences that mildly echo Dylan Thomas. The music is unelaborate but attractive in rendition by a quintet of guitars, flutes and electric piano.

The actors sing along heartily, with Nancy Dussault, David Cryer, Patrick Fox, Mary Louise Wilson and R.G. Brown sharing in much merited applause.

Burt Brinckerhoff's direction occasionally indulges in more than necessary activity up and down the platforms and through the panels of David F. Segal's setting, in big scenes atones with lyrical eloquence.

"Whispers on the Wind" speaks softly of life, love and loneliness, but creates entertainment of triumphantly ingratiating charm.

A REFRESHING DRINK

Union Members Are Bailed Out

Three members of the International Typographical Union arrested yesterday in connection with the smashing of windows of Independent-Journal advertisers were bailed out of jail later in the day by a union representative.

Edward Sarkon, described by a representative of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, as a retired member who "helps with fund-raising," posted a total of $4,500 cash bail for the three men.

Novato attorney Robert D. Carrow, who represents other union members charged with crimes in connection with the union's strike against the I-J, said today that he will also represent these three.

Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, are to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Since the wave of vandalism began against Marin businessmen who have continued advertising in the I-J, the striking union has disavowed any connection with the damage.

In a speech before the San Rafael Lions Club on April 15, union organizer Donald H. Abrams said the union would join in the prosecution of any individual arrested and charged with such vandalism.

Union president Leon Olson has also repeatedly disclaimed union connection with damage to stores and attacks on homes of I-J employees.

Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today that he will charge the three men with felony counts of conspiring to commit vandalism.

He said that the slingshots, chunks of lead, brass knuckles and nuts and bolts found in their car as well as a list of Marin businesses will be mentioned in the complaint.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. yesterday on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center after the deputies heard a bulletin from San Rafael police describing broken windows there.

Earlier that night windows of six San Rafael and Novato businesses had been smashed, the latest in a series of such incidents in which about 40 Marin and Southern Sonoma stores have been vandalized.

Students To Pay $850 Damage Bill

The student government at College of Marin has agreed to pay the college $850 which was billed last fall to the Black Students Union for damage following a rock dance on the campus.

The Associated Students voted Tuesday to repay all of the sum not covered by insurance, on grounds the BSU was a student organization and the student government had ultimate responsibility, reported Melanie Annin, co-editor of the College of Marin Times.

The BSU held the dance last Aug. 29 to raise funds for the San Francisco State College legal defense fund. The college reported damage included damaged shrubbery, litter, and cigarette burns on the gymnasium floor.

The BSU attacked the bill as an administration attempt to divide students and discredit the BSU.

The Associated Students last fall stood aside from the BSU-administration dispute.

Rock concerts have been banned on the campus since August's six-band fiasco. The college did not collect damages from the BSU because receipts from the concert reportedly were taken off campus the same night, and the organization treasury did not have $850 to pay.

Strike's Duration

The Independent-Jurnal erred yesterday in reporting — in a story on the arrest of three men in connection with vandalism Tuesday night — that the strike by San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J was ending its sixth month. The strike is entering its sixth month.

Peacock Gap Outfall Line Given Nod

San Rafael Sanitation District's plans to construct an outfall line for the Peacock Gap sewage treatment plant have been accepted by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

John H. Jenks of Palo Alto, consulting engineer, told the district directors yesterday this opened the way to proceed toward construction of the line.

The plant is now operating at capacity, and development in the area has been at a stand still because the city won't issue building permits until the capacity is increased.

Sixty-Trust of Chicago, which wants to develop 102 lots and needs sewer connections, has offered to put up $75,000 to get the line constructed, the loan to be repaid when connection fees are collected.

Directors also agreed that the district should cooperate in a joint study with Ross Valley Sanitary District on long range plans for sanitation facilities, including an outfall line that could serve both districts and San Quentin.

After hearing there could be construction difficulties at the proposed site for a new pumping station at Second and Irwin Streets, directors authorized the staff to consider other sites.

Ex-Marinite Suspected In Devil's Slide Bodies Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — One-time San Rafael male nurse Jaime Sandoval, mystery man in the strange deaths of a Millbrae couple, 10 years ago was arrested yesterday on suspicion of killing two persons whose bodies were discovered Sunday at Devil's Slide, San Mateo County.

San Francisco homicide inspectors said they had "solid evidence" the man and woman were killed in the San Francisco home they shared with the 39-year-old Sandoval, who has served time in the Marin County Jail and San Quentin Prison for sex offenses.

Sandoval was booked on two counts for investigation of murdering Edelmiro Huertas, 63, the man responsible for his parole from San Quentin in 1968, and Carmen Acenzio, 36, Huertas' housekeeper.

Their bullet-riddled bodies were found at the bottom of the 600 foot cliff, called Devil's Slide, wrapped in bed spreads which police said came from Huertas' home.

Huertas, a real estate broker and political leader of San Francisco's Puerto Rican colony, interceded with the California Adult Authority in Sandoval's behalf in gaining the convict's parole in 1968.

Sandoval was serving 2 to 10 years in San Quentin prison after being convicted in 1961 of sexually molesting the two young sons of a couple whose deaths were shrouded in mystery.

He was questioned in 1960 about the death of Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, whom Sandoval had accompanied to Puerto Rico ostensibly to investigate a large inheritance which he was to share with the couple.

Mrs. Douglas vanished in Puerto Rico. Sandoval told authorities she fell from a cliff while the two were walking along the ocean. Her body was never found.

Ten days later, the body of her husband, Donald, was discovered in a car parked on Lucas Valley Road in Lucas Valley. He was dead from carbon monoxide.

His suicide note, however, indicated he felt his wife's death was not an accident and that he had been bilked for $32,000 by Sandoval.

Sandoval subsequently was arrested and convicted for lewd conduct with the couple's two sons.

He spent the next six years in state mental hospitals. He entered San Quentin in 1966.

French Pass Riot Vandalism Bill

PARIS (AP) — The National Assembly today gave 370-94 vote approval to a "he who breaks shall pay" law which the government hopes will curb the destruction of public property as a means of dissension.

It was mostly the Communists and other leftists in the assembly who voted against the controversial measure.

The government introduced the measure after a student demonstration at the Nanterre campus in which hundreds of chairs, tables and windows were broken by students and police.

Ex-Marinite Suspected In Devil's Slide Bodies Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — One-time San Rafael male nurse Jaime Sandoval, mystery man in the strange deaths of a Millbrae couple, 10 years ago was arrested yesterday on suspicion of killing two persons whose bodies were discovered Sunday at Devil's Slide, San Mateo County.

San Francisco homicide inspectors said they had "solid evidence" the man and woman were killed in the San Francisco home they shared with the 39-year-old Sandoval, who has served time in the Marin County Jail and San Quentin Prison for sex offenses.

Sandoval was booked on two counts for investigation of murdering Edelmiro Huertas, 63, the man responsible for his parole from San Quentin in 1968, and Carmen Acenzio, 36, Huertas' housekeeper.

Their bullet-riddled bodies were found at the bottom of the 600 foot cliff, called Devil's Slide, wrapped in bed spreads which police said came from Huertas' home.

Huertas, a real estate broker and political leader of San Francisco's Puerto Rican colony, interceded with the California Adult Authority in Sandoval's behalf in gaining the convict's parole in 1968.

Sandoval was serving 2 to 10 years in San Quentin prison after being convicted in 1961 of sexually molesting the two young sons of a couple whose deaths were shrouded in mystery.

He was questioned in 1960 about the death of Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, whom Sandoval had accompanied to Puerto Rico ostensibly to investigate a large inheritance which he was to share with the couple.

Mrs. Douglas vanished in Puerto Rico. Sandoval told authorities she fell from a cliff while the two were walking along the ocean. Her body was never found.

Ten days later, the body of her husband, Donald, was discovered in a car parked on Lucas Valley Road in Lucas Valley. He was dead from carbon monoxide.

His suicide note, however, indicated he felt his wife's death was not an accident and that he had been bilked for $32,000 by Sandoval.

Sandoval subsequently was arrested and convicted for lewd conduct with the couple's two sons.

He spent the next six years in state mental hospitals. He entered San Quentin in 1966.

French Pass Riot Vandalism Bill

PARIS (AP) — The National Assembly today gave 370-94 vote approval to a "he who breaks shall pay" law which the government hopes will curb the destruction of public property as a means of dissension.

It was mostly the Communists and other leftists in the assembly who voted against the controversial measure.

The government introduced the measure after a student demonstration at the Nanterre campus in which hundreds of chairs, tables and windows were broken by students and police.

Attempt To Thwart The Foe In A Doubtful Situation

In some situations a defender can't be sure of choosing the best play. In such cases it often pays to do whatever declarer doesn't want you to do. A subtle example is furnished in today's hand, played in the 1969 world championships.

TRUMP OPENER

West opened a trump, and declarer drew two rounds. After noting the bad trump break, declarer switched to clubs, losing the king to West's ace. West returned another trump, and South won in his own hand to lead the nine of diamonds.

Why the nine? A defender will usually cover an honor, such as the ten, but may allow a nine or an eight to ride through uncovered. South didn't want to have his diamond covered, so he led the nine rather than the ten.

PLAYS LOW

West couldn't tell what was going on. As it happened, South's nine drove out the king; and South could later lead another diamond to make sure of a trick with dummy's queen. This was all he needed for his contract.

SHOULD COVER

Perhaps West couldn't tell what was going on in diamonds, but he should have known that South was trying to avoid a cover. If only for that reason, West should have covered the nine of diamonds with the jack.

Dummy's queen would lose to the king, and East would return a safe black card. Eventually declarer would have to tackle diamonds again, and he would have to lose two more diamond tricks against careful defense.

A word of warning before you apply this lesson. Some of your opponents don't know what's good for them. If you concentrate on thwarting them, you may do them more good than harm.

Tentative Deadline For Redevelopment

Two representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development last night announced a tentative deadline of Oct. 31 for assurances that Marin City's long-stalled redevelopment project will be completed within two years.

The officials, Allan F. Avery and John Sevy of HUD's urban renewal division in San Francisco, told the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, in charge of Marin City renewal, that the federal government would halt financial aid to the effort if the proposed timetable is not kept.

HUD has already allotted more than $1.3 million to Marin City redevelopment and supports two-thirds of the redevelopment agency's budget A federal pullout would doom the agency and leave its plans in limbo.

However, the Marin City Council has begun a separate renewal effort under a 701 planning program and both the council and the Marin City Community Services District board have announced plans to ask that a proposed $1.6 million tennis and swim center for county residents be located in Marin City to attract new construction.

The redevelopment agency's program, aimed at vacant land in the center of the community and on the ridgeland above, has been delayed for more than five years as a result of differences with the developer and because of the sagging economy.

The builder, Marin Development Corp. (formerly California Development Corp.), has since withdrawn but has failed to come to terms with the agency on reurn or resale of the undeveloped property. The agency has promised a court fight.

While Avery and Sevy acknowledged the Oct. 31 deadline was not a firm one, because it had not been cleared in Washington, they said they had conducted a year-long review of the Marin City situation and had concluded that HUD should insist on "very substantial progress" in the redevelopment effort.

"What we're saying is, if you don't get redevelopment underway..... within a limited period of time . . then it appears in everyone's best interest for the federal government to withdraw," Avery said.

He said he felt the threat was necessary even though conceding HUD was as much to blame for the delay as local officials and residents.

Avery said any new or revised redevelopment plan would require wide community support and added that HUD would need assurances the differences between Marin Development and the redevelopment agency could be resolved within a "very short" space of time beyond Oct. 31.

"We realize we cen be accused of being unrealistic," he said, "but surely the project can be pursued more rapidly than it has been."

Sevy, addressing his remarks to agencies and residents of Marin City, said, "Everybody's on the fire now. You've got to get together now in an unprecedented way."

"This means that someone will have to start tomorrow to arrange the next step instead of waiting until the middle of next week," said Avery.

Agency directors and members of the audience generally welcomed the hard line.

"You should have said it a long time ago," remarked director Juanita S. Cobb. "They're saying to. . .get down to the nitty gritty and that we're at the end of the way. We have to get something going and stop the bunk."

"We can do it," said Wallace K. Shepherd, agency administrative assistant.

Thelma McKinney, a Marin City resident, blamed the delay on the "clandestine-type manner" in which the redevelopment agency has planned Marin City's future and said that with cooperation and communication, "we can come to a more agreeable solution."

Director Richard Harding advised that the first step should be discussion of ways in which the 1956 master plan for the area can be revised.

Applications At 63 For Agency Post

The Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency has received 63 applications for the job of executive director, to be vacated later this year by Donald O. Stutsman.

Stutsman told a meeting of the groups last night that a screening committee would begin reviewing the applications next week.

In other business, the housing authority gave final approval to a revised occupancy policy for public housing units, paid $946 in damages and unpaid rent at leased housing units and deferred action on steps to take in the wake of Tuesday's defeat at the polls of a measure authorizing construction of 600 low income housing units in the county.

The groups will hold their next meeting June 17.

Attorney Takes Helm Of Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edward B. Miller, 48, Chicago, a lawyer with long experience in representing management in labor relations, was sworn in Wednesday as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

President Nixon designated Miller, a Republican, as chairman succeeding Frank W. McCulloch, whose term on the board continues through August. Miller takes the place of Sam Zagoria, a Republican Nixon declined to reappoint. The Democrats have a 3-2 majority on the board.

AFL-CIO president George Meany opposed the appointment of Miller.

Tentative Deadline For Redevelopment

Two representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development last night announced a tentative deadline of Oct. 31 for assurances that Marin City's long-stalled redevelopment project will be completed within two years.

The officials, Allan F. Avery and John Sevy of HUD's urban renewal division in San Francisco, told the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, in charge of Marin City renewal, that the federal government would halt financial aid to the effort if the proposed timetable is not kept.

HUD has already allotted more than $1.3 million to Marin City redevelopment and supports two-thirds of the redevelopment agency's budget A federal pullout would doom the agency and leave its plans in limbo.

However, the Marin City Council has begun a separate renewal effort under a 701 planning program and both the council and the Marin City Community Services District board have announced plans to ask that a proposed $1.6 million tennis and swim center for county residents be located in Marin City to attract new construction.

The redevelopment agency's program, aimed at vacant land in the center of the community and on the ridgeland above, has been delayed for more than five years as a result of differences with the developer and because of the sagging economy.

The builder, Marin Development Corp. (formerly California Development Corp.), has since withdrawn but has failed to come to terms with the agency on reurn or resale of the undeveloped property. The agency has promised a court fight.

While Avery and Sevy acknowledged the Oct. 31 deadline was not a firm one, because it had not been cleared in Washington, they said they had conducted a year-long review of the Marin City situation and had concluded that HUD should insist on "very substantial progress" in the redevelopment effort.

"What we're saying is, if you don't get redevelopment underway..... within a limited period of time . . then it appears in everyone's best interest for the federal government to withdraw," Avery said.

He said he felt the threat was necessary even though conceding HUD was as much to blame for the delay as local officials and residents.

Avery said any new or revised redevelopment plan would require wide community support and added that HUD would need assurances the differences between Marin Development and the redevelopment agency could be resolved within a "very short" space of time beyond Oct. 31.

"We realize we cen be accused of being unrealistic," he said, "but surely the project can be pursued more rapidly than it has been."

Sevy, addressing his remarks to agencies and residents of Marin City, said, "Everybody's on the fire now. You've got to get together now in an unprecedented way."

"This means that someone will have to start tomorrow to arrange the next step instead of waiting until the middle of next week," said Avery.

Agency directors and members of the audience generally welcomed the hard line.

"You should have said it a long time ago," remarked director Juanita S. Cobb. "They're saying to. . .get down to the nitty gritty and that we're at the end of the way. We have to get something going and stop the bunk."

"We can do it," said Wallace K. Shepherd, agency administrative assistant.

Thelma McKinney, a Marin City resident, blamed the delay on the "clandestine-type manner" in which the redevelopment agency has planned Marin City's future and said that with cooperation and communication, "we can come to a more agreeable solution."

Director Richard Harding advised that the first step should be discussion of ways in which the 1956 master plan for the area can be revised.

Applications At 63 For Agency Post

The Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency has received 63 applications for the job of executive director, to be vacated later this year by Donald O. Stutsman.

Stutsman told a meeting of the groups last night that a screening committee would begin reviewing the applications next week.

In other business, the housing authority gave final approval to a revised occupancy policy for public housing units, paid $946 in damages and unpaid rent at leased housing units and deferred action on steps to take in the wake of Tuesday's defeat at the polls of a measure authorizing construction of 600 low income housing units in the county.

The groups will hold their next meeting June 17.

Attorney Takes Helm Of Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edward B. Miller, 48, Chicago, a lawyer with long experience in representing management in labor relations, was sworn in Wednesday as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

President Nixon designated Miller, a Republican, as chairman succeeding Frank W. McCulloch, whose term on the board continues through August. Miller takes the place of Sam Zagoria, a Republican Nixon declined to reappoint. The Democrats have a 3-2 majority on the board.

AFL-CIO president George Meany opposed the appointment of Miller.

Name Is Omitted

The name of Mark Duane Johnson was omitted from the list of graduating seniors at San Marin High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Johnson of 33 Pico Vista, Novato, and will graduate June 11 with the school's first graduating class.

Two Novato City Employees Resign

Novato's director of finance and assistant city engineer have resigned effective June 30, City Manager Charles A. Brown announced today.

Charles L. Foster, director of finance since September 1964, said that he has no plans for the immediate future. He said his resignation was for personal reasons.

William B. Bode was appointed assistant city engineer in March 1964. He was not available for comment.

Money Measures Rejected; How To Tighten Belt

Ballot proposals with dollar marks in them fared badly at the polls Tuesday — not unexpectedly.

Down went state Proposition 1, calling for a quarter-billion-dollar outlay for medical facilities at University of California campuses.

Down to deserved defeat went Proposition 8, which would have called for $1 billion-plus in additional state taxes for schools and welfare.

AND DOWN WENT all but four money measures in Marin County.

San Rafael will be able to go ahead with much-needed sewer improvements, as the city sewer bond issue passed handily, getting over 70 per cent of the vote. But bonds for a new central fire station barely mustered a majority — with two-thirds approval required. And those for a recreation center failed even to gain a majority.

Sausalito will be able to go ahead with purchase of land for a future city hall and library, but Novato cannot purchase park land nor build a recreation center. Novato voters said "no."

Mill Valley School District must wait awhile to sell bonds authorized at 5 per cent maximum interest. Fewer than the necessary two-thirds were willing to have the interest ceiling jacked up to 7 per cent.

TWO OF FIVE school tax increases on Marin ballots succeeded. Ross School District may increase its general operating tax rate by up to $1 per $100 assessed valuation. Lagunitas School District may raise its rate by up to 90 cents.

But proposed tax increases in San Rafael Elementary and High School districts and in Reed School District were defeated — the last-named quite resoundingly.

For the San Rafael Board of Education and the Reed School District trustees, we would like to offer some suggestions regarding the belt-tightening made necessary by these turndowns.

WHEN A SCHOOL TAX increase fails, the result usually is cuts which hurt the children. This should not be. And usually it is unnecessary.

The common results are reduction in bus transportation, larger class sizes, less materials for classroom use, and along with these less upkeep of the school plant.

There are better ways to reduce expenses — ways that will not make the children the victims.

FEW INDEED are the school districts that do not carry top-heavy salary loads for administration and supervision. Both San Rafael districts and the Reed district could reduce expenses in this category — without harming the instruction program one iota.

When school boards approve bills for purchase of books and materials, rarely do they inquire into whether these are for classroom use or merely for the use of the teachers or administrative staff. Many books and periodicals purchased for the latter sit on the shelves looking impressive but doing little good. Many materials are used to turn out wordy reports or create costly displays of no value in the instruction program. Cuts should be made here before taking a penny off materials for the classroom.

There are many other such areas: expensive recruiting practices, needless (and often valueless) conferences for school personnel, administrative detail that constitutes only "paper shuffling," etc., etc. And expenses for athletic supplies should not be overlooked when cuts are to be made.

Reductions in these areas do not hurt the children's education. And that is what the schools are all about — or should be.

Quail Society

The more we see and hear of our indigenous California quail, the more admiration we have for the small fellows.

They seem to have an organized society, in which the adult males scout out watching places and keep watch over the females and their brood of quail chicks. The male calls the signals to the female who is on the ground with the young, leading them and directing traffic. The female in turn keeps up a soft running one-way conversation with the chicks, supposedly so they won't lose track of her and to warn them in case of trouble.

Somehow quail have developed a kind of language. Researchers have been able to find the meaning for 32 sounds the quail makes. Anyone who had a convey of quail in his garden knows the male quail't territorial crowing, his "all is well" and the loud throbbing of his warning signal. In a sense then, we understand rudimentary Quailese. But the ability to speak it is something else.

Bagley Utility Tax Measure Heads For Second Showdown

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley's AB 908, providing for the taxation of utilities operated by the public, gets another test next Tuesday when it will be heard by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure, much opposed by those who think public utilities should operate with all the advantages and none of the struggle encountered by private utilities, has been given majority passage out of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, and was sent to ways and means for approval before going to the floor of the assembly for a test run.

The privately owned public utilities are pushing the bill. The utilities have tired of the tax-free privileges enjoyed by the special district utilities.

The Bagley measure provides that all taxes collected from the publically owned utilities would go to the schools.

To produce the same amount of money for schools which AB 908 will provide, the average homeowner surveys show, would have to pay more in increased real property taxes than he would pay in increased electric rates.

The need of many school districts for additional funds has become quite apparent and if AB 908 fails, schools will have to get raises in property taxes one way or another.

It is estimated that in every city in Northern and Central California owning its own electric services, the homeowner would pay at least twice as much in property taxes to raise the amounts collected for schools by AB 908 as he would pay through his electric bill.

The biggest argument against the Bagley bill is that it would increase electric rates. This argument always carries weight, but there is also the argument that taxes on privately-owned public utilities do not happen to be in equity.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Human Rights Staff Needed

Congratulations to Wat Takeshita for his fine background article on the valuable work done by Austin Thompson and the Marin County Human Rights Department. I was simply aghast to hear of Alan Bruce's suggestion that this department be eliminated for reasons of "economy."

A functioning, fully operating human rights department is one of the minimal services county government must supply under today's circumstances. The suggestion that a commission without staff could fulfill this function is simply a cop-out — we would be creating a "toothless tiger" where a sharp set of teeth is badly needed.

The $50,000 we put out for the human rights department is a mere pittance in terms of what the people of Marin County have been getting in return. Half an hour's rampage can do more damage. The suggestion that we economize in county government by cutting out Austin Thompson and his staff is about as sensible as if a businessman were to "save" the cost of his fire insurance when things get tough. . .

Member Denies 'Crumbs' Comment

Your article on the Marin County Board of Education's May 18 meeting at which time they reviewed the proposal on fiscal independence, quoted me as saying "they're giving us crumbs." This was evidently in reference to some limitations on the proposal suggested by the board of supervisors, i. e., selection of a county superintendent of schools, employment of counsel, etc.

Actually I said nothing of the kind. In fact, after discussing the matter with my fellow members last Monday evening it was the concensus that nothing was said which would suggest that any of us felt that the supervisors' proposal was too restrictive.

It was recalled that Dr. Hollis made some statement such as "they're giving us crumbs" while the rest of his staff seemed supportive of the concept. Consequently, it was because of this apparent difference of opinion between Dr. Hollis and his staff that the matter was referred to the board's administrative services committee.

Then, May 23 in your "brickbat column" the Marin County Board of Education was again chided for finding the proposition of fiscal independence too restrictive as proposed . .

Now, in last night's edition (May 26) an article reports "the Marin County Board of Education may accept after all the 'crumbs' of what it calls 'budget responsibility' ". Since the I-J didn't even have a representative at that meeeting it would seem that the basis for the statement also was from the previous misquotation, as I note the column again refers to a board member's complaint of the county "giving us crumbs."

Also, the article in last night's edition stated that the proposal was referred to committee for redrafting but that the committee made no changes.

As indicated above, the proposal was not referred to committee for redrafting at all. However, by the time it got to committee there were definite changes made by the staff to reconcile their differences . . .

PATRICK W. POLLOCK
Member, Marin County Board of Education
San Anselmo.

(The reporter who covered the May 18 meeting insists that the "crumbs" comment came from the side of the table at which board member Pollock was sitting, not the end at which Superintendent Hollis was sitting; also, that the referral to committee was to work out a new proposal to be presented by the board of education, the words used by board member James A. Carroll being approximately, "Let's give them our proposal, not just take theirs."

Different Class Supports Teacher

We, the undersigned students at Drake High School, oppose the letter printed on your editorial page May 21 by Judy Emis, "New Low Reached in Sick Society." We know both Mr. (Roger T.) Lim and Mrs. (Adina W.) Robinson to be fine people with high moral standards. Mrs. Robinson's family life education class is held under parental permission. And Mr. Lim teaches a very outstanding American Government class; the speakers mentioned are brought in only to show the "other side," not to convert the students, or turn them into Zen Buddhitsts (radicals?). If he doesn't want to follow an out-of-date textbook — well, who could blame him?

Why doesn't Miss Emis listen to more of the students — to the facts — before she jumps to such drastic conclusions?

MARQUIS CHILDS

Last Of Unionism's Idealists Gone With Death Of Reuther

WASHINGTON — There was a time in the dim, if not too distant, past when the trade union movement supplied an element of idealism, of light and leading, in conspicuous contrast to the brash materialism of the robber baron era. Having fought their way into the game with the help of New Deal legislation, the union bosses today are bent on holding what they have and getting more if they can.

This is pointed up by the death of Walter Reuther, one of the last of those who believed that the unions had a goal beyond mere dollars and cents. He supplied the leaven in the great lethargic lump of the AFL-CIO. Pulling out of the federation after years of futile internecine warfare, he sought in a new organization to give the labor movement a broader base and a more generous approach.

HIS SUCCESSOR, Leonard Woodcock, has said in his first public statement that the United Auto Workers will be out to get every penny they can from the crucial negotiations in the industry this fall. This is understandable, since the Big Three simply raise prices and raise them again without regard for the warning flags of inflation in an economy completely dependent on the motorcar. Yet what in another day was called labor statesmanship might have dictated at least polite recognition of the responsibility of both sides in the seesaw of wages and prices.

Reuther insisted in his latter years that collective bargaining should be a lever to enforce lower prices and lower profits on industry. But it was always hard to see, even as he spoke with the eloquence and the intellect that were his hallmarks, how this could come about.

NOW THE PRESIDENT has embraced the hard hats who back him on Cambodia. Privately, the White House is said to have solicited the visit of the spokesmen for the longshoremen and the construction workers. The hard hats directed a savage attack on peaceful young war protesters in Wall Street that injured at least 70, many of whom after being beaten took refuge in Trinity Church.

The building trades unions have been among the most racist in the country. The earnest effort of the Nixon administration to open up training and jobs to blacks under the "Philadelphia Plan" resulted in Chicago in the assault by the hard hats on Negroes assembled in front of the federal building.

The narrow policy on apprenticeships and on labor-saving techniques in the building industry helps to explain the high cost of housing. With the industry benefiting from various forms of government largesse, labor's monopoly has gone unchallenged. Peter J. Brennan, head of the New York Building Trades Council and leader of the group that called on the President, is beginning to initiate long-needed reforms.

THE LONGSHOREMEN'S unions have had a strongly authoritarian cast, with various duchies rivaling the power of the east coast boss, Thomas W. Gleason. Gleason has followed a hard-right line. On the west coast under Harry Bridges the line is to the left, yet employers seem happy since he keeps the industry free of strikes.

Gleason from time to time tries to set the course of American foreign policy by announcing that his men will not unload this or that commodity from the ships of this or that country which meets with his disapproval. He has threatened Yugoslavia and, more recently, Sweden.

With Reuther gone by the tragic mischance of an air crash, it is hard to see where the forward movement, the lift, is to come from. The incentive merely to pay dues to one segment or another of big labor would seem to be small.

Brazilian Torture Claims Spark Inquiry By Church

By DANIEL DROSDOFF

RIO DE Janeiro (UPI)—The Roman Catholic Church in Brazil has waded in where politicians generally fear to tread—the delicate issue of alleged government torture of political prisoners.

The government has indignantly denied that such torture exists.

An official communique said recently that the accusations were inspired by "international agents of subversion and exploited by a morbid and sensationalist sector of the international press."

BUT THE XI GENERAS Assembly of Brazilian Bishops has decided that the accusations are too loud and too strong to ignore.

The conference issued a declaration last week calling on the government to investigate the charges of torture " in the interests of the good name of Brazil."

Charges of torture have been periodically leveled at Brazil's military government since it came to power in a coup d'etat in 1964.

But it wasn't until the kidnaping of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick in September of last year—an event that sparked a massive government crackdown on suspected terrorists—that torture became a major issue.

Four of the accused Elbrick kidnapers stated in court that they were forced to confess under torture, which was said to include electrical shocks.

THE MOST RECENT case was a declaration in court on May 15 by five members of the leftist National Liberation Front that they were tortured by members of the 10th Infantry Battalion in Goiana.

What has even more directly involved the church in the torture controversy have been accusations that some of the 11 priests and seminarians now being held as terrorist suspects have been subjected to torture.

At least two papal investigations have been launched into these charges. Conclusions have not yet been published.

Pope Paul VI publicly expressed hope in a speech last March that "nations dear to us can disprove these acts of police torture that are attributed to them." Though he did not mention Brazil by name, his remark was interpreted as an appeal to the leaders of the largest Roman Catholic country in the world.

IN ITS DEFENSE the Brazilian government has maintained that the charges of torture have been presented without medical evidence to back them up.

It claims that it has given good treatment to prisoners and that the 15 captives exchanged in return for Elbrick were in good condition, as were the five prisoners exchanged for Japanese Consul Nobuo Okuchi, who was kidnaped in April.

The latter five prisoners, however, charged, once they arrived in exile in Mexico, that they had been tortured.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Another form of wastefulness is expenditure of words beyond the income of ideas. — H. F. Heinrichs.

In theory school boards hire administrators to carry out the basic policies of the board and look after the details of running schools, but in practice more often than not the administrators establish the basic policies and the boards worry about the details. — James D. Koerner.

Money Measures Rejected; How To Tighten Belt

Ballot proposals with dollar marks in them fared badly at the polls Tuesday — not unexpectedly.

Down went state Proposition 1, calling for a quarter-billion-dollar outlay for medical facilities at University of California campuses.

Down to deserved defeat went Proposition 8, which would have called for $1 billion-plus in additional state taxes for schools and welfare.

AND DOWN WENT all but four money measures in Marin County.

San Rafael will be able to go ahead with much-needed sewer improvements, as the city sewer bond issue passed handily, getting over 70 per cent of the vote. But bonds for a new central fire station barely mustered a majority — with two-thirds approval required. And those for a recreation center failed even to gain a majority.

Sausalito will be able to go ahead with purchase of land for a future city hall and library, but Novato cannot purchase park land nor build a recreation center. Novato voters said "no."

Mill Valley School District must wait awhile to sell bonds authorized at 5 per cent maximum interest. Fewer than the necessary two-thirds were willing to have the interest ceiling jacked up to 7 per cent.

TWO OF FIVE school tax increases on Marin ballots succeeded. Ross School District may increase its general operating tax rate by up to $1 per $100 assessed valuation. Lagunitas School District may raise its rate by up to 90 cents.

But proposed tax increases in San Rafael Elementary and High School districts and in Reed School District were defeated — the last-named quite resoundingly.

For the San Rafael Board of Education and the Reed School District trustees, we would like to offer some suggestions regarding the belt-tightening made necessary by these turndowns.

WHEN A SCHOOL TAX increase fails, the result usually is cuts which hurt the children. This should not be. And usually it is unnecessary.

The common results are reduction in bus transportation, larger class sizes, less materials for classroom use, and along with these less upkeep of the school plant.

There are better ways to reduce expenses — ways that will not make the children the victims.

FEW INDEED are the school districts that do not carry top-heavy salary loads for administration and supervision. Both San Rafael districts and the Reed district could reduce expenses in this category — without harming the instruction program one iota.

When school boards approve bills for purchase of books and materials, rarely do they inquire into whether these are for classroom use or merely for the use of the teachers or administrative staff. Many books and periodicals purchased for the latter sit on the shelves looking impressive but doing little good. Many materials are used to turn out wordy reports or create costly displays of no value in the instruction program. Cuts should be made here before taking a penny off materials for the classroom.

There are many other such areas: expensive recruiting practices, needless (and often valueless) conferences for school personnel, administrative detail that constitutes only "paper shuffling," etc., etc. And expenses for athletic supplies should not be overlooked when cuts are to be made.

Reductions in these areas do not hurt the children's education. And that is what the schools are all about — or should be.

Quail Society

The more we see and hear of our indigenous California quail, the more admiration we have for the small fellows.

They seem to have an organized society, in which the adult males scout out watching places and keep watch over the females and their brood of quail chicks. The male calls the signals to the female who is on the ground with the young, leading them and directing traffic. The female in turn keeps up a soft running one-way conversation with the chicks, supposedly so they won't lose track of her and to warn them in case of trouble.

Somehow quail have developed a kind of language. Researchers have been able to find the meaning for 32 sounds the quail makes. Anyone who had a convey of quail in his garden knows the male quail't territorial crowing, his "all is well" and the loud throbbing of his warning signal. In a sense then, we understand rudimentary Quailese. But the ability to speak it is something else.

Bagley Utility Tax Measure Heads For Second Showdown

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley's AB 908, providing for the taxation of utilities operated by the public, gets another test next Tuesday when it will be heard by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure, much opposed by those who think public utilities should operate with all the advantages and none of the struggle encountered by private utilities, has been given majority passage out of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, and was sent to ways and means for approval before going to the floor of the assembly for a test run.

The privately owned public utilities are pushing the bill. The utilities have tired of the tax-free privileges enjoyed by the special district utilities.

The Bagley measure provides that all taxes collected from the publically owned utilities would go to the schools.

To produce the same amount of money for schools which AB 908 will provide, the average homeowner surveys show, would have to pay more in increased real property taxes than he would pay in increased electric rates.

The need of many school districts for additional funds has become quite apparent and if AB 908 fails, schools will have to get raises in property taxes one way or another.

It is estimated that in every city in Northern and Central California owning its own electric services, the homeowner would pay at least twice as much in property taxes to raise the amounts collected for schools by AB 908 as he would pay through his electric bill.

The biggest argument against the Bagley bill is that it would increase electric rates. This argument always carries weight, but there is also the argument that taxes on privately-owned public utilities do not happen to be in equity.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Human Rights Staff Needed

Congratulations to Wat Takeshita for his fine background article on the valuable work done by Austin Thompson and the Marin County Human Rights Department. I was simply aghast to hear of Alan Bruce's suggestion that this department be eliminated for reasons of "economy."

A functioning, fully operating human rights department is one of the minimal services county government must supply under today's circumstances. The suggestion that a commission without staff could fulfill this function is simply a cop-out — we would be creating a "toothless tiger" where a sharp set of teeth is badly needed.

The $50,000 we put out for the human rights department is a mere pittance in terms of what the people of Marin County have been getting in return. Half an hour's rampage can do more damage. The suggestion that we economize in county government by cutting out Austin Thompson and his staff is about as sensible as if a businessman were to "save" the cost of his fire insurance when things get tough. . .

Member Denies 'Crumbs' Comment

Your article on the Marin County Board of Education's May 18 meeting at which time they reviewed the proposal on fiscal independence, quoted me as saying "they're giving us crumbs." This was evidently in reference to some limitations on the proposal suggested by the board of supervisors, i. e., selection of a county superintendent of schools, employment of counsel, etc.

Actually I said nothing of the kind. In fact, after discussing the matter with my fellow members last Monday evening it was the concensus that nothing was said which would suggest that any of us felt that the supervisors' proposal was too restrictive.

It was recalled that Dr. Hollis made some statement such as "they're giving us crumbs" while the rest of his staff seemed supportive of the concept. Consequently, it was because of this apparent difference of opinion between Dr. Hollis and his staff that the matter was referred to the board's administrative services committee.

Then, May 23 in your "brickbat column" the Marin County Board of Education was again chided for finding the proposition of fiscal independence too restrictive as proposed . .

Now, in last night's edition (May 26) an article reports "the Marin County Board of Education may accept after all the 'crumbs' of what it calls 'budget responsibility' ". Since the I-J didn't even have a representative at that meeeting it would seem that the basis for the statement also was from the previous misquotation, as I note the column again refers to a board member's complaint of the county "giving us crumbs."

Also, the article in last night's edition stated that the proposal was referred to committee for redrafting but that the committee made no changes.

As indicated above, the proposal was not referred to committee for redrafting at all. However, by the time it got to committee there were definite changes made by the staff to reconcile their differences . . .

PATRICK W. POLLOCK
Member, Marin County Board of Education
San Anselmo.

(The reporter who covered the May 18 meeting insists that the "crumbs" comment came from the side of the table at which board member Pollock was sitting, not the end at which Superintendent Hollis was sitting; also, that the referral to committee was to work out a new proposal to be presented by the board of education, the words used by board member James A. Carroll being approximately, "Let's give them our proposal, not just take theirs."

Different Class Supports Teacher

We, the undersigned students at Drake High School, oppose the letter printed on your editorial page May 21 by Judy Emis, "New Low Reached in Sick Society." We know both Mr. (Roger T.) Lim and Mrs. (Adina W.) Robinson to be fine people with high moral standards. Mrs. Robinson's family life education class is held under parental permission. And Mr. Lim teaches a very outstanding American Government class; the speakers mentioned are brought in only to show the "other side," not to convert the students, or turn them into Zen Buddhitsts (radicals?). If he doesn't want to follow an out-of-date textbook — well, who could blame him?

Why doesn't Miss Emis listen to more of the students — to the facts — before she jumps to such drastic conclusions?

Last Of Unionism's Idealists Gone With Death Of Reuther

WASHINGTON — There was a time in the dim, if not too distant, past when the trade union movement supplied an element of idealism, of light and leading, in conspicuous contrast to the brash materialism of the robber baron era. Having fought their way into the game with the help of New Deal legislation, the union bosses today are bent on holding what they have and getting more if they can.

This is pointed up by the death of Walter Reuther, one of the last of those who believed that the unions had a goal beyond mere dollars and cents. He supplied the leaven in the great lethargic lump of the AFL-CIO. Pulling out of the federation after years of futile internecine warfare, he sought in a new organization to give the labor movement a broader base and a more generous approach.

HIS SUCCESSOR, Leonard Woodcock, has said in his first public statement that the United Auto Workers will be out to get every penny they can from the crucial negotiations in the industry this fall. This is understandable, since the Big Three simply raise prices and raise them again without regard for the warning flags of inflation in an economy completely dependent on the motorcar. Yet what in another day was called labor statesmanship might have dictated at least polite recognition of the responsibility of both sides in the seesaw of wages and prices.

Reuther insisted in his latter years that collective bargaining should be a lever to enforce lower prices and lower profits on industry. But it was always hard to see, even as he spoke with the eloquence and the intellect that were his hallmarks, how this could come about.

NOW THE PRESIDENT has embraced the hard hats who back him on Cambodia. Privately, the White House is said to have solicited the visit of the spokesmen for the longshoremen and the construction workers. The hard hats directed a savage attack on peaceful young war protesters in Wall Street that injured at least 70, many of whom after being beaten took refuge in Trinity Church.

The building trades unions have been among the most racist in the country. The earnest effort of the Nixon administration to open up training and jobs to blacks under the "Philadelphia Plan" resulted in Chicago in the assault by the hard hats on Negroes assembled in front of the federal building.

The narrow policy on apprenticeships and on labor-saving techniques in the building industry helps to explain the high cost of housing. With the industry benefiting from various forms of government largesse, labor's monopoly has gone unchallenged. Peter J. Brennan, head of the New York Building Trades Council and leader of the group that called on the President, is beginning to initiate long-needed reforms.

THE LONGSHOREMEN'S unions have had a strongly authoritarian cast, with various duchies rivaling the power of the east coast boss, Thomas W. Gleason. Gleason has followed a hard-right line. On the west coast under Harry Bridges the line is to the left, yet employers seem happy since he keeps the industry free of strikes.

Gleason from time to time tries to set the course of American foreign policy by announcing that his men will not unload this or that commodity from the ships of this or that country which meets with his disapproval. He has threatened Yugoslavia and, more recently, Sweden.

With Reuther gone by the tragic mischance of an air crash, it is hard to see where the forward movement, the lift, is to come from. The incentive merely to pay dues to one segment or another of big labor would seem to be small.

Brazilian Torture Claims Spark Inquiry By Church

By DANIEL DROSDOFF

RIO DE Janeiro (UPI)—The Roman Catholic Church in Brazil has waded in where politicians generally fear to tread—the delicate issue of alleged government torture of political prisoners.

The government has indignantly denied that such torture exists.

An official communique said recently that the accusations were inspired by "international agents of subversion and exploited by a morbid and sensationalist sector of the international press."

BUT THE XI GENERAS Assembly of Brazilian Bishops has decided that the accusations are too loud and too strong to ignore.

The conference issued a declaration last week calling on the government to investigate the charges of torture " in the interests of the good name of Brazil."

Charges of torture have been periodically leveled at Brazil's military government since it came to power in a coup d'etat in 1964.

But it wasn't until the kidnaping of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick in September of last year—an event that sparked a massive government crackdown on suspected terrorists—that torture became a major issue.

Four of the accused Elbrick kidnapers stated in court that they were forced to confess under torture, which was said to include electrical shocks.

THE MOST RECENT case was a declaration in court on May 15 by five members of the leftist National Liberation Front that they were tortured by members of the 10th Infantry Battalion in Goiana.

What has even more directly involved the church in the torture controversy have been accusations that some of the 11 priests and seminarians now being held as terrorist suspects have been subjected to torture.

At least two papal investigations have been launched into these charges. Conclusions have not yet been published.

Pope Paul VI publicly expressed hope in a speech last March that "nations dear to us can disprove these acts of police torture that are attributed to them." Though he did not mention Brazil by name, his remark was interpreted as an appeal to the leaders of the largest Roman Catholic country in the world.

IN ITS DEFENSE the Brazilian government has maintained that the charges of torture have been presented without medical evidence to back them up.

It claims that it has given good treatment to prisoners and that the 15 captives exchanged in return for Elbrick were in good condition, as were the five prisoners exchanged for Japanese Consul Nobuo Okuchi, who was kidnaped in April.

The latter five prisoners, however, charged, once they arrived in exile in Mexico, that they had been tortured.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Another form of wastefulness is expenditure of words beyond the income of ideas. — H. F. Heinrichs.

In theory school boards hire administrators to carry out the basic policies of the board and look after the details of running schools, but in practice more often than not the administrators establish the basic policies and the boards worry about the details. — James D. Koerner.

Readers Fortunate Some Stories Don't Tell It Quite Like It Is

A lot of people who never go to meetings of local government bodies ask what really goes on, whether the news stories accurately reflect the council deliberations, or the tenor arguments about local issues.

Well, they don't. If they did mirror what went on, our readers would die of boredom and we would need a 400-page paper every day.

If you want to know what really goes on at board meetings, the following is a synthesis:

"MR. CHAIRMAN, in view of what we've just heard from Mrs. Thompson's committee, I'd like to move that we pass a resolution urging the board of supervisors to take over full responsibility for chickweed control and apportion the costs among participating areas."

"Is that a motion, Mr. Smith? If that's a motion, I'll second it."

"It has been moved and seconded. Any discussion?"

"Mr. Chairman, I would move an amendment that the chickweed control program be conducted with only methods that are proven ecologically sound and with non-persistent chemicals."

"I second."

"NOW WAIT a minute. Who's going to decide what's ecological or not? Does that mean we can't use 2,4-D? And it's my opinion that this whole area is out of our jurisdiction. The supervisors are in charge of weed abatement, and it's not a local issue for us to butt in on. We weren't elected to decide about chickweed control, and I . . ."

"You're out of order Mr. Wilson. It's been moved and seconded — I mean and amendment is before the floor, and we have to discuss that before . . ."

Mr. Chairman, I'll withdraw my amendment if Mr. Wilson wants to discuss the question of our authority to act."

"Well, I won't withdraw my second. Call for the question."

"That's not debatable. Madame secretary, will you call the roll?"

"WHAT ARE WE voting on?"

"The amendment. Will you read the amendment?"

"That the supervisors be — that the chickweed control program be conducted with only — by the supervisors with only ecologicay sound and non-pertinent chemicals."

"That's non-persistent."

"May we have a show of hands on the amendment? All those in favor . . .is your hand up, Mr. Wilson ? That's three . . .those opposed? That's three.

"The vote is three to three and the amendment fails of passage."

"AS I WAS saying before, this is a county matter and we can't speak for our constituents in this kind of thing. I don't even think we're authorized to vote on it."

"That's pretty short-sighted, Mr. Wilson. After all, our people have chickweed and they pay county taxes too. It's our duty to express our feelings on this matter."

"Mr. chairman, I feel we should not only . . . I move, I mean I move an amendment that we distribute copies of this resolution to all other local governing bodies in the county and ask them to join us in asking the board of supervisors to take up this program."

"Second."

"Call for the question."

"SHOULDN'T THIS come after we vote on the resolution?"

"It's not debatable. The roll, madame secretary?"

"I'm not sure what we're voting on. Is it the amendment, or the resolution?"

"The amendment. A show of hands should be enough, those in favor? That's four hands, those against? One . . Mr. Wilson, you're abstaining?"

"That's right."

"I think there's been enough debate on the question, Mr. chairman, I call for the question on the resolution."

"Wat a minute now, do we want this to relate to chickweed only, or the whole weed thing? I don't think we really know what we're voting on yet."

"I'm sorry, the question has been called, madame secretary, I think we'd better have a roll call on this, would you call the roll?"

A Very Depressing Column About Latest Parlor Game

WASHINGTON — The latest parlor game to catch on in the United States is called "depression." Not since "charades" took the country by storm has there been anything to compare with "depression." The object of the game, which can be played indoors and out, at cocktail parties, dinners, soda fountains or any other place, is to depress the other person more than he depresses you.

Most readers have been playing the game without even realizing it.

THIS IS HOW it goes:

Jones at a cocktail party serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Evans returns serve. "The kids just don't give a damn about anything."

Jones hits it back. "They have no respect and no values."

Evans at the net. "If they didn't have everything handed to them on a platter, they wouldn't be so ready to attack the system."

JONES AIMING for the sidelines. "They ought to get some education before they start telling us how to run things."

Evans making a great save. "What they need is a haircut and a bath."

Jones lobs it back. "They want to talk, but they won't listen."

Evans returns it. "We're in a helluva mess."

Jones swings and misses. "You can say that again."

EVANS WON the game because he depressed Jones more than Jones depressed him. But it was very close.

"Depression'" has also become the most popular game with college and high school students. Here's a mixed-doubles match at a coffee house.

Sophomore serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Junior retrieves it. "Nobody understands us."

Sophomore's date. "I can't stand talking to my parents any more."

Junior's date returns ball. "All they can think about is money, money, money."

Sophomore returns with backhand. "We have nothing to live for."

Junior slams it back. "We can't make any plans for the future."

SOPHOMORE'S DATE runs for the ball. "Nobody gives a damn about us."

Junior's date in backcourt. "Nobody loves us."

Sohpomore hits it back. "All they can say is 'get a haircut.' "

Junior returns it. "They're all hypocrites."

Sophomore's date. "I wish I were dead."

Junior's date. "I wish I were more dead than you were dead."

Sophomore. "We're all going to be dead whether we want to be or not."

THIS MATCH happened to be a tie, so it was agreed the couples would have a play off the following evening at the same time.

While the game is being played all over the United States (will we ever forget those matches on Wall Street last month?), Washington is still considered the superbowl of "depression," and you can't go anywhere in this town without someone wanting to play.

If someone tries to get you depressed about the war, you can get him depressed about inflation. And if he attempts to get you depressed about dissent, you can get him depressed about the administration.

There are so many subjects to choose from in Washington that it's getting almost impossible to depress somebody more than he depresses you.

Promise Of Balance In Fall Term

Pacheco School, which serves Raphael Village in the Novato Unified School District, was racially imbalanced last December, but should not be when school opens this fall, according to Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

The trouble is that the population of Raphael Village, all Hamilton Air Force Base personnel, fluctuates from month-to-month, he said. The state law requires that no school have more than 15 per cent more minority races than the average of the district, Mobley said.

"Sometimes we would have a variation of 6 per cent per month at Pacheco School," he said yesterday.

Mobley told the school board last December that he would have a plan this month to alleviate the situation next school year.

The district, which rented a portable classroom at the Loma Verde School, will not next school year, and a kindergarten class at Loma Verde will move to Pacheco, he said.

"With the addition of this class, we hope to have the racial balance within the state requirements next year," he said.

Mobley reported this to the state Department of Education on Monday, he said.

THIS IS HOW it goes:

Jones at a cocktail party serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Evans returns serve. "The kids just don't give a damn about anything."

Jones hits it back. "They have no respect and no values."

Evans at the net. "If they didn't have everything handed to them on a platter, they wouldn't be so ready to attack the system."

JONES AIMING for the sidelines. "They ought to get some education before they start telling us how to run things."

Evans making a great save. "What they need is a haircut and a bath."

Jones lobs it back. "They want to talk, but they won't listen."

Evans returns it. "We're in a helluva mess."

Jones swings and misses. "You can say that again."

EVANS WON the game because he depressed Jones more than Jones depressed him. But it was very close.

"Depression" has also become the most popular game with college and high school students. Here's a mixed-doubles match at a coffee house.

Sophomore serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Junior retrieves it. "Nobody understands us."

Sophomore's date. "I can't stand talking to my parents any more."

Junior's date returns ball. "All they can think about is money, money, money."

Sophomore returns with backhand. "We have nothing to live for."

Junior slams it back. "We can't make any plans for the future."

SOPHOMORE'S DATE runs for the ball. "Nobody gives a damn about us."

Junior's date in backcourt. "Nobody loves us."

Sohpomore hits it back. "All they can say is 'get a haircut.' "

Junior returns it. "They're all hypocrites."

Sophomore's date. "I wish I were dead."

Junior's date. "I wish I were more dead than you were dead."

THIS MATCH happened to be a tie, so it was agreed the couples would have a play off the following evening at the same time.

While the game is being played all over the United States (will we ever forget those matches on Wall Street last month?), Washington is still considered the superbowl of "depression," and you can't go anywhere in this town without someone wanting to play.

If someone tries to get you depressed about the war, you can get him depressed about inflation. And if he attempts to get you depressed about dissent, you can get him depressed about the administration.

There are so many subjects to choose from in Washington that it's getting almost impossible to depress somebody more than he depresses you.

OSLO (UPI) — Crown Princess Sonja of Norway, the commoner daughter of an Oslo dressmaker who married Crown Prince Harald in August, 1968, is expecting her first child in January or February, the Royal Palace said Wednesday night.

Promise Of Balance In Fall Term

Pacheco School, which serves Raphael Village in the Novato Unified School District, was racially imbalanced last December, but should not be when school opens this fall, according to Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

The trouble is that the population of Raphael Village, all Hamilton Air Force Base personnel, fluctuates from month-to-month, he said. The state law requires that no school have more than 15 per cent more minority races than the average of the district, Mobley said.

"Sometimes we would have a variation of 6 per cent per month at Pacheco School," he said yesterday.

Mobley told the school board last December that he would have a plan this month to alleviate the situation next school year.

The district, which rented a portable classroom at the Loma Verde School, will not next school year, and a kindergarten class at Loma Verde will move to Pacheco, he said.

"With the addition of this class, we hope to have the racial balance within the state requirements next year," he said.

Mobley reported this to the state Department of Education on Monday, he said.

Hub Budget Jumps For Public Safety

The San Anselmo City Council took its first whacks at the 1970-71 budget of $1,365,475 last night, but instead of cutting added $23,200 to the tentative fire department budget and $11,225 to the tentative police budget.

Councilmen agreed with Fire Chief Frank Sousa that a new fire engine will be needed and added $23,000 toward its purchase over a two-year span. The machine will cost $42,000, more if it is diesel powered, Sousa said.

Also restored to the budget was $200 for a 15-foot hose and couplings.

Tentatively restored to the police budget were $2,600 for a patrol car, $200 for fitting it, $6,825 to hire a dispatcher-clerk, $1,400 more for a training course and $200 for painting walls at headquarters.

The 10 and 15 per cent salary increases requested by both departments were left open for future discussion by negotiating teams, but Mayor James F. Reed promised anxious officers the salaries would be set as soon as possible. The council agreed any raise would be made retroactive to next July 1 if that is legally possible.

City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel told the council its additions to his budget recommendations would add approximately 12 cents to the property tax rate, which he had projected at the present $2.255 per $100.

While the council did not restore to the budget $200,000 sought by Police Chief Raymond Buchignani for a public safety building, councilmen agreed steps must be taken toward financing such a building or an entire new city hall. Reed and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro disagreed on planning methods, Capurro saying no more outside surveys or studies are needed. Kaeppel was directed to consult with San Rafael officials on their successful bond issue election and how it was planned.

The council also tentatively approved without change budgets of $5,241 for the city council, $15,660 for the city administrator, $17,218 for the city clerk, $14,744 for the finance officer, $630 for the treasurer, and $13,939 for the city attorney.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall. Next budget session will be at 7:30 p.m. June 11 at city hall.

Tiburon Councilmen Seek Better Sessions

The Tiburon City Council met as an informal committee of the whole last night to discuss ways of streamlining its meetings and of gaining better working relationships with city officials.

The rambling, open-ended discussion centered on suggestions for efficient utilization of the city manager's staff, the planning and parks and recreation commissions, and citizen advisory committees.

Councilman Albert H. Sennett suggested that all city suspense calendars be publicized so that city officials in different departments would know what each is doing. This could eliminate much duplication among departments, he said, and also keep the council apprised of current department projects.

The council's own committee system was questioned by Councilman Carlisle Becker. "The council has become overburdened with staff functions such as information gathering," he said. "There should be a sharp distinction between staff and council functions."

City Manager Lawrence D. Rose agreed, suggesting that his staff take over more of the preliminary research now being done by council committees. "You might want to experiment with reversing the flow of work," he said. "Right now you're overtaxing the committees and undertaxing the staff."

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood suggested that the first 15 minutes of each council meeting be set aside for questions from the audience instead of holding questions until the end of the meeting, which, she says, discourages people from remaining to speak to the council. She and Becker also agreed that perhaps the council should meet four times a month instead of the present two, and that one of these meetings be conducted as a town meeting to encourage increased citizen participation.

The meeting broke up only 15 minutes after its scheduled time limit. Another meeting as a committee of the whole meeting is planned later this month, the exact date to be decided later.

Eight Dodge compact model 1971 trucks were recalled for inspection of the automatic speed control anchor bracket assembly.

Nation's Economic Slowdown Makes Summers Jobs Scarcer

The carefree days of youth may be even more carefree this summer. Many working-age students won't be able to find jobs.

Jobs will be scarcer than ever for many hundreds of thousands of students because of the nation's economic slowdown.

The competition will be especially steep for the youth who seeks a job for his three months out of school, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. The requisites include ability, luck and connections.

Between April and July of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that 2.7 million students will enter the labor market along with one million high school and college graduates. And about 650,000 jobseekers in the 16-to-21 year old range are expected to go unemployed.

WHAT DOES THIS mean for a student? For many, it means a substantial cutback in their plans to put aside some money for college.

Businesses, forced to make economy cuts due to falling sales, are eliminating many summer positions. This means fewer jobs and more competition.

Summertime employment, for those who find it, however, can be either rewarding or a virtual drudge. Many young men discover their best opportunities and highest pay as construction laborers or farm and factory workers. These jobs make up 46 per cent of summertime employment among males 16 to 21, according to the Labor Department.

While physical jobs tend to take precedence over office jobs for males, the opposite holds true for young women. They find their best work opportunities in clerical positions, with 40 per cent of girls employed last summer as secretaries, file clerks, stenographers and "girl Fridays."

Career-minded students often try to work in their chosen field during the summer. For these jobs, which are scarcer and harder to get, those who made a very early application usually won them.

Future journalists opt for any kind of job on a daily or weekly newspaper and students contemplating a medical future vie for hospital work.

Youngsters who want to work while living at the beach can find that these jobs are already filled. Lifeguard, resort waitressing and seaside refuse collecting jobs are among the hardest to get.

Many young persons are not only seeking summer work but are looking for a job they can continue during the school year.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that in October, 1968, one of every five workers across the nation was 16 to 24 years old, with student workers numbering nearly 5 million. That figure showed a 100 per cent increase since October, 1960.

College and high school placement offices still get a trickle of job tips and many students seek out temporary job agencies, which send workers out on a day-to-day basis. The salaries are minimal but the work is usually steady if work skills are good.

EXOTIC OCCUPATIONS still beckon to some youngsters, although there is not usually much money involved. Summer stock work draws theater aspirants to the stock circuits of New England, Pennsylvania and Southern California. Nearly every state has its historic center and tour guide positions open up for local students well in advance of the season. Political campaigns usually muster arms during the summer months preceding an election and can use young persons. However,

PASTA P-ZAZZ is the name of the evening of spaghetti and song being given by the Marin Chapter of SweetAdeline, Saturday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. The chapter members will serve a spaghetti and salad dinner beginning at 6:30 p.m. and open the curtains on the entertainment at 8:30.

The event will be the first social activity of the new year for the group and will celebrate the 15th anniversary of the founding of the local chapter.

Mrs. John H. Steele of Mill Valley, president, is in charge of the entertainment and has arranged for a varied program of music and skits. The chapter chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Dorsey Mendenhall of Pleasant Hill, will sing the songs they performed in Reno as part of the annual chorus competition last March.

Mrs. John Maillard of Reedlands and Mrs. Howard Henry of Fairfax are chairmen and reservations chairmen. Mrs. Louis Liberati of Larkspur is in charge of the dinner.

THE GERMAN Language School of Marin will have as its closing session a public songfest and kaffee klatsch Saturday at 11:30 a.m. All classes will be performing on the program, under the direction of folk song teacher, Mrs. Forest M. THE WORLD of astrology will set the theme for a dinner dance presented by the Marin Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, to be held Saturday at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

To add to the mood of mystery the only lights provided during dancing will be by a revolving crystal ball. The group will present Madame Tanya, who will entertain guests by reading their palms during the evening.

Nation's Economic Slowdown Makes Summers Jobs Scarcer

The carefree days of youth may be even more carefree this summer. Many working-age students won't be able to find jobs.

Jobs will be scarcer than ever for many hundreds of thousands of students because of the nation's economic slowdown.

The competition will be especially steep for the youth who seeks a job for his three months out of school, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. The requisites include ability, luck and connections.

Between April and July of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that 2.7 million students will enter the labor market along with one million high school and college graduates. And about 650,000 jobseekers in the 16-to-21 year old range are expected to go unemployed.

WHAT DOES THIS mean for a student? For many, it means a substantial cutback in their plans to put aside some money for college.

Businesses, forced to make economy cuts due to falling sales, are eliminating many summer positions. This means fewer jobs and more competition.

Summertime employment, for those who find it, however, can be either rewarding or a virtual drudge. Many young men discover their best opportunities and highest pay as construction laborers or farm and factory workers. These jobs make up 46 per cent of summertime employment among males 16 to 21, according to the Labor Department.

Marin Women

While physical jobs tend to take precedence over office jobs for males, the opposite holds true for young women. They find their best work opportunities in clerical positions, with 40 per cent of girls employed last summer as secretaries, file clerks, stenographers and "girl Fridays."

Career-minded students often try to work in their chosen field during the summer. For these jobs, which are scarcer and harder to get, those who made a very early application usually won them.

Future journalists opt for any kind of job on a daily or weekly newspaper and students contemplating a medical future vie for hospital work.

Youngsters who want to work while living at the beach can find that these jobs are already filled. Lifeguard, resort waitressing and seaside refuse collecting jobs are among the hardest to get.

Many young persons are not only seeking summer work but are looking for a job they can continue during the school year.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that in October, 1968, one of every five workers across the nation was 16 to 24 years old, with student workers numbering nearly 5 million. That figure showed a 100 per cent increase since October, 1960.

College and high school placement offices still get a trickle of job tips and many students seek out temporary job agencies, which send workers out on a day-to-day basis. The salaries are minimal but the work is usually steady if work skills are good.

EXOTIC OCCUPATIONS still beckon to some youngsters, although there is not usually much money involved. Summer stock work draws theater aspirants to the stock circuits of New England, Pennsylvania and Southern California. Nearly every state has its historic center and tour guide positions open up for local students well in advance of the season. Political campaigns usually muster arms during the summer months preceding an election and can use young persons. However,

This is a feast.

Fashion's the same way now. So much to choose from. You could gobble it all up at once or pick your favorites and savor them slowly. We're for the slow savoring. The careful selecting. So that you don't end up clanking in chains or smothering in scarves. Good restaurants serve small portions. It works in fashion too. A few well-chosen things for the kind of life you lead. Come sit down to our feast. We've quite a menu to choose from. And be picky.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Does He Need A Psychiatrist Because He Does What Others Do?

DEAR HELEN:

My parents think I need a psychiatrist because of the things I do, which are:

1. I cut school sometimes. Most of the kids do. It's no big thing.

2. I've tried pot, not to escape reality as my mother thinks, but because all the kids around here do it.

3. I lie as an excuse to go out nights. I really want to tell my parents where I'm going, but chances are 10-to-one they'd say "No" so why bother?

4. I've stayed out all night a few times. Nothing wrong happened. I go no farther than making out.

5. Once in a while I get drunk. Everybody does. After all, I'm 16.

I just want to have fun and be like the other kids. If that's abnormal, then there are a lot of wacky teen-agers running around.

Do you think I'm in need of a head shrinker? — T.G.

DEAR T.:

No, but you could do with a mind of your own. A sheep is normal, by sheep standards, but that doesn't keep him from following the others right over a cliff — because everybody does it.

Read on:

DEAR HELEN:

I always figured I was a cool head. I knew when to stop, though it was kind of fun, testing. Besides, the kids would think I was square if I didn't drink or smoke when everybody did.

About two months ago I went to a party and either drank too much or else somebody put something in my drink. I don't remember what happened. Now I'm pregnant.

I confronted my boy friend, who took me to the party, and he said I left him for a stranger in town. I don't know if he's lying or not, but he won't take any responsibility.

For a girl who thought she was smart, how could I be so stupid? I plan to run away because I can't face my parents. They were so thrilled because I'd been accepted this fall at one of the best universities. — HATING HERSELF

DEAR H.H.:

You can't run away from a problem that goes right along with you. Tell your parents, and get in touch with the Planned Parenthood Association in your city. They're there to help you. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read the letter from "Heartbroken Mother" and it could have been written by my mother a year ago.

I did the same thing — ran away without even leaving a note. I thought I couldn't stand my parents, but it turned out it was myself I couldn't stand.

I went through some very bad times, and I did a lot of thinking. After four months my parents found me, and I learned how much they really cared. And how terribly I had hurt them.

It isn't all roses at home — there's never a completely happy ending except in story books, but we're doing a lot better. And I'll never, never knowingly make anyone this unhappy again. — FORMER RUNAWAY

Pull Those Bits And Pieces Together Into New Wardrobe

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

Are you one of those people who have a wardrobe full of bits and pieces that just hang there, somehow, and never get worn? The odd skirt that's so useful, but so dull, the sweater that never quite seems to go with anything, the dress that does nothing for you?

The sensible thing to do, of course, is to fling them out, firmly and just stick to the clothes that you really enjoy wearing, but it seems wicked, somehow, to send them unloved and unwanted to a jumble sale if they're hardly worn. Another althernative, of course, is to swap them with rejects from your friends, but this can end up with recriminations on both sides with someone, at least, swearing she got the worst of the bargain.

A good trick, if you've a little cash to spare but not too much, is to lay everything out on the bedroom floor, take a good look at it all — then pick on a common denominator color that would link all the separates and turn them into "togethers'. Black accessories for instance, or a colorful suede fringed belt, Indian style, will very often make a very plain sweater and skirt into an outfit that looks as though it has been planned.

Another kind of clothes fatigue that I've spotted just lately is of another kind — man-made fibres if they're laundered frequently, particularly in a washing machine, can suddenly become tired out, even if they are not actually worn out. White garments get that grayish tinge, clingy sweaters suddenly don't cling anymore, but sag alarmingly. I've got a sleeveless one with armholes that now gape right down to the waist! And pleated skirts lose the knife edges to their pleats.

What's to be done about it? In the first place if you buy anything in a man-made fibre that you cherish and want to live with for a long time, don't put it in the washing machine too often, take the little extra trouble to dunk it in suds by hand. White clothes that become dingy can quite easily be brightened up by soaking in a special solution for that purpose. And be careful when you dry your man-made clothes. Don't hang them up unless the manufacturer specifically suggests this, dry them flat, instead, on a towel. Too many knitted garments in synthetics have a nasty tendency to 'grow' if they are plonked dripping wet on the washing line.

The other thing you can do to prevent fatigue is to buy wisely — make sure that the man-mades you buy in the first place are of a good quality and style. The makers of some fibres are so confident about the ability of their product to stand up to strain that they actually have a wear-dated guarantee for approved merchandise — which means that they will actually give you your money back if you don't have a year's fair wear out of the garments you buy. Garments covered by this promise are mainly knitted styles — trouser outfits both casual and tailored and long lean sweaters, some of them with belts, or, the very opposite chopped off tops designed to show your midriff. Finding the clothes is simple — they're in everyone's local store, you simply have to look for the label.

Although money is an estimable product of summertime activity, some students gain inestimable profits through ventures that don't provide a lot of cash. For instance, a shy youth may gain self-confidence and poise by working as a store clerk or usher and being before the public. Camp counseling may result in early maturity and ability in dealing with young children. Domestic jobs, gardening, painting, cooking and serving food may prove a boon in later life when the student marries and has his own family.

Women Must Stand United On Goals, Says NOW Leader

By BARBARA HOSMER

Women should stand together on the positive issues of women's liberation and not waste their energy criticizing factions of the movement, Aileen Hernandez, national president of the National Organization for Women, said in San Francisco Tuesday night.

She responded to the May 22 press conference when five traditional women's organization spokesmen criticized the clenched fist symbol of some of the factions, saying "we should emphasize the positive goals — full equality for all human beings" — and not spend time carping that the traditional women's clubs are too conservative on women's issues or that others are too militant.

The liberation movement is for all women, she told the San Francisco Chapter of NOW. Making enemies of others in the movement wastes time when women should get on with action on the Equal Rights Amendment in Congress and A.B. 22 to add the world "sex" to the state Fair Employment Practices Act, Miss Hernandez said.

"Outsiders tried to divide the black freedom movement in the same way," she said.

"How to organize more women to understand what the women's equality movement is about is the job. Passing the Equal Rights Amendment is only the first step in a long trip," she said. "Campaigning against bras and demonstrating at the Miss America contest are valid, but that's not really the movement."

She urged support of the Equal Rights Amendment and A. B. 22. Also the state abortion initiative and S. B. 544, the Beilenson bill to eliminate legal restrictions on abortion, set for hearing on June 22 in Sacramento.

She also urged support for child care centers, the placement of women in important political and other decision-making positions, and encouraged women to insist on more than clerical work in political campaigns. She said that blacks and women should work together to totally open up the U.S. employment situation.

Traditional club spokesmen who criticized the women's liberation "clenched fist" May 22 were from the California Business and Professional Women, the state American Association of University Women, Soroptimists Club and the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

AAUW Honor Given To Mrs. Ruth M. Jones

Mrs. Ruth Murray Jones was awarded a life membership in the American Association of University Women by the Marin Branch at a banquet held Tuesday night at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Jones' contributions to AAUW have been varied and continuous since she was one of 50 charter members when the Marin Branch was established in 1932. She served as president from 1937 to 1939 and was one of the founders of the creative writing workshop, which continues today as the poetry workshop.

In 1958 a $500 international study grant was given by AAUW in her name.

A prolific poet, Mrs. Jones has been published and earned prizes throughout the world.

She is also active in the Ina Coolbrith Circle, the oldest literary organization in California; California Chapparal Poets; and the Browning Society. Her poems appear in the Independent-Journal and the Carmel Pine Cone and many other publications in this country, Europe and Asia.

Her current project is helping Gen. Tang Zi-Chang translate from the Chinese books of classic poetry, military history and philosophy to be used by Asian studies departments and university libraries throughout the world.

Ruth Murray was born in Sonoma County and attended the Watkins School, now a state monument, and the University of Nevada. She is the wife of the late Victor W. Jones, who was chairman of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department. Mrs. Jones has three children, eight grandchildren and is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Finn Elected

MRS. JOHN FINN III

Mrs. John Finn of Mill Valley, new president of the Juvenile Court Auxiliary, asks for volunteers to help rehabilitate juvenile offenders.

"There is no way the county can afford enough professional probation officers to lick the rehabilitation problem. Lock-ups do not accomplish rehabilitation. We need a large number of volunteers to work on a one-to-one basis with probationers," says Parnel Finn.

She has served on the boards of the Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, Crippled Children Scoiety, the Marin Circle of Florence Crittenton Home, the Marin Hearing and Speech Center, Marin Music Chest and Symphony Guild of Marin as well as an early participant in the Girl Scouts and the Outdoor Art Club.

Other officers of the Juvenile Court Auxiliary are Mmes. James Adams, vice president; Bryce Anderson, recording secretary; Malcolm Finley, corresponding secretary and Sterling Bradley, administrative secretary and treasurer.

County Staff Agrees To 5 Per Cent Raise

A 5 per cent salary raise from July 1 is provided in a new contract worked out between the Marin County Employees Association and the county negotiating team headed by County Administer Alan Bruce.

The agreement will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday for approval.

The salary raise represents a slight gain for the employees association over the previous county offer of 2.5 per cent in July and another 2.5 per cent raise next January. Under the new agreement, the 5 per cent will come in July, and none in January.

However, Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the employees association, declared that his group is unhappy with the new proposal because several "provisos" which the association had requested were turned down by Bruce. Prevo refused to disclose what those "provisos" were.

"We are accepting the new agreement with extreme reluctance, only because we realize this is a tough budget year" said Prevo. "We hope to get fairer treatment next year."

Other changes made in the new agreement include these:

1. An increase of $5 per month for full-time employees in the county's contribution to employee insurance programs.

2. Holidays will conform to state law effective next January. For example, the third Monday in February (instead of Feb. 22) and the last Monday in May (instead of May 30) will be holidays. At present, if holidays fall on Saturdays, county employees got only one of two such holidays. Under the new agreement, employees will get a Friday off if the holiday falls on Saturday and Monday off if the holiday falls on Sunday.

3. Removes the 120-day limit on sick leave accumulation.

4. Clarifies and simplifies provisions for overtime, standby, and call-back, and adds provisions for meals in certain overtime situations.

Kennel Club Puppy Match On June 14

The Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club will stage its annual all-breed puppy and all-age fun match in Corte Madera's Town Park June 14 beginning at 9 a.m.

Puppies and mature dogs will compete for ribbons and trophies in 10 conformation and three or more obedience rings, according to John Jorgensen, president of Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club. The match is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club.

Judges include Stan Hansen and Thomas Brewer, both of San Anselmo; L. Paul Putnam, Joe Brusati, Helen Blair, Phyllis Greer and Jeff Greer, all of Novato; Juanita Howard, Lafayette; James Carroo, Pacifica; Larry Worth, San Carlos; Mary Lou Plinsky, San Jose; Frank Abarta, Sunnyvale; Roy Stenmark and Jean Bobbitt, San Francisco; Ron Giorgi of Corte Madera, Bob Franceschi and Emily Swanson.

Novato Summer School Signups Are Extended

Deadline for registering for Novato Unified School District's summer school has been extended until next Monday, Assist. Supt. Paul C. Mobley has announced.

Because of late applications and parental inquiries about the program, registration, supposed to close last Thursday, was extended he said. The junior and senior high school programs start on June 22 and the elementary on June 29. Both will end on July 31.

County Staff Agrees To 5 Per Cent Raise

A 5 per cent salary raise from July 1 is provided in a new contract worked out between the Marin County Employees Association and the county negotiating team headed by County Administer Alan Bruce.

The agreement will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday for approval.

The salary raise represents a slight gain for the employees association over the previous county offer of 2.5 per cent in July and another 2.5 per cent raise next January. Under the new agreement, the 5 per cent will come in July, and none in January.

However, Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the employees association, declared that his group is unhappy with the new proposal because several "provisos" which the association had requested were turned down by Bruce. Prevo refused to disclose what those "provisos" were.

"We are accepting the new agreement with extreme reluctance, only because we realize this is a tough budget year" said Prevo. "We hope to get fairer treatment next year."

Other changes made in the new agreement include these:

1. An increase of $5 per month for full-time employees in the county's contribution to employee insurance programs.

2. Holidays will conform to state law effective next January. For example, the third Monday in February (instead of Feb. 22) and the last Monday in May (instead of May 30) will be holidays. At present, if holidays fall on Saturdays, county employees got only one of two such holidays. Under the new agreement, employees will get a Friday off if the holiday falls on Saturday and Monday off if the holiday falls on Sunday.

3. Removes the 120-day limit on sick leave accumulation.

4. Clarifies and simplifies provisions for overtime, standby, and call-back, and adds provisions for meals in certain overtime situations.

Kennel Club Puppy Match On June 14

The Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club will stage its annual all-breed puppy and all-age fun match in Corte Madera's Town Park June 14 beginning at 9 a.m.

Puppies and mature dogs will compete for ribbons and trophies in 10 conformation and three or more obedience rings, according to John Jorgensen, president of Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club. The match is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club.

Judges include Stan Hansen and Thomas Brewer, both of San Anselmo; L. Paul Putnam, Joe Brusati, Helen Blair, Phyllis Greer and Jeff Greer, all of Novato; Juanita Howard, Lafayette; James Carroo, Pacifica; Larry Worth, San Carlos; Mary Lou Plinsky, San Jose; Frank Abarta, Sunnyvale; Roy Stenmark and Jean Bobbitt, San Francisco; Ron Giorgi of Corte Madera, Bob Franceschi and Emily Swanson.

Novato Summer School Signups Are Extended

Deadline for registering for Novato Unified School District's summer school has been extended until next Monday, Assist. Supt. Paul C. Mobley has announced.

Because of late applications and parental inquiries about the program, registration, supposed to close last Thursday, was extended he said. The junior and senior high school programs start on June 22 and the elementary on June 29. Both will end on July 31.

A Big Financial Risk In Baseball, Say Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had the money to invest in a major league sport would you buy a baseball team or a pro football club?

If you answered baseball you are probably being emotional. Purchasing a pro football club involves less financial risk.

That, at least, might be the lesson learned from testimony Wednesday in the Curt Flood case as baseball paraded three club owners to the stand as defense witnesses to support the sport's contention that the reserve system is necessary to its operation.

DIFFERENCES

Two of the owners, Francis Dale of the Cincinnati Reds, and Bob Reynolds of the California Angels, also have been involved in pro football ownership and cited the major difference between the sports as being in the area of player development.

"Investment in a pro football team involves less risk," said Dale, who also has an interest in pro football's Cincinnati Bengals, after he had completed testifying.

"The nature of the investment is different—it goes for different things. Pro football doesn't have a farm system to support and there is no lag of three to four years before a player who is signed can make contributions at the major league level."

$1 MILLION

Dale, Reynolds and John McHale, of the Montreal Expos, all estimated that their clubs would spend approximately $1 million on player development and acquisition this season and needed the safeguard of the reserve system to assure a return to their investment.

Dale said on the stand he didn't think baseball could operate successfully with pro football's contract clause in which a player can play out his option and become a free agent.

"I would not be willing to invest $350,000 to $400,000 to bring a player to the major league level and then find I might lose him after a year," said Dale. "The ownership system would break down."

Reynolds, a former part owner of pro football Los Angeles Rams, also cited player development as the major difference between the sports.

"In football, college is the proving ground and the players come right into the majors," said Reynolds. "It happens that way with baseball players very seldom. They must be trained and go through the farm system."

All three owners said they had invested in their clubs only with the knowledge that baseball has certain anti-trust exemptions and would not invest if the sport did not have such exemptions because of financial risk.

The point is vital to the defense, which contends that potential owners would not invest in baseball without anti-trust exemptions. Flood contends those exemptions enable the sport to operate illegally in restriction of trade.

NO LOSERS

In the most interesting exchange under cross examination, Flood's attorney, Jay Topkis, asked McHale, who had characterized baseball as a "highly speculative investment' if he had ever heard of any one losing money by investing in a baseball club.

"No," replied McHale.

"What do you regard as a safe investment?" Topkis asked.

"Government bonds," replied McHale.

At that point Judge Irving Ben Cooper, with a big smile on his face, admonished Topkis to go no further.

"I suggest," said the judge, "you leave that answer alone."

Dill Comes Up With A Dilly

My old pal, Frank Dill of San Rafael, the ace NBC sportscaster, really came up with a dilly last night on his TV newscast.

Fearless Francis coolly observed that the June 28 reopening of Sears Point International Raceway would ". . .get road racing off the ground again in Northern California."

That's what happened when the financially troubled track closed last month. It left road racing up in the air.

SEMI-PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL may be gasping for air but it's still warm and breathing.

I can remember in the not-too-distant past when Marin County was crawling with semi-pros with just about every town hosting a sandlot game every Sunday, but in recent years the game has slowly vanished from the scene.

It Looked Like The End

And when Joe Anselmo, who ran a top-flight San Rafael club for several years, moved to Oregon last year it looked like the end of semi-pro ball in the county.

But, young Terry Jarcik has rescued the sport by announcing his Jarcik Insurance Co. of San Rafael again would sponsor a team this summer with initial tryouts scheduled this Saturday, 2-5 p.m. at Albert Park, San Rafael. High school and college players are invited to give it a try.

"The way it looks now," says Jarcik, who sponsored a local team last year, "we'll be the only team in Marin, although I hear that someone up in Novato is trying to field a team."

Jarcik noted he would insist on an all-Marin lineup. Anselmo, he said, was a scout for the Atlanta Braves and imported players from other areas to represent San Rafael in the semi-pro wars. "But I feel we have enough good local talent to field a good, representative Marin team," he said. "We hope to get several of the Marin players who played for Anselmo last year," he added.

It's A Losing Proposition

The young insurance executive noted that semi-pro baseball is a losing proposition, financially. "Last year," he said, "our expenses averaged $55 a game and we collected an average of $10 a game by passing the hat."

Semi-pro baseball fans have a curious disease. Every time they see a hat they run for the biffy. Case of weak kidneys and weaker pocket books.

Obviously, Mr. Jarcik's insurance clients are better fixed than his baseball followers. Also, it's obvious the man loves baseball.

All the Jarcik team's home games — about 13 — will be played at Albert Field beginning June 20.

Good luck to them.

SAN RAFAEL HIGH SCHOOL alumnus Bob McLennan collected quite an award last night at the University of California sports banquet in Berkeley. Co-captain of the Cal track team and the Bears' leading hurdler with best times of 14.1 seconds in the 120-yard hurdles and 51.7 in the intermediates, McLennan was presented the Brutus Hamilton Award for leadership and scholarship.

JUST KEEPS PITCHING

Mudcat Grant Is No Old Man

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim "Mudcat" Grant keeps hearing that he's washed up. He smiles at the rumor—and keeps on pitching.

He gained his first victory of the season with two scoreless innings in relief as the Oakland A's defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 Wednesday night.

35 YEARS OLD

"They say my arm is supposed to be giving out because I'm 35 years old. But it doesn't feel like it," Grant said.

"I'm ready to pitch whenever they ask me." It was his 21st relief appearance of the season. He has already saved five games for Oakland.

The A's will send Jim Hunter, 7-5, against Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, 3-3, in tonight's finale of the three-game series.

Grant feels he is paid to save games rather than win. "When I save a game that means the starter gets the victory. Then two of us benefit. It isn't right when I win. Then the starter doesn't get anything."

He was talking about Rollie Fingers, the Oakland starting pitcher who allowed only two hits in seven innings before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter. One of the hits was a home run by Frank Robinson that made it 1-1.

"With the score tied, we had to take every chance we had to score," Manager John Mc Namara of Oakland said, explaining why he took out Fingers for a pinch-hitter.

The winning runs came in the eighth on Sal Bando's three-run homer off Mike Cuellar, 5-4.

"That's the first hit I ever got off him," Bando said. "He threw me a screwball hoping to get a double play. All I wanted to do was hit it far enough to get the runner home from second."

BARELY

Bando's line drive just barely cleared the centerfield fence for his ninth homer of the season.

Baltimore outfielder Merv Rettenmund chased the ball back to the fence and thought it would hit the barrier and bounce back.

It's A Hitters' Day In Rec Softball

It was a hitter's field day in the San Rafael Recreation Softball League last night as the Refectory routed the Patio Club 17-10 and the Broncos outslugged C.W.A. by 23-18 at Albert Field.

Bill Kilcoyne and Rick Galassi hit home runs for the Refectory while Jim Schmidt hit a grand slam home run and triple and Dan Bell a homer and triple for the Broncos who overcame an early 13-3 deficit.

Draft: Catchers In Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Padres selected catcher Michael Ivie of Decatur, Ga., as the No. 1 pick today in baseball's annual summer free agent draft.

Three of the first four players selected were catchers with Montreal, picking third, selecting Barry Foote, a receiver from Smithfield, N.C., and Milwaukee, choosing fourth, taking catcher Darrell Porter of East High School in Oklahoma City.

The No. 2 pick by Cleveland was Steve Dunning, a right-hand pitcher from Stanford University.

Ivie, an 18-year-old high school graduate is 6-foot-2 and weights 198 pounds.

The annual draft is restricted to high school and college graduates as well as unsigned 21-year-olds. It will run two days with over 1,000 young men probably being picked.

GIANTS FALL

Dream Almost A Nightmare

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Catcher Ted Simmons thought his fondest dream had turned into a nightmare before the St. Louis Cardinals climbed past the San Francisco Giants 6-5 Wednesday night.

Simmons, only last week called up from Tulsa of the American Association, helped the Giants score three runs with a passed ball in the opening inning.

But the switch-hitting 20-year-old checked signals with veteran pitcher Bob Gibson and thereafter caught a strong game to help the Cardinals sweep a two-game series.

DISCOURAGED

"For a while there I was wishing I was back in Southfield, Mich., my hometown," Simmons said after the Cardinals rallied from a 5-1 deficit.

"Bob and I weren't together on our signals at the outset, so we called in Joe Torre from third base to do a little interpreting and got things straightened out.

"This game was something special for me. Ever since Monday night I'd been dreaming about catching Bob Gibson. I can tell it's something else."

In the third inning, the Giants wrapped up their scoring on Ken Henderson's single behind an error, a walk and a fielder's choice.

The Cards pecked away at Giant's right-hander Rich Robertson for runs in the bottom of the third and the fourth, however, and were down 5-3 when Richie Allen led off the seventh.

Allen singled off reliever Frank Reberger, Joe Hague drew a one-out walk and Simmons singled, filling the bases.

Pinch hitter Vic Davalillo then delivered a two-run single to tie the game before Leron Lee struck out. Gibson himself then stroked the game-winning hit, a single beyond the reach of Giant first baseman Willie McCovey.

The hits were the third apiece for Simmons and Gibson, who combined to drive in three runs.

"I can't think of any tougher way to win than that," gasped Gibson, who pitched an eight-hitter and brought his record to 5-3.

Outfielder Bobby Bonds of the Giants was carried from the field on a stretcher after sliding into second base in the second inning.

X rays showed no fracture, but Cardinal team physician, Dr. Stan London said he thought Bonds had suffered a severe sprain of the left ankle.

Draft: Catchers In Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Padres selected catcher Michael Ivie of Decatur, Ga., as the No. 1 pick today in baseball's annual summer free agent draft.

Three of the first four players selected were catchers with Montreal, picking third, selecting Barry Foote, a receiver from Smithfield, N.C., and Milwaukee, choosing fourth, taking catcher Darrell Porter of East High School in Oklahoma City.

The No. 2 pick by Cleveland was Steve Dunning, a right-hand pitcher from Stanford University.

Ivie, an 18-year-old high school graduate is 6-foot-2 and weights 198 pounds.

The annual draft is restricted to high school and college graduates as well as unsigned 21-year-olds. It will run two days with over 1,000 young men probably being picked.

Laver Captures The Top Prize

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rod Laver defeated fellow Australian Ken Rosewall 6-1, 6-4 Wednesday night in the delayed singles finals of the $30,000 Rawlings Tennis Classic.

Laver won $8,000 for his first-place finish and Rosewall picked up $4,000.

Roy Emerson beat Fred Stolle 6-4, 6-1 in the third-place match.

The tournament was delayed 48 hours by rain and other commitments of players.

GIANTS FALL

Dream Almost A Nightmare

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Catcher Ted Simmons thought his fondest dream had turned into a nightmare before the St. Louis Cardinals climbed past the San Francisco Giants 6-5 Wednesday night.

Simmons, only last week called up from Tulsa of the American Association, helped the Giants score three runs with a passed ball in the opening inning.

But the switch-hitting 20-year-old checked signals with veteran pitcher Bob Gibson and thereafter caught a strong game to help the Cardinals sweep a two-game series.

DISCOURAGED

"For a while there I was wishing I was back in Southfield, Mich., my hometown," Simmons said after the Cardinals rallied from a 5-1 deficit.

"Bob and I weren't together on our signals at the outset, so we called in Joe Torre from third base to do a little interpreting and got things straightened out.

"This game was something special for me. Ever since Monday night I'd been dreaming about catching Bob Gibson. I can tell it's something else."

In the third inning, the Giants wrapped up their scoring on Ken Henderson's single behind an error, a walk and a fielder's choice.

The Cards pecked away at Giant's right-hander Rich Robertson for runs in the bottom of the third and the fourth, however, and were down 5-3 when Richie Allen led off the seventh.

Allen singled off reliever Frank Reberger, Joe Hague drew a one-out walk and Simmons singled, filling the bases.

Pinch hitter Vic Davalillo then delivered a two-run single to tie the game before Leron Lee struck out. Gibson himself then stroked the game-winning hit, a single beyond the reach of Giant first baseman Willie McCovey.

The hits were the third apiece for Simmons and Gibson, who combined to drive in three runs.

"I can't think of any tougher way to win than that," gasped Gibson, who pitched an eight-hitter and brought his record to 5-3.

Outfielder Bobby Bonds of the Giants was carried from the field on a stretcher after sliding into second base in the second inning.

X rays showed no fracture, but Cardinal team physician, Dr. Stan London said he thought Bonds had suffered a severe sprain of the left ankle.

JUST KEEPS PITCHING

Mudcat Grant Is No Old Man

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim "Mudcat" Grant keeps hearing that he's washed up. He smiles at the rumor—and keeps on pitching.

He gained his first victory of the season with two scoreless innings in relief as the Oakland A's defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 Wednesday night.

35 YEARS OLD

"They say my arm is supposed to be giving out because I'm 35 years old. But it doesn't feel like it," Grant said.

"I'm ready to pitch whenever they ask me." It was his 21st relief appearance of the season. He has already saved five games for Oakland.

The A's will send Jim Hunter, 7-5, against Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, 3-3, in tonight's finale of the three-game series.

Grant feels he is paid to save games rather than win. "When I save a game that means the starter gets the victory. Then two of us benefit. It isn't right when I win. Then the starter doesn't get anything."

He was talking about Rollie Fingers, the Oakland starting pitcher who allowed only two hits in seven innings before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter. One of the hits was a home run by Frank Robinson that made it 1-1.

"With the score tied, we had to take every chance we had to score," Manager John Mc Namara of Oakland said, explaining why he took out Fingers for a pinch-hitter.

The winning runs came in the eighth on Sal Bando's three-run homer off Mike Cuellar, 5-4.

"That's the first hit I ever got off him," Bando said. "He threw me a screwball hoping to get a double play. All I wanted to do was hit it far enough to get the runner home from second."

BARELY

Bando's line drive just barely cleared the centerfield fence for his ninth homer of the season.

Baltimore outfielder Merv Rettenmund chased the ball back to the fence and thought it would hit the barrier and bounce back.

It's A Hitters' Day In Rec Softball

It was a hitter's field day in the San Rafael Recreation Softball League last night as the Refectory routed the Patio Club 17-10 and the Broncos outslugged C.W.A. by 23-18 at Albert Field.

Bill Kilcoyne and Rick Galassi hit home runs for the Refectory while Jim Schmidt hit a grand slam home run and triple and Dan Bell a homer and triple for the Broncos who overcame an early 13-3 deficit.

Two Race Events For Sears Point

Sears Point International Raceway is back in business — at least temporarily.

Two Sports Car Club of America events—the Continental Grand Prix races June 27-28 and the Sonoma Summer sport races July 11-12—will be held at the track under the sponsorship of the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees announced Wednesday they had reached agreement with SCAA and the track owner, Filmways, Inc., to sponsor the races.

Filmways closed the 2-year-old Sonoma road course last month after sustaining heavy financial losses and is trying to sell it. But it made the track available to the Jaycees free of charge for the coming event.

William Bradshaw, local Jaycee president, said any profits from the races will be used for projects to benefit children. One project will be construction of a park in the Hunters Point-Bayview district of San Francisco.

Bradshaw also indicted that if the Jaycee promtions are successful the organization may sponsor two other SCCA events at Sears Point, a Trans-Am race Sept. 20 and a Can-Am race Nov. 8.

Rangers' Stewart Meets With D.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Stewart of the New York Rangers has met for 50 minutes with Nassu County Dist. Atty. William Cahn to discuss the death of goalie Terry Sawchuk, his teammate on the National Hockey League club.

The meeting took place Wednesday as a prelude to a grand jury probe into the matter scheduled to begin Monday.

Sawchuk, 40, died last Sunday of a blood clot. He was hospitalized April 29, reportedly after a bar fight with Stewart which later continued outside the house they shared in East Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

According to another version, the pair merely was engaged in "horseplay."

Nicholas Castellano, lawyer for the 37-fear-old Stewart, said; "There were absolutely no punches thrown. Just a little shoving." He said the two players had argued over "housecleaning."

Both men were separated from their wives.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

A smooth approach is essential at the release. At that point, there should be no jerky motions. The hand should come forward at an even pace, lifting the ball over the foul line, then coming more or less straight up in a complete follow-through.

Ron Mix Considers Offer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Offensive tackle Ron Mix wanted the sparkle of Broadway and the coaching of Weeb Ewbank. But instead he'll play for the Oak-Raiders—if he decides to unretire.

Mix, 31, an All-American Football League performer most of his 10 seasons with the San Diego Chargers, was traded to Oakland for two "undisclosed but high" draft choices, one each in 1971 and 1972, the Chargers said Wednesday.

"I want my final year in football to be a total pleasure," said Mix, criticizing what he called demeaning treatment of players by Charger coaches. He said he believes conditions are better with Ewbank and the New York Jets.

Mix, whose uniform, No. 74, was retired by the Chargers after the 1969 season, said the trade to Oakland depends on his decision to play.

"Nothing has changed," he said. "I have a decision to make—do I play again?"

Mix was a player and Al Davis, Oakland managing owner, was a coach at University of Southern California. "I'll talk to Al," said Mix. "We started together at USC and we're old friends."

But Mix said Oakland's offer will have to be "more profitable than on the outside."

Hill Withdraws From Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dave Hill, winner of last week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Open, withdrew from the $150,000 Kemper Open golf tournament Wednesday night.

Hill, winner of three tournaments and No. 2 on the money list last year, telephoned tournament officials from Jackson, Mich., and told them he would be unable to appear in the tournament that opened today at Quail Hollow Country Club.

Hill had entered the tournament with the condition that he be allowed to withdraw if he was unable to rearrange previous commitments in Michigan.

STATE TRACK FIELD MEET

High Hopes For Three Preps

Anyone who wants to see Marin County Athletic League stars competing in the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships had better arrive early tomorrow and Saturday to University of California's Edwards Field in Berkeley.

The MCAL will have three representatives — Mark Jones of Terra Linda, Novato's Ray Sparling and Bob Peterson of San Rafael — who will be entered in field events which are scheduled first both days.

FINEST

The California championship the finest of all state high school meets, as evidenced by the fact that Californians hold national records in seven of the fifteen track and field events.

Relative to other leagues in the state, the MCAL has never been strong. Putting that situation in proper perspective, it is safe to assume that pole vaulter Jones, discus thrower Sparling and long jumper Peterson will have to come up with super performances, by far the best of their lives, if they are to place in this meet.

Of the three, Jones has, on paper, the best chance. His MCAL pole vault record of 14 feet, 1 inch is the ninth best performance in the state this year, and only half of the 28 qualifiers for tomorrow's trials have cleared 14 feet.

Yet five others have gone 14-6 or better, including Roger Martin of Camden and Carl Goldstone of San Mateo, both of whom have the season's best mark at 14-10.

On paper, Sparling hasn't much of a chance. Of the 22 qualifiers, 17 have better season highs than the Novato senior. Ten have tosses of better than 170 feet, and defending champion Chris Adams of Los Altos has a throw of 201 feet.

Sparling's strength lies in his ability to come through under pressure. The two best efforts of his career came during the MCAL championships, when he set a new record with a mark of 158-8, and the North Coast Section Finals two weeks ago at Clayton Valley High School, where he posted a 158-7 to place third.

AVERAGE

Statistically, San Rafael's Peterson is about average among the best long jumpers in the state. The best jump of his career, 22 feet 11½ inches, came in the NCS finals. That was two and a half inches longer than the MCAL record he established this season.

The most impressive thing about Peterson is that he considers himself primarily a sprinter. In fact, he had little trouble winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the MCAL championships.

Only last year did he become interested in the long jump. In Reno for the qualifying round of the Junior Olympics, he entered the long jump after failing to place in either the 100 or 220. Of course he won and went on to the finals in San Diego.

SECOND

So it has been this year also. He failed to qualify for the state meet in the sprints, but took second in the NCS in the long jump.

The best mark in the state this season, 25-7, belongs to Jim McAlister of Blair High School in Pasadena.

Qualifying begins tomorrow at 4 p.m., with finals Saturday starting at 12:30 p.m.

Casanova Finds His Love

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paul Casanova just loves those Chicago White Sox pitchers—Tommy John in particular—while Duke Sims is taking his anger out on the Milwaukee Brewers and the Fourth Estate.

Casanova rendered John speechless Wednesday night with his third straight 3-for-3 game against the White Sox lefty as Washington rallied for a 5-4 victory.

Sims, Cleveland's catcher-turned-outfielder, belted two homers for the second game in a row in a 7-6 triumph over the Brewers and then tried to disprove Leo Durocher's theory that nice guys finish last by refusing to talk to the press.

'GET OUT!'

"I don't talk, man, I don't talk to anyone," Sims snapped. "Get out of here." Then he turned and walked away.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland downed Baltimore 4-1, Detroit shaded California 5-4 in 11 innings and the New York Yankees topped Kansas City 5-3. Minnesota at Boston was rained out.

Casanova, whose streak against John dates back to last season, singled in the third inning, doubled home the final two runs of a four-run fourth and singled in the sixth. Besides going 9-for-9 against John in their last three meetings, Casanova has driven in 10 runs over that stretch.

HOME RUNS

Sims, reportedly irked because a newsman allegedly misquoted him, got the Indians started with a three-run homer in the first inning and connected again in the third to snap a 4-4 tie. That gave him three consecutive homers, including his last time at bat Tuesday night, but he grounded into a double play on his next trip.

The Brewers scored twice in the eighth to trim a 7-4 deficit and loaded the bases with one out in the ninth. But Dennis Higgins fanned Steve Hovley and Dick Ellsworth came on with a 3-0 count on Tommy Harper, who had homered earlier, and got him to bounce into a force play on the 3-1 pitch.

UNLOAD

The Tigers, held to two hits and trailing the Angels 3-0, erupted for four runs in the ninth against Andy Messersmith and two relievers. Gates Brown started it with a pinch homer and Jim Northrup cracked a three-run homer with two out to put the Tigers in front 4-3.

The Angels tied it in the last of the ninth on Alex Johnson's run-scoring single, but Detroit won it in the 11th when Stanley singled, stole second and scored on a single by Willie Horton.

The Yankees trailed the Royals 3-2 with one out in the fifth when they kayoed Dick Drago with three consecutive extra-base hits—a triple by Bobby Murcer, Roy White's game-tying double and Danny Cater's fourth homer.

There's Still Some Life In The Old Arms

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's still some life left in the elderly pitching arms of Jim Bunning and Hank Aguirre—the hurlers nobody wanted—and Bob Gibson's batting eye isn't gone quite yet, either.

The three veteran pitchers all enjoyed banner performances Wednesday, helping their teams to victories in the rain-abbreviated National League schedule.

Bunning passed the 2,700 career strikeout mark—third on the alltime list behind only Cy Young and Walter Johnson—as Philadelphia thumped Cincinnati 11-4. Aguirre won his third game—his highest total since 1966—helping Chicago top Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings. And Gibson ripped three hits including a seventh inning single that broke a tie and moved St. Louis to a 6-5 victory over San Francisco.

SHUTOUT

In the only other National League game played, Houston's Jack Billingham shut out Montreal 5-0. New York at Atlanta and San Diego at Pittsburgh were both postponed by rain.

Bunning pitched the first six innings against the Reds and then Dick Selma finished up as Philadelphia exploded for seven runs in its last three swings to end a five-game Cincinnati winning streak.

Larry Hisle's bases-loaded, two-out single broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh and then the Phillies added five wrapup runs in the ninth, two on a single by Tony Taylor, who had opened the game with a first pitch homer.

THIRD WIN

Bunning, a free-agent pickup over the winter, won his third game—not a terribly large number for most pitchers but an important plateau for Chicago's Aguirre, another ex-free agent who had not managed that many in four seasons.

Billingham, making his first start of the year, extended his shutout string to 20 innings with his whitewash against Montreal. The tall right-hander scattered eight hits and struck out 10 Expos.

Two Race Events For Sears Point

Sears Point International Raceway is back in business — at least temporarily.

Two Sports Car Club of America events—the Continental Grand Prix races June 27-28 and the Sonoma Summer sport races July 11-12—will be held at the track under the sponsorship of the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees announced Wednesday they had reached agreement with SCAA and the track owner, Filmways, Inc., to sponsor the races.

Filmways closed the 2-year-old Sonoma road course last month after sustaining heavy financial losses and is trying to sell it. But it made the track available to the Jaycees free of charge for the coming event.

William Bradshaw, local Jaycee president, said any profits from the races will be used for projects to benefit children. One project will be construction of a park in the Hunters Point-Bayview district of San Francisco.

Bradshaw also indicted that if the Jaycee promtions are successful the organization may sponsor two other SCCA events at Sears Point, a Trans-Am race Sept. 20 and a Can-Am race Nov. 8.

Rangers' Stewart Meets With D.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Stewart of the New York Rangers has met for 50 minutes with Nassu County Dist. Atty. William Cahn to discuss the death of goalie Terry Sawchuk, his teammate on the National Hockey League club.

The meeting took place Wednesday as a prelude to a grand jury probe into the matter scheduled to begin Monday.

According to another version, the pair merely was engaged in "horseplay."

Nicholas Castellano, lawyer for the 37-fear-old Stewart, said; "There were absolutely no punches thrown. Just a little shoving." He said the two players had argued over "housecleaning."

Both men were separated from their wives.

Ron Mix Considers Offer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Offensive tackle Ron Mix wanted the sparkle of Broadway and the coaching of Weeb Ewbank. But instead he'll play for the Oak-Raiders—if he decides to unretire.

Mix, 31, an All-American Football League performer most of his 10 seasons with the San Diego Chargers, was traded to Oakland for two "undisclosed but high" draft choices, one each in 1971 and 1972, the Chargers said Wednesday.

"I want my final year in football to be a total pleasure," said Mix, criticizing what he called demeaning treatment of players by Charger coaches. He said he believes conditions are better with Ewbank and the New York Jets.

Mix, whose uniform, No. 74, was retired by the Chargers after the 1969 season, said the trade to Oakland depends on his decision to play.

"Nothing has changed," he said. "I have a decision to make—do I play again?"

Mix was a player and Al Davis, Oakland managing owner, was a coach at University of Southern California. "I'll talk to Al," said Mix. "We started together at USC and we're old friends."

But Mix said Oakland's offer will have to be "more profitable than on the outside."

STATE TRACK FIELD MEET

High Hopes For Three Preps

Anyone who wants to see Marin County Athletic League stars competing in the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships had better arrive early tomorrow and Saturday to University of California's Edwards Field in Berkeley.

The MCAL will have three representatives — Mark Jones of Terra Linda, Novato's Ray Sparling and Bob Peterson of San Rafael — who will be entered in field events which are scheduled first both days.

FINEST

The California championship the finest of all state high school meets, as evidenced by the fact that Californians hold national records in seven of the fifteen track and field events.

Relative to other leagues in the state, the MCAL has never been strong. Putting that situation in proper perspective, it is safe to assume that pole vaulter Jones, discus thrower Sparling and long jumper Peterson will have to come up with super performances, by far the best of their lives, if they are to place in this meet.

Of the three, Jones has, on paper, the best chance. His MCAL pole vault record of 14 feet, 1 inch is the ninth best performance in the state this year, and only half of the 28 qualifiers for tomorrow's trials have cleared 14 feet.

Yet five others have gone 14-6 or better, including Roger Martin of Camden and Carl Goldstone of San Mateo, both of whom have the season's best mark at 14-10.

On paper, Sparling hasn't much of a chance. Of the 22 qualifiers, 17 have better season highs than the Novato senior. Ten have tosses of better than 170 feet, and defending champion Chris Adams of Los Altos has a throw of 201 feet.

Sparling's strength lies in his ability to come through under pressure. The two best efforts of his career came during the MCAL championships, when he set a new record with a mark of 158-8, and the North Coast Section Finals two weeks ago at Clayton Valley High School, where he posted a 158-7 to place third.

AVERAGE

Statistically, San Rafael's Peterson is about average among the best long jumpers in the state. The best jump of his career, 22 feet 11½ inches, came in the NCS finals. That was two and a half inches longer than the MCAL record he established this season.

The most impressive thing about Peterson is that he considers himself primarily a sprinter. In fact, he had little trouble winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the MCAL championships.

Only last year did he become interested in the long jump. In Reno for the qualifying round of the Junior Olympics, he entered the long jump after failing to place in either the 100 or 220. Of course he won and went on to the finals in San Diego.

The best mark in the state this season, 25-7, belongs to Jim McAlister of Blair High School in Pasadena.

Qualifying begins tomorrow at 4 p.m., with finals Saturday starting at 12:30 p.m.

So You Think You Really Know The Game Of Football

MEXICO CITY — All right, the game today is "So You Think You Know Football?" Ready? Places, everybody! Masks in place? Will you come in and sign in, please, Football?

Football is a game played by Deacon David Unitas, Roman Olsen, Harold (Red) Rockne, Glenn S. (Pop) Lombardi, Paul (Bear) Brown, and Joe Willie Nightlife and Jarrin' John and Pitchin' Paul and Slingin' Sam and Chuckin' Charlie. Right?

It is played by a Down-And-Out and a Z-Flared and a Square-Out to the Tight End or a Flanker Buttonhooked or a Wide Receiver and it's always a Big Third Down Play and, All Right, everybody, Let's Hear It For The Big D! Right?

Wrong.

FOOTBALL IS played by Pele Q. Brazil whose family thinks his name is "Edson Arantes do Nascimento," and it is a game of "Thousands Riot, Two Killed" and a moat around the field, and it has caused an invasion of one Latin American country by another and it is a game Americans equate with grand opera. The music's nice but what the hell are they talking about? Otherwise known as Why - aCn't - You - People - Speak - English?

It is a game not run by Pete Czar and you don't have to weigh 300 pounds and wear plaster-of-paris on your forearm (you don't really need a forearm). It was not invented by Walter Camp or Amos Alonzo Heffelfinger or Jim Indian or Papa Bear or Johnny Blood. It was invented by, like Marco Polo. Or maybe he just brought it back from China.

WHAT THE rest of the world calls "football" (so-called because it really IS), we call "soccer." It is the oldest game known to man. The ancient Etruscans (or somebody) used to play it with a human skull. The Incas used to play it where the winner got to eat the loser's heart (giving rise to the ancient Incan expression "Eat your heart out").

Outlined against the blue-gray October sky is not the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, but the 11 mudders of Manchester United. Never mind the Crimson Tide of Alabama, how about the Juventus of Turin? The Trastevereside?

YOU HAVE to have the footwork of a cha-cha instructor, the stamina of a goat. You don't run three yards at a time every 30 seconds as in American football. Nobody's named "Pudge" or Howg" or "The Seven Blocks of Granite." The field is 120 yards long, 75 yards wide and everybody, but everybody, runs up and down it all the time. There are no free substitution rules. Halves are 45 minutes long with a 10-minute rest in between. You run several miles a game. It's never third - and - three in this game. It's always first and 100.

TO BE A journalist in international football is a whole new game, too. Grantland Rice would be profoundly depressed. There's none of this "The Cardinals Lost The Game But Lefty's Arm Is Coming 'Round" type of thing. No "Rams Lose But Scare Packers" kind of equivocation. Soccer journalists are part gossip columnists, part public scolds, and all vicious. And the little niceties of "according to informed sources," or "the Times has learned today," or "it was alleged," or "rumored," or "reported" are scorned. YOU are the informed source. To give you an example the World Cup defenders, the British team, flew into Mexico City the other night to be welcomed by headlines "The English Arrive — Drunk."

You have to learn that the name of the team takes a plural verb. "Arsenal HAVE two goals," is the preferred form. "Trasteverside ARE ahead." It is like saying "New York have the bases loaded" or, if they stumble coming down the ramp to the World Series, the headline, "New York Are Drunk."

FINALLY, IT is a population freak. Green Bay is the only small town in the United States that can compete on Big League terms with New York, Chicago, Washington. In football, El Salvador, Morocco, Israel, Peru, Uruguay and Bulgaria get in the 16-team final along with Soveit Russia, Great Britain, Italy, Brazil and Germany. El Salvador put out the United States, to give you an example. Belgium put out Spain, Sweden put out France. Surinam, wherever the hell that is, almost made it.

BUT I AM ready. I have my crash helmet, wine in a goatskin, I have learned to say "Not that way, you fool!" and "England are a fraud!" in Spanish to go with my already - extensive phraseology, like "in Spain, the people have no love for bananas" and I will say learnedly, "I had no idea Brazil are so good" or "surely Pele is the most deadly header in the world." A few stones in my pocket to throw at the refs, a picture of Zapata in my wallet, a rose for Delores Del Rio, a chorus or two of "La Paloma" in the Reforma, and I shall be ready for El Futbol Mundial!

THE SPORTING GENTRY: FRANK BERNARDI

Second Term As Bowling Head

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Frank Bernardi, in his second term as president of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, is looking forward to some high average leagues emerging from the 1970-71 bowling year.

With leagues already through with the 1969-70 season and the summer season starting, Bernardi is already thinking ahead to a possible 940 scratch league at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and a 925 league at Nave Lanes near Ignacio.

Highest leagues this year have been a 910 classic and a 910 travel league. A 940 team comes out to a 188 average per man.

The 49-year-old Bernardi, owner of the Marin County franchise for Roto-Rooter Sewer Service, said there was a strong possibility for the two leagues, each with eight teams.

SANTA ROSA NATIVE

A native of Santa Rosa, where he lived through high school and junior college days, Bernardi has been bowling for 25 years and has a 192 average. He bowls in both the 910 Marin County leagues.

After his school days, Bernardi spent some time in the Mount Shasta area where he worked in lumber mills. When World War II came, he was ruled 4-F, but returned to the Bay Area to work at the Alameda Naval shipyards. He started bowling in leagues in the Oakland-Berkeley area in 1945, and for a while was in the 935 Classic League in Oakland.

He got his start in the Roto-Rooter business in Oakland around 1949 before moving to Marin County and starting his present business in 1956.

WIFE ACTIVE

Frank has been active in Marin County Men's Bowling Association for the past seven years, serving as vice president before his election to the presidency. His wife, Inez, is also an active bowler and is first vice president in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association. Their oldest son, Jeffery, 17, a senior at Drake High School, bowls in the North Bay Junior Traveling League. The Bernardis have another son, Michael, 15, a sophomore at Drake. Family home is at 86 Valley Road, San Anselmo.

FRANK BERNARDI
Bowling leader

Bernardi teamed with Dan Burke to win the Marin County doubles title in 1969 at the association's "City" tournament. He has a pair of 700s to his credit and they came nearly 20 years apart.

HIGH MARKS

"I rolled a 701 series at Albany Bowl back in the early '50's," said Bernardi, "and last year at Country Club Bowl I rolled a 701 in the 910 Classic." High game for him also came last year, a 279.

Bernardi heads a board of 24 officers, and says, "I feel fortunate to have such a hard-working board. They put in so much of their time to help run tournaments. One of them put in at least 50 hours of his time organizing one of our tournaments."

The association has increased the number of directors because of added activities, such as the new 170 Masters Tournament started this year. Other main tourneys put on by the association are the City Tournament and the Marin Masters.

STIMULATE INTEREST

"We always try to run different types of tournaments to stimulate interest in bowling," said Bernardi.

"I feel fortunate that we have so much cooperation between the three Marin County bowling houses," he said. Having just returned from the American Bowling Congress convention in Knoxville, Tenn., in April, he added, "this is not the case with all the local associations."

Two touring golf pros from Texas have distinctive license plates. Dudley Wysong's license carries his last name. Rocky Thompson's tag reads "Rock."

Where Marin's tax dollar comes from and where it goes in the proposed 1970-71 budget is shown in two torn dollar bills representing a $36,024,555 total.
(Independent-Journal chart by Jack Lucey)

Supervisors Poise Ax; Budget Up $2.76 Million

A proposed fiscal 1970-71 budget totaling $36,024,555 with a tax rate of $2.47 per $100 assessed valuation has been handed the Marin County Board of Supervisors by the county administrator.

On the basis of past "trends," according to County Administrator Alan Bruce, $14 million will be raised through the county's property tax, about $15 million from federal and state aid, and the remaining $7 million from other sources.

Accepting the document this week, John F. McInnis, board chairman, made clear the supervisors have yet to sharpen their carving knives.

"I want to emphasize again that this is just a proposed budget," McInnis said.

The board was warned May 5 by Bruce to expect the heavy package which represents a $2,763,133 increase over this year's operating budget. The proposed budget would delete three county departments and reduce the county work force by 31 positions.

The supervisors, who will begin budget hearings June 15, said copies of the budget will be available to the public tomorrow at the assessor's office.

While the budget has been proposed with much fanfare, it fails to make clear what next year's county payroll total will be.

It does include a "minimum dollar increase" for employees, the administrator's office has reported, but declined to give a total figure for the money scattered in various department budgets.

Bruce said yesterday — after county employees had agreed to a 5 per cent pay boost, which must still be approved by the board of supervisors — that if the raise is accepted it will not have a great impact on his proposed budget.

A cursory glance at the budget shows that besides abolishing the county's human rights department, the New Careers program and the county farm adviser, its greatest effect on Marin taxpayers would be a million-dollar increase in property taxes to support law enforcement agencies.

The administrator said the law enforcement increase represents 80 per cent of the total proposed property tax increase.

Bruce says the hike is not because he treated law enforcement agencies "more gently than others," but because during the past several years law enforcement costs have escalated at an accelerated rate.

Other services accounting for Bruce's proposed increase are welfare with hikes totaling $1.3 million and roads and engineering with a combined increase of $750,000 above the current budget.

A breakdown of next year's proposed budget funds as compared with this year's (in parentheses) are: general fund ($28,078,932), $30,557,,437; road fund ($2,926,495), $3,590,714; capital improvement fund $997,600), $847,100; 1965 Civic Center building fund ($10,000) $15,000; special aviation fund ($79,429), $61,826; fish and game preservation fund ($10,000), same; contingencies-general ($108,000), $51,430; and county bond and interest ($451,430), $891,048.

Asthma's Breathing Struggle May Afflict One At Any Age

AN ATTACK of asthma may last for minutes or weeks. Each bout is a struggle for breath with gasping, choking, and wheezing.

The victim can inhale but has difficulty exhaling because of narrowed bronchi. Expiration is prolonged and accompanied by a loud wheezing sound.

Acute attacks are easily controlled with an injection of epinephrine or by inhaling isoproterenol. When wheezing continues or recurs, a cortisonelike hormone is administered.

DECONGESTANTS AND liquifying agents also are helpful. Isoproterenol, when used in excess or in larger than recommended dosages, has an adverse effect upon the heart.

Salbutamol, a British product, also is inhaled and has the same effect as isoproterenol on the asthma but produces less cardiac stimulation. The British are also experimenting with cromolyn that also is inhaled and prevents the bronchi from narrowing as a result of spasm. Fenspiride, a French product, may prove useful, too.

Disodium cromoglycate (DSC), a relatively new product, is said to protect the individual against asthmatic attacks. The dry powder is administered via a special inhaler. It is said to lessen the need for corticosteroids and may help those who develop frequent attacks.

ASTHMA IS BEST treated by finding and eliminating the cause.

This is easier said than done because there are innumerable possibilities. External culprits include pollens, fungal spores, furs, feathers, animal dander, house dust, harvesting products, occupational dusts, lint, cosmetics and deteriorating insects. Foods are not a common cause, but at one time or another all foods have been implicated.

Interna causes may also trigger an attack. The most common of these are emotional stress, colds, and other respiratory infections. Asthma of internal origin is more common in children and adults over 45.

Between 15 and 45 years, asthma caused by an external offender usually appears for the first time.

EATS COFFEE

C. C. writes: I get a terrific wallop when I eat powdered coffee right out of the jar. Is this practice harmful?

REPLY

It depends upon the amount consumed. There is no difference between taking the granules straight or dissolved in hot water. A teaspoonful is equivalent to one cup of coffee.

YOUNG AND ARTICULATE

Mrs. Y. H. writes: My 2-year-old daughter speaks more plainly than her 5-year-old brother. Is this an unusual state of affairs?

REPLY

Yes. Your daughter may be precocious and your son may be normal or slow. Girls usually learn to speak earlier than do boys.

INNER EAR TROUBLE

P. K. writes: Please explain inner ear trouble.

REPLY

The inner ear contains the nerve elements and consists of the labyrinth, the semicircular canals, and the audtitory nerves. Disturbances in these parts usually are associated with dizziness and nerve deafness.

HYPERTHYROIDISM AND PRESSURE

P. O. K. writes: Could an overly active thyroid cause high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. The systolic pressure usually goes up but the diastolic pressure remains the same or goes down.

Flood Advisory Meeting Put Off

Tonight's meeting of the Richardson Bay Flood Control Zone Advisory Board has been postponed until 8 p.m. Tuesday in Mill Valley City Hall.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said tonight's meeting was postponed because the county's agreement to buy tidelots from George Kappas changes the zone budget for 1970-71. He needs more time to compile adjusted figures.

Marin County Supervisors, sitting as directors of the flood control and water conservation district, decided on Tuesday to buy two lots and leaseholds on three others from Kappas for $115,000. The lots lie along Saucelito Canal, which will be dredged by the flood control zone.

The agenda also includes a report from engineering consultant Stanley M. Bala on the cost estimates for the Lomita Drive project to correct flooding near Edna Maguire School.

More than a million Americans completed the Red Cross first aid course in 1969.

Marinite Passed Over For Seat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The executive committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's board of directors screened 10 applicants yesterday for two vacancies on the agency's 10-member hearing board and agreed to recommend two.

They are Dr. Theodore I. Cleveland of Berkeley and Prof. Charles Kruger of Stanford University.

The recommendations will be made to the board of directors June 10 in Richmond.

The committee passed over incumbent E. Spencer Bodine of Kentfield, a candidate for a second term on the hearing board. He completes his first term this month. The other vacancy was created by the resignation of Joseph Hunter of San Mateo County.

Hanoi, Cong Units Stepping Up Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops carried out their heaviest shelling attacks in Vietnam in a month during the night and were reported today to have captured a village 10 miles from Phnom Penh, their closest penetration to the Cambodian capital.

UPI correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from Phnom Penh the guerrillas captured the village of Setbo south of the city Tuesday. Cambodian troops were said to be counterattacking, with no report on their progress.

Other Communist soldiers in Cambodia attacked the province capital of Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh, in what appeared to be an attempt to seize another way-station for a supply line into central Cambodia from Laos. Fighting raged through the morning.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam went to Phnom Penh this morning on an official state visit and urged an alliance between the two countries so "together it will be possible for us to rapidly check the Communist threat and bring back peace."

The reports of guerrilla shellings in Vietnam came as military spokesmen reported 165 Americans killed in Indochina fighting last week, 55 of them in Cambodia. The death toll was 23 higher than the previous week. Another 757 GIs were wounded.

Where Marin's tax dollar comes from and where it goes in the proposed 1970-71 budget is shown in two torn dollar bills representing a $36,024,555 total.
(Independent-Journal chart by Jack Lucey)

Supervisors Poise Ax; Budget Up $2.76 Million

A proposed fiscal 1970-71 budget totaling $36,024,555 with a tax rate of $2.47 per $100 assessed valuation has been handed the Marin County Board of Supervisors by the county administrator.

On the basis of past "trends," according to County Administrator Alan Bruce, $14 million will be raised through the county's property tax, about $15 million from federal and state aid, and the remaining $7 million from other sources.

Accepting the document this week, John F. McInnis, board chairman, made clear the supervisors have yet to sharpen their carving knives.

"I want to emphasize again that this is just a proposed budget," McInnis said.

The board was warned May 5 by Bruce to expect the heavy package which represents a $2,763,133 increase over this year's operating budget. The proposed budget would delete three county departments and reduce the county work force by 31 positions.

The supervisors, who will begin budget hearings June 15, said copies of the budget will be available to the public tomorrow at the assessor's office.

While the budget has been proposed with much fanfare, it fails to make clear what next year's county payroll total will be.

It does include a "minimum dollar increase" for employees, the administrator's office has reported, but declined to give a total figure for the money scattered in various department budgets.

Bruce said yesterday — after county employees had agreed to a 5 per cent pay boost, which must still be approved by the board of supervisors — that if the raise is accepted it will not have a great impact on his proposed budget.

A cursory glance at the budget shows that besides abolishing the county's human rights department, the New Careers program and the county farm adviser, its greatest effect on Marin taxpayers would be a million-dollar increase in property taxes to support law enforcement agencies.

The administrator said the law enforcement increase represents 80 per cent of the total proposed property tax increase.

Bruce says the hike is not because he treated law enforcement agencies "more gently than others," but because during the past several years law enforcement costs have escalated at an accelerated rate.

Other services accounting for Bruce's proposed increase are welfare with hikes totaling $1.3 million and roads and engineering with a combined increase of $750,000 above the current budget.

A breakdown of next year's proposed budget funds as compared with this year's (in parentheses) are: general fund ($28,078,932), $30,557,437; road fund ($2,926,495), $3,590,714; capital improvement fund $997,600), $847,100; 1965 Civic Center building fund ($10,000) $15,000; special aviation fund ($79,429), $61,826; fish and game preservation fund ($10,000), same; contingencies-general ($108,000), $51,430; and county bond and interest ($451,430), $891,048.

Mrs. Y. H. writes: My 2-year-old daughter speaks more plainly than her 5-year-old brother. Is this an unusual state of affairs?

REPLY

Yes. Your daughter may be precocious and your son may be normal or slow. Girls usually learn to speak earlier than do boys.

INNER EAR TROUBLE

P. K. writes: Please explain inner ear trouble.

REPLY

The inner ear contains the nerve elements and consists of the labyrinth, the semicircular canals, and the audtitory nerves. Disturbances in these parts usually are associated with dizziness and nerve deafness.

HYPERTHYROIDISM AND PRESSURE

P. O. K. writes: Could an overly active thyroid cause high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. The systolic pressure usually goes up but the diastolic pressure remains the same or goes down.

Flood Advisory Meeting Put Off

Tonight's meeting of the Richardson Bay Flood Control Zone Advisory Board has been postponed until 8 p.m. Tuesday in Mill Valley City Hall.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said tonight's meeting was postponed because the county's agreement to buy tidelots from George Kappas changes the zone budget for 1970-71. He needs more time to compile adjusted figures.

Marin County Supervisors, sitting as directors of the flood control and water conservation district, decided on Tuesday to buy two lots and leaseholds on three others from Kappas for $115,000. The lots lie along Saucelito Canal, which will be dredged by the flood control zone.

The agenda also includes a report from engineering consultant Stanley M. Bala on the cost estimates for the Lomita Drive project to correct flooding near Edna Maguire School.

More than a million Americans completed the Red Cross first aid course in 1969.

Marinite Passed Over For Seat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The executive committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's board of directors screened 10 applicants yesterday for two vacancies on the agency's 10-member hearing board and agreed to recommend two.

They are Dr. Theodore I. Cleveland of Berkeley and Prof. Charles Kruger of Stanford University.

The recommendations will be made to the board of directors June 10 in Richmond.

The committee passed over incumbent E. Spencer Bodine of Kentfield, a candidate for a second term on the hearing board. He completes his first term this month. The other vacancy was created by the resignation of Joseph Hunter of San Mateo County.

Hanoi, Cong Units Stepping Up Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops carried out their heaviest shelling attacks in Vietnam in a month during the night and were reported today to have captured a village 10 miles from Phnom Penh, their closest penetration to the Cambodian capital.

UPI correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from Phnom Penh the guerrillas captured the village of Setbo south of the city Tuesday. Cambodian troops were said to be counterattacking, with no report on their progress.

Other Communist soldiers in Cambodia attacked the province capital of Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh, in what appeared to be an attempt to seize another way-station for a supply line into central Cambodia from Laos. Fighting raged through the morning.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam went to Phnom Penh this morning on an official state visit and urged an alliance between the two countries so "together it will be possible for us to rapidly check the Communist threat and bring back peace."

The reports of guerrilla shellings in Vietnam came as military spokesmen reported 165 Americans killed in Indochina fighting last week, 55 of them in Cambodia. The death toll was 23 higher than the previous week. Another 757 GIs were wounded.

TV REVIEW

President Brief And To Point

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's progress report on Indochina, carried by the three major networks and many independent stations Wednesday night, was brief and to the point.

The President went on the air live promptly at 9 p.m. EDT, and finished 15 minutes later. His address was unusual in that film clips were cut in showing weapons and supplies seized by the United States and South Vietnamese troops during the Cambodia operation—film supplied by the White House.

After he finished, correspondents of all three networks took over for another 15 minutes for a summary, adding a few embellishments or statistics here or there.

Des O'Connor and his London-based summer "Music Hall" series on NBC may not constitute the most electrifying entertainment, but O'Connor has a nice understated way with humor, an attractive singing voice and sort of grows on the viewer.

An important member of his cast is a little dog who attempts to nip O'Connor—no one else—whenever he gets near. This week Des added a talking trout who did vocal impressions of James Stewart and Kirk Douglas.

Weakest element of the show is the comedy sketches which seem to add up to a lot of noise, people and confusion but few laughs.

"Music Hall" subscribes to the tenet that television performers seen weekly in their own series make exciting guest stars. This week the American imports were Joanne Worley doing just about what she does on "Laugh-In" and Dan Blocker doing something designed as comedy.

In one segment, Miss Worley walked up to Blocker, dressed in the uniform of the guards of the Tower of London.

"Are you a Beefeater?" she asked.

"No, I'm a vegetarian," he replied.

Blackout and the incomprehensible sound of studio audience laughter.

Andy Griffith, Mary Tyler Moore and Danny Thomas all will return to network television in new series next season. Each is a star pretty much created by television.

The following season, however, TV's own will be getting some high-powered competition from motion picture stars taking the big plunge.

James Stewart is the most recent addition to the large roster that includes Shirley MacLaine, Tony Curtis, James Garner and Henry Fonda.

Stewart's half-hour comedy series is scheduled for NBC broadcast, part of a Warner Brothers deal with the star that includes some theatrical films.

Alioto Pledges Unruh Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, once considered a likely California gubernatorial candidate, has pledged to back fellow Democrat Jess Unruh.

He sent a telegram of congratulations and support to Unruh Wednesday and said he would help all of his party's statewide candidates.

"Your great victory is a prelude to an even greater one in November," he wired the Assembly speaker. "The state administration, already buffeted by a declining economy and rising unrest, will founder on its own failures and the rising tide of Democratic solidarity."

Alioto told Unruh he will "undertake any assignment you think might be helpful in your campaign."

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 25 in Marin Superior Court for Marc Gregory Webb of San Anselmo, who is charged with possessing LSD on April 12.

Alioto Pledges Unruh Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, once considered a likely California gubernatorial candidate, has pledged to back fellow Democrat Jess Unruh.

He sent a telegram of congratulations and support to Unruh Wednesday and said he would help all of his party's statewide candidates.

"Your great victory is a prelude to an even greater one in November," he wired the Assembly speaker. "The state administration, already buffeted by a declining economy and rising unrest, will founder on its own failures and the rising tide of Democratic solidarity."

Alioto told Unruh he will "undertake any assignment you think might be helpful in your campaign."

LSD Hearing Set

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 25 in Marin Superior Court for Marc Gregory Webb of San Anselmo, who is charged with possessing LSD on April 12.

TV REVIEW

President Brief And To Point

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's progress report on Indochina, carried by the three major networks and many independent stations Wednesday night, was brief and to the point.

The President went on the air live promptly at 9 p.m. EDT, and finished 15 minutes later. His address was unusual in that film clips were cut in showing weapons and supplies seized by the United States and South Vietnamese troops during the Cambodia operation—film supplied by the White House.

After he finished, correspondents of all three networks took over for another 15 minutes for a summary, adding a few embellishments or statistics here or there.

Des O'Connor and his London-based summer "Music Hall" series on NBC may not constitute the most electrifying entertainment, but O'Connor has a nice understated way with humor, an attractive singing voice and sort of grows on the viewer.

An important member of his cast is a little dog who attempts to nip O'Connor—no one else—whenever he gets near. This week Des added a talking trout who did vocal impressions of James Stewart and Kirk Douglas.

Weakest element of the show is the comedy sketches which seem to add up to a lot of noise, people and confusion but few laughs.

Man Treated For Fume Inhalation

A 33-year-old Sacramento man was treated for inhalation of gas fumes Tuesday at Marin General Hospital after he was overcome by the fumes while working on his sailboat engine behind the Dock Restaurant in Tiburon, the fire department reported yesterday.

A passerby saw Robert L. Jensen lying unconscious in the boat and notified the Tiburon Fire Department's resuscitator unit which took Jensen to the hospital.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KRON (4), 7:30 p.m. — "Crisis: Summer Jobs," a one hour special, will bring prospective employers in the Bay Area together with young people looking for summer jobs.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8:30 p.m. — The Hhuhluwee Game Reserve in South Africa is the setting of an unusual animal adventure story presented on "Animal world." In "Project Rhino" the object of the hunt is the white rhino.

KPIX (5), 8 p.m. — "Give Earth A Chance, Part III: The Way We Live" is a one hour documentary focusing on the drain on the environment caused by the life style of the average affluent American middle class family and the relative lack of concern for environmental deterioration.

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m. — The complex vision of the man who was responsible for "Bonnie and Clyde," "The Miracle Worker" and "Alice's Restaurant" is explored on "NET Festival" in "Arthur Penn: Themes and Variants." Penn is seen on location filming and at his New York and Stockbridge homes. The documentary includes interviews with Warren Beatty, Arlo Guthrie and William Gibson.

KPIX (5), 9 a.m. — Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier, Charles Boyer and Horst Buchholz star in the movie ,"Fanney," a love story based on the Broadway success of the same title.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 10 p.m. — Dean Martin welcomes Andy Griffith, Sammy Davis Jr., Paul Lynde and Glenn Ash to his show.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 11:30 p.m. — Author Truman Capote, singer Lynn Kellogg, comedians Stiller and Meara and former U.S. counteragent Herb Philbrick are the featured guests on Johnny Carson's late night show.

"Music Hall" subscribes to the tenet that television performers seen weekly in their own series make exciting guest stars. This week the American imports were Joanne Worley doing just about what she does on "Laugh-In" and Dan Blocker doing something designed as comedy.

In one segment, Miss Worley walked up to Blocker, dressed in the uniform of the guards of the Tower of London.

"Are you a Beefeater?" she asked.

"No, I'm a vegetarian," he replied.

Blackout and the incomprehensible sound of studio audience laughter.

Andy Griffith, Mary Tyler Moore and Danny Thomas all will return to network television in new series next season. Each is a star pretty much created by television.

The following season, however, TV's own will be getting some high-powered competition from motion picture stars taking the big plunge.

James Stewart is the most recent addition to the large roster that includes Shirley MacLaine, Tony Curtis, James Garner and Henry Fonda.

Stewart's half-hour comedy series is scheduled for NBC broadcast, part of a Warner Brothers deal with the star that includes some theatrical films.

Interim Reed School District Chief Picked

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent of Marin County Schools, will serve as interim superintendent of the Reed School District starting Monday.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw will start a two-year leave July 1, and Friese will serve until the district board makes a permanent appointment to the post.

Trustees voted last night to contract with the Marin County Schools Office for the services of an interim superintendent at a cost of $100 per working day, and Friese was named.

Trustee James B. Richwagen commented that the cost was the equivalent of "a $22,000 a year salary."

Trustees also appointed two new principals. Irwin C. Karp of Petaluma, superintendent-principal of Wilmar School District was named principal of Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon schools at a salary of $17,000 a year. He will succeed Edward Mosconi, who recently was selected to be principal of Granada School.

B. J. Dennis, a principal in the Whisman School District, Mountain View, was named principal of Bel Aire School at $17,000 a year. He will succeed Robert D. Gowan, who recently was named principal of the new Reedland Woods School.

Trustees hired seven teachers for the 1970-71 school year, but delayed filling an eighth post, psychologist-intern, pending further study of the post. Richwagen had suggested that the board postpone all hiring.

Trustees have been interviewing teaching applicants, and Richwagen felt the interviews were too brief, and more time was needed before acting.

Board Chariman Leo Souza said this problem arose as a result of the board "doing this function, normally delegated to the superintendent."

Trustees voted unanimously to hire June Braden for Granada School at $6,925 a year, Anne Morris for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $9,625 a year; and Delpha Carpenter, teacher of educationally handicapped children, Reedland Woods School, $9,525 a year.

With Richwagen abstaining, trustees hired Patricia O'Callahan, for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $8,375; Mary Dixon Puncec, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,625, and Jackson F. Simmons, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,675.

Wallace Thompson was hired as a teacher at Granada at a salary of $10,725, by a 4-1 vote with Richwagen dissenting.

Trustees also hired William Muggenthale, maintenance man at $507 a month, and Stanley Norman as night custodian at Granada School, $529 a month.

They accepted the resignations of Deirdre Lennihan, teacher aide at Del Mar School and Plew Brow, custodian, Del Mar School.

Thomas J. Clisham, humanities teacher, Del Mar School, was granted a one-year leave, to teach in Malaysia.

Budget Wrestling Without Hoped For Tax Increase

Reed School District trustees, in the wake of a tax rate hike defeat at the polls, wrestled last night with a 1970-71 budget in which it must provide for opening Reedland Woods School.

The district's bid for a 60-cent increase in the operating rate limit to $2.85 per $100 assessed valuation was defeated Tuesday by the voters 2,396 to 1,795.

Victor W. Butler Jr., business affairs director, asked what he should do in view of the election defeat.

Trustees said he should work on the basis of a planning budget submitted in April.

At that time the budget was $2,048,218, up $162,914 from this year's budget, but trustees called for further study on six proposed new jobs.

Trustees set June 23 for presentation of the revised budget, with approval of a tentative budget set for July 1 and approval of a publication budget July 21.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said he would present recommendations regarding override taxes at the June 23 session.

Trustees again dug into the cost of euipping and furnishing Reedland Woods for opening this fall, and approved expenditures totaling $47,400.

They also gained $10,000 in credit from Pendergraft Construction Co. because the wrong type of carpeting was installed at the school and agreed that it be earmarked for the school.

Robert D. Gowan, Reedland Woods principal, explained that opening costs were cut by providing 2,800 books for the library and furniture from other schools in the district.

The $47,400 opening budget didn't include lockers for all 300 expected pupils, or a proposed portable building.

Trustees stressed the need for turfing at the site before winter rains, and felt there should be as much landscaping and erosion control as possible.

The Reed School District Board Also:

PARENT-TEACHER CLUB — Heard a report from Mary Ann DiGrazia, president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club that the club had provided $18,734 in euipment and services during the past year.

COMMUNICATIONS CENTER — Heard a report from Diane Bramman that the communications council of the parent-teacher club has recommended to incoming club officers that a communications center be established that would serve all parent volunteer organizations and provide a meeting place "outside of school and district offices."

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. June 16 at Bel Aire School.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Donavon Dean Brush, 33, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent to attempted burglary yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon rejected a request to release him on his own recognizance and continued bail at $2,500. Brush was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today.

Brush was arrested Monday by Petaluma police for the attempted break-in at Silva's Appliance Center, 402 Petaluma Boulevard South.

Blinder To Direct Hub Town Meeting

Dr. Martin G. Blinder, San Anselmo psychiatrist and a city council candidate this spring, was elected 1970 chairman for the San Anselmo town meeting yesterday

Former chairman Everett J. Farey said the planning committee last night tentatively set the town meeting for early October, and set the next committee meeting for July 1.

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent of Marin County Schools, will serve as interim superintendent of the Reed School District starting Monday.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw will start a two-year leave July 1, and Friese will serve until the district board makes a permanent appointment to the post.

Trustees voted last night to contract with the Marin County Schools Office for the services of an interim superintendent at a cost of $100 per working day, and Friese was named.

Trustee James B. Richwagen commented that the cost was the equivalent of "a $22,000 a year salary."

Trustees also appointed two new principals. Irwin C. Karp of Petaluma, superintendent-principal of Wilmar School District was named principal of Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon schools at a salary of $17,000 a year. He will succeed Edward Mosconi, who recently was selected to be principal of Granada School.

B. J. Dennis, a principal in the Whisman School District, Mountain View, was named principal of Bel Aire School at $17,000 a year. He will succeed Robert D. Gowan, who recently was named principal of the new Reedland Woods School.

Trustees hired seven teachers for the 1970-71 school year, but delayed filling an eighth post, psychologist-intern, pending further study of the post. Richwagen had suggested that the board postpone all hiring.

Trustees have been interviewing teaching applicants, and Richwagen felt the interviews were too brief, and more time was needed before acting.

Board Chariman Leo Souza said this problem arose as a result of the board "doing this function, normally delegated to the superintendent."

Trustees voted unanimously to hire June Braden for Granada School at $6,925 a year, Anne Morris for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $9,625 a year; and Delpha Carpenter, teacher of educationally handicapped children, Reedland Woods School, $9,525 a year.

With Richwagen abstaining, trustees hired Patricia O'Callahan, for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $8,375; Mary Dixon Puncec, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,625, and Jackson F. Simmons, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,675.

Wallace Thompson was hired as a teacher at Granada at a salary of $10,725, by a 4-1 vote with Richwagen dissenting.

Trustees also hired William Muggenthale, maintenance man at $507 a month, and Stanley Norman as night custodian at Granada School, $529 a month.

They accepted the resignations of Deirdre Lennihan, teacher aide at Del Mar School and Plew Brow, custodian, Del Mar School.

Thomas J. Clisham, humanities teacher, Del Mar School, was granted a one-year leave, to teach in Malaysia.

Budget Wrestling Without Hoped For Tax Increase

Reed School District trustees, in the wake of a tax rate hike defeat at the polls, wrestled last night with a 1970-71 budget in which it must provide for opening Reedland Woods School.

The district's bid for a 60-cent increase in the operating rate limit to $2.85 per $100 assessed valuation was defeated Tuesday by the voters 2,396 to 1,795.

Victor W. Butler Jr., business affairs director, asked what he should do in view of the election defeat.

Trustees said he should work on the basis of a planning budget submitted in April.

At that time the budget was $2,048,218, up $162,914 from this year's budget, but trustees called for further study on six proposed new jobs.

Trustees set June 23 for presentation of the revised budget, with approval of a tentative budget set for July 1 and approval of a publication budget July 21.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said he would present recommendations regarding override taxes at the June 23 session.

Trustees again dug into the cost of euipping and furnishing Reedland Woods for opening this fall, and approved expenditures totaling $47,400.

They also gained $10,000 in credit from Pendergraft Construction Co. because the wrong type of carpeting was installed at the school and agreed that it be earmarked for the school.

Robert D. Gowan, Reedland Woods principal, explained that opening costs were cut by providing 2,800 books for the library and furniture from other schools in the district.

The $47,400 opening budget didn't include lockers for all 300 expected pupils, or a proposed portable building.

Trustees stressed the need for turfing at the site before winter rains, and felt there should be as much landscaping and erosion control as possible.

The Reed School District Board Also:

PARENT-TEACHER CLUB — Heard a report from Mary Ann DiGrazia, president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club that the club had provided $18,734 in euipment and services during the past year.

COMMUNICATIONS CENTER — Heard a report from Diane Bramman that the communications council of the parent-teacher club has recommended to incoming club officers that a communications center be established that would serve all parent volunteer organizations and provide a meeting place "outside of school and district offices."

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. June 16 at Bel Aire School.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Donavon Dean Brush, 33, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent to attempted burglary yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon rejected a request to release him on his own recognizance and continued bail at $2,500. Brush was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today.

Brush was arrested Monday by Petaluma police for the attempted break-in at Silva's Appliance Center, 402 Petaluma Boulevard South.

Blinder To Direct Hub Town Meeting

Dr. Martin G. Blinder, San Anselmo psychiatrist and a city council candidate this spring, was elected 1970 chairman for the San Anselmo town meeting yesterday

Former chairman Everett J. Farey said the planning committee last night tentatively set the town meeting for early October, and set the next committee meeting for July 1.

QUAKE DESTRUCTION — This is the view of Casma, a city 30 miles south of Chimbote, Peru, showing the devastation caused by Sunday's killer earthquake. Tons of relief supplies were being airlifted into Peru today as officials still feared the death toll may climb to 30,000. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Lima)

Supplies Are Airlifted Into Peru

LIMA (UPI) — Tons of relief supplies for earthquake survivors flowed into Peru today from the United States and a half dozen other nations. A witness told how one entire town simply "disappeared" in a mass of mud.

A new tremor Wednesday night—three days after the killer quake struck—sent thousands of jittery residents streaming into the streets of Lima. But there were no reports of casualties.

A big C130 transport plane of the U. S. Air Force loaded with relief supplies was flying in from the Panama Canal Zone. It carried hundreds of gallons of fuel for helicopters to be used for relief flights in the devastated Huaylas Valley where destruction was so heavy that authorities feared 30,000 people may have been killed.

Armando Pen, a part owner of a circus, told how events occurred Sunday at the town of Yungay, a village he could see from his vantage point at Chimbote.

"The performance had not yet begun," he said. "The earth began to shake and we all ran out of the tent.

"Then we saw a black mass of mud come down on the city.

"Yungay disappeared from our view. A great clour of dust went up.

"We saw scores of people run into the plaza of Yungay to save themselves but they were buried by the mud."

The new tremor, just after 11 p.m., lasted 40 seconds—enough time for occupants of the lower floors of homes and apartments to reach the streets, many in pajamas.

Aftershocks following Sunday's quake shook the area frequently Monday and Tuesday but had subsided until the new jolt Wednesday night.

The Health Ministry reported typhoid, apparently from contaminated drinking water, in Huaraz, Ranrahirca and Yungay, three virtually destroyed towns.

Helicopters airlifted 480 injured persons Wednesday from Huaraz, in the Andes 180 miles northeast of Lima, but a priest complained by radio they were not bringing food fast enough. Hunger was reported severe in neighboring villages.

(The Associated Press, meanwhile, reported that Peruvian army engineers at Huaraz have decided to set fire to the city because of health dangers from decomposing bodies. The information was received in Lima from an American missionary reporting by ham radio.)

A Health Ministry spokesman said "This is likely so. So far there have been few supplies in relation to the need."

Paratroopers assisted by Indian laborers finally cleared a 1,600 foot landing strip at Huaraz late Wednesday and a bimotor plane landed with fuel for helicopters operating there.

Rescue efforts were being coordinated from Chimbote, a port city north of Huaraz also hard hit by the quake. U.S. Hercules transport planes from the Panama Canal Zone, Brazilian and Argentine aircraft and the fleet of helicopters were operating under the direction of the Peruvian air force.

Promotion Possible For Judge

If the Northwest Judicial District in West Marin is eliminated, as recommended again this year by the county administrator, Justice Court Judge David R. Baty could become the next municipal court judge.

This possibility loomed today as County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney delved into the various legal puzzles posed by the two vacancies that will occur on the municipal court bench.

FIRST OPENING

The first opening will come in September when Judge Hadden W. Roth resigns. The second opening will come at the end of this year when Judge Alvin H. Goldstein's term expires. He did not seek reelection.

Baty said this morning he would go along with the abolition of the northwest district and take the municipal court post on one condition: a branch of municipal court is maintained at Point Reyes Station.

Baty has been an attorney for 15 years and justice court judge in Point Reyes Station 11 years.

If Baty succeeds Roth, no gubernatorial appointment would be needed.

FIGHT IT OUT

The two front-runners in Tuesday's election, Ernest C. Zunino and Robert A. Smallman, will fight it out in November for Goldstein's post.

Even if Gov. Ronald Reagan were to appoint Zunino or Smallman to the first vacancy, the two will still be in the November runoff because candidates cannot withdraw, said Maloney. "Under the law, you can withdraw only if you're dead, and only then if it happens 40 days before the election."

Maloney added that these are his offhand opinions. If he were asked for a formal opinion by the county clerk, he would have to go into more detail in researching the legal questions.

BICYCLE PUMP SAVES THE DAY FOR LIFESAVER

SKEGNESS, England (AP) — Every time Peter Thawley tried to kiss the hedgehog, he got a mouthful of prickly spines. So he blew it up with a bicycle pump instead.

Thawley found the foot-long hedgehog floating unconscious in a goldfish pond.

"I tried to give it the kiss of life but you can't kiss a hedgehog—it hurts," Thawley said. "I put my bicycle pump in his mouth and inflated him, squeezing his stomach to force the air in and out."

The animal revived, drank a few spoonfuls of brandy and waddled off.

Five Die As Army Truck Hits River

WERTHEIM, Germany (UPI)—A U.S. army truck carrying 15 soldiers drove over an embankment into the Main River at Wertheim today, a military spokesman said. He said five soldiers were killed and five others injured in the accident.

The spokesman said the soldiers—from the 1st Battalion, 7th Infantry—were in a 2 1-2 ton army truck travelling from Aschaffenburg to Wertheim.

He said the driver apparrently lost control of the vehicle while crossing a bridge over the Main River. Ten of the truck's 15 occupants were thrown clear, and of these five were injured, he said.

They were taken to Wuerzburg Army Hpsital.

The spokesman said their names were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The spokesman was unable to say whether the five who died in the truck, drowned or were killed by the impact.

West German police said the truck swerved too tightly while taking a sharp right hand bend at the end of the bridge and the vehicle pitched over the river embankment and landed on its roof in the water, half submerged.

GI's from the Wertheim garrison, firemen and civilian salvage corps workers helped recover the truck and aid the accident victims.

Two More Quit Sausalito Board

Special Election Planned

Two more trustees of the Sausalito School District, Nathaniel Johnson and James E. Muldoon, have resigned from the district board. Trustee C. Gerald Clear announced his resignation yesterday.

Johnson, the board president, on a San Francisco television made his announcement today on a San Francisco television program, and Muldoon made his in a letter to Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools.

The three resignations came less than 48 hours after the district's two other trustees, David E. Freeheim and Martha Freebairn-Smith, were recalled by voters. They will be replaced by Jerry L. Whitcomb and Delta Christ, both of Sausalito, who ran for board posts in the recall election.

SPECIAL ELECTION

Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services for the county schools office, said the county superintendent will call a special election to fill the vacant seats. He said the law requires the election be held within 120 days of the resignations.

Spain said the county will not move to take over operation of the school district "as long as there is a superintendent and one or more board members and they attempt to operate the district."

Only if the remaining trustees refuse to operate the district, would the county move in automatically, Spain said. He added that the county schools office will help the board by providing any services, such as administrative or business services, it may request.

LEG AILMENT

In his letter of resignation Muldoon, who is ill with a leg ailment, stressed the successful recall played no part in his decision. He said his resigning may help "restore to the children of this troubled district the opportunity for an education directed toward a desire to improve their

NEW PULLOUTS SET

Nixon Cites U.S., Cambodia Success

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon claimed complete success for his controversial Cambodian operations Wednesday night and announced the United States had resumed withdrawing its troops from Vietnam.

Another 50,000 Americans will be out of Vietnam by Oct. 15, he said, in a resumption of his program to reduce by half the U.S. military force there within the next year.

"I can now state that this has been the most successful operation of this long and very difficult war," Nixon told a nationwide radio and television audience.

Basing his assessments on the reports he received Sunday in California from his top field commander, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Nixon said the major military objectives of the Cambodian thrusts had now been achieved and all Americans, including advisers and supply personnel, will be out of Cambodia by the June 30 deadline he had earlier set.

Bombing raids also will halt then, he said, but will be resumed "if necessary to protect the lives and security of our forces in South Vietnam."

Hoping to head off a Senate move to prohibit any future military operations in Cambodia, the President issued a strong plea for support of his "program for peace."

"We have a program for peace—and the greater the support the administration receives in its efforts, the greater the opportunity to win the just peace we all desire," he said.

But early reaction gave little indication he had changed many minds. "He is still ambivalent on the main point that U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam must be constant and accelerated, without a built-in veto by Saigon and Hanoi," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Senate and House GOP leaders Hugh Scott and Gerald R. Ford praised the President for keeping faith with the American people but Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, a war critic, said Nixon's remarks "bring us no closer to an end of the Indochina War."

Using film clips of the captured war materials to illustrate his point, Nixon contended the supplies seized in Cambodia "nearly equal what we captured in all of Vietnam last year."

"Had this war material made its way into South Vietnam and been used against American and allied troops, U.S. casualties would have been vastly increased," he said.

"With the rainy season now beginning, it will take the enemy months to rebuild his shattered installations and to replace the equipment we have captured or destroyed."

He said the Cambodian operations, the object of "an unprecedented barrage of criticism," not only had eliminated an immediate danger to American forces in Vietnam, but had won precious time for the South Vietnamese to train for the job of protecting themselves and "insured the continuance and success of our withdrawal program."

The 50,000-troop withdrawal announced by the President was the first increment in the program he outlined April 20 for reducing the U.S. force level in Vietnam by 150,000 men by next May.

With the 110,000 men already brought home, this would reduce the 540,000-man force

Rafferty Says Runoff Expected, Likes Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Max Rafferty was forced into a November runoff election with his former chief deputy, Wilson Riles, today as additional returns were counted from Tuesday's primary.

Rafferty said "we were expecting a runoff" because of the large field of nine candidates.

With 94.4 per cent of the vote counted, Rafferty led 48.8 per cent to 25.3 per cent for Riles and 12.6 per cent for Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles Board of Education. Rafferty needed more than 50 per cent of the total vote to win outright in the primary.

Rafferty, in a telephone interview from his Sacramento office, said he planned to campaign more vigorously during the general election, depending on "how much money we can scrape together."

"We're going to be talking about our educational policies and how we've applied them to California's schools," he said.

Rafferty said, "I'm not exactly unhappy" with his large vote.

The vote totals included 90.9 per cent of Orange County's returns, 84.5 per cent of San Diego's and 92.9 per cent of Los Angeles'. No votes were yet into the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento from Fresno County, where a massive computer foulup delayed counting.

Riles, 52, a Negro, staged a vigorous campaign against his former boss, charging he could do a better job than Rafferty.

Rafferty, 53, was first elected in 1962 and was re-elected in the 1966 primary, rolling up 3 million votes, 1.5 million more than all of his three opponents combined.

Rafferty upset veteran Republican Sen. Thomas Kuchel in the GOP primary in 1968, but lost to Alan Cranston in the general election. That was Rafferty's only bid for partisan office. The superintendency position is nonpartisan.

Riles was considered last year by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch for appointment to

Fresno Vote Remains In Computer

FRESNO (UPI)—The age of the computer may have dawned on the rest of the world some time ago, but in Fresno it has yet to arrive—at least as far as vote counting is concerned.

The county has a computer system capable of tabulating in less than three hours the 60,000 votes cast in Tuesday's primary election. But this morning, a full 36 hours after the polls closed, not one vote has been counted.

The problem is not with the computer but with its programming, which was not completed by the time election day rolled around.

A spokesman for Auditor-Controller Maurice Uhler said a systems analyst, Murray Hunter, of the Honeywell Corp. in Sacramento, was being brought in today to help the regular programmer finish the job.

Work has been going on round the clock for the past two days, but Uhler's office said it will be 5 p.m. today at the earliest before ballots can be counted.

The county uses a punch card system which would make it almost impossible to count the votes by hand.

Many of the candidates waiting to learn their fate in the elections seem to be taking the difficulty in strike but several were less charitable.

Fresno assemblyman George Zenovich, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 16th District Senate post, said the county board of supervisors, Uhler and the county's administrative officer should be made to explain why the system was not ready.

Supervisor John Krebs, who was not running for reelection, called for an investigation and termed the failure "inexcusable."

U.S. Increases Venezuelan Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today the United States will increase imports from Venezuela during the second half of 1970.

It also indicated an increase in Venezuelan oil imports may be extended beyond this year.

The disclosures were made by White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler after President Nixon and Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera held their concluding talk of Caldera's state visit.

Rules Panel Clears Way On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Rules Committee on a 9-6 vote today cleared the way for an up or down test in the House on accepting intact a Senate-passed voting rights bill that also contains provision for allowing 18-year-olds to vote.

Democratic leaders were not sure the votes were available to put the measure across, and they delayed the House vote for at least a week —possibly longer.

MARIN'S BUDGET UNVEILED TODAY

An illustrated story on next year's proposed $36,024,555 county budget, which would raise property taxes 8 cents per $100 assessed valuation, appears today on page 30.

Marin County Supervisors accepted the proposed budget for study Tuesday and will begin consideration of individual department needs on June 15.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Denies Pollution

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chevron Oil Co. has pleaded innocent to federal charges involving massive pollution of waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

"Chevron pleads not guilty to each of the 900 counts of the indictment," attorney Lawrence Benson said Wednesday at a brief arraignment in U.S. District Court.

It was the first case of its kind and Asst. U.S. Atty. Julian Murray told the court it may get into "a new field of law" before it's over.

Judge Alvin B. Rubin gave Benson 60 days in which to prepare defense motions on the charges that Chevron failed to equip 90 of its offshore wells with safety devices.

To Higher Ground

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A ruptured reservoir and flood waters from six days of rain drove more than 500 persons to emergency shelters and closed major highways in Florida's Panhandle Wednesday night.

No injuries were reported.

At Pensacola, police evacuated 400 persons as up to seven feet of water slammed into their homes after the wall of a city reservoir burst in two places. Electricity was knocked out in some sections, including one hospital.

Search Continues

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Navy frogmen today continued to search for the bodies of French film director Albert Lamorisse and three companions who died Wednesday when their helicopter crashed into the Karaj Dam lake 27 miles northwest of Tehran.

Frogmen indicated the wreckage of the helicopter in 450 feet of water. Missing with Lamorisse were his assistant, Dalbes Lemobil, and the Iranian pilot and co-pilot.

Lamorisse, who was known for his aerial photography, won international acclaim for his film "the Red Balloon," the simple tale of a Parisian boy who is followed by a stray balloon. The film won a 1956 Cannes Grand Prix, an Oscar and six other prizes.

A Human Torch

SAIGON (AP) — A 24-year-old Buddhist nun burned herself to death early this morning to protest the Vietnam war, Buddhist sources said.

They reported Hoang Thi Gai, a worker in the Ngoc Ninh orphanage in the coastal city of Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of Saigon, doused herself with kerosene and set herself afire.

Border Fire

SEOUL (AP) — North Korean machine gunners fired across the Imjin River into South Korea Wednesday night, wounding two Korean civilians who were asleep in their home, the United Nations Command reported today.

Statistics show that 70 per cent of the fatal and serious wounds during World War II were received in the chest or abdomen.

Says Indians Armed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A government official says that the Indians on Alcatraz Island are armed with 35 guns, but adds that "it is idiotic to fight for an island that's inactive."

"I don't think it makes sense to risk the lives of the men who take the Indians off the island, or of the Indians," Thomas Hannon said Wednesday. He is the regional director of the General Services Administration.

Leaves Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — American moonwalker Neil Armstrong left Moscow today at the end of a 10-day tour of the Soviet Union.

He will go to Rome for a short visit before returning to the United States, U.S. embassy officials said.

Near Fourth Day

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov neared the end of a third seemingly routine day in orbit today, strengthening the general view that their space flight is a workhorse operation to perfect maneuvers that have not gone well before. Tass said the space ship Soyuz 9 completed its 38the orbit of the earth this morning, the two crewmen fulfilled the program of their third day in flight, and the cosmonauts "carried out medical health control and passed to the orbital compartment for rest."

Head Of Mellon Holdings Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richard King Mellon demanded privacy, insisted on loyalty from his friends and associates and shared one of the nation's largest private fortunes with charity.

The tycoon died Wednesday after a four-day illness at West Penn Hospital. He was 70. Death was attributed to natural causes.

Mellon was a shy man who avoided public appearances. The value of his wealth has never been revealed, but it had been estimated up to $3 billion. His charities totaled perhaps $70 million.

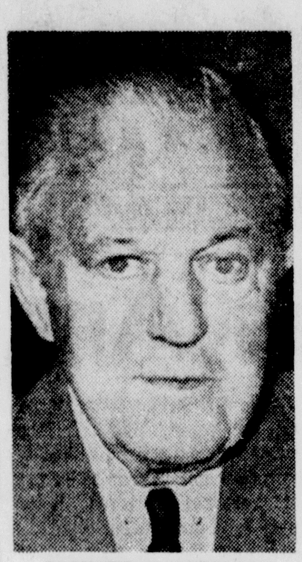
He was the son of Richard B. Mellon. The elder Mellon and brother, Andrew W. Mellon, built their father's banking business into a financial empire which ultimately embraced huge holdings in such corporate giants as Gulf Oil Corp., the Aluminum Co. of America, Koppers Co. and General Motors.

Andrew became secretary of the Treasury under President Warren G. Harding in 1921, a year after his nephew Richard started his business training as a bank messenger.

When Andrew Mellon died in 1939, his nephew took over direction of the family business interests.

The bulk of Mellon's philanthropy was channeled through the R. K. Mellon Foundation. Since 1947 some $43 million had been distributed through this trust alone.

On his rolling timbered estate, Huntland Downs, on the edge of the Laurel Mountains in Ligonier, 50 miles east of Pittsburgh, Mellon raised horses and engaged in experimental farming.



RICHARD K. MELLON
Demanded privacy

He gave Ligonier shade trees each year and sent checks to each fire department in the valley. He gave $100,000 for a community playground, built a library and a $1.5 million town hall and endowed each with operating funds.

Mellon served in both world wars and was a retired Army Reserve lieutenant general. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his World War II service.

Mellon will lie in state at the United Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh's East Liberty section from 10 a.m. Thursday until noon Friday. Burial will be at 2 p.m. Friday.

He is survived by his wife Constance, whom he married in 1936, and four adopted children.

The first scientific census of modern times was that taken in New France in 1666.

Senate Gets Bill To Hike Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — After surviving war critics' attacks in the House, a bill to raise the national debt ceiling by $18 billion heads for the Senate amid indications its quick passage might hinge on the Cambodian war policy debate.

The House passed the measure Wednesday by a 236-127 vote. It permits raising the national debt limit from $377 billion to $395 billion.

Some senators mentioned the possibility that action on the bill might be delayed if debate continues on another measure to curtail military spending in Cambodia.

The debt ceiling bill must be passed by July 1 or the government will be unable to pay its bills.

The Nixon administration asked for the increase to cover expected deficits in the budget.

While the budget projects a deficit of only $1.3 billion for the year beginning July 1, this figure does not reflect the use of surpluses in special trust funds —which become part of the debt —nor the likelihood that not all President Nixon's revenue proposals will be approved.

Congressional estimates indicated general revenues might be as much as $16.8 billion below expenditures.

War critics in the House first tried to amend the bill Wednesday to lop $6 billion off the ceiling increase and require a corresponding reduction in defense spending.

A 273-85 procedural vote blocked that attempt, with 71 Democrats and 14 Republicans voting to permit amending the bill, 127 Democrats and 146 Republicans voting against.

Israeli Jets Press Suez Raids, Pound Jordan For Civilian Deaths

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli warplanes pressed a round-the-clock blitz against Egyptian targets along the Suez Canal today in a campaign to knock out Arab artillery and frustrate installation of Soviet-built antiaircraft missiles.

New fighting erupted in the southern Jordan Valley between Israeli and Jordanian forces, and Israeli newspapers warned of stern action by the Jewish state against Jordan to end attacks on civilian settlements. The Jordanian press warned of counter retaliation.

Action in the Middle East Wednesday was described as the heaviest since the war in June, 1967, and communiques today indicated no letup in the level of fighting.

Jordanian spokesmen reported 19 Jordanians slain and 42 wounded Wednesday in Israeli air attacks flown in reprisal for Jordanian shelling of the Israeli resort city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee.

Tel Aviv communiques said Israeli pilots hit Egyptian targets in the Suez Canal area for five hours in a mission that ended at 12:30 a.m., then went back to the attack at 6:30 a.m. in a raid that lasted 2 1-2 hours. Another wave of jet fighter-bombers swept over the canal at 10 a.m. and blazed away for more than two hours before returning to base.

Israeli spokesmen said there were no aircraft losses in the Suez missions.

Cairo communiques said groups of Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian positions in the central and northern sector of the canal. A military spokesman said the raiders were intercepted by Egyptian fighter planes supported by antiaircraft fire.

The report from Cairo said Egyptian artillerymen on the west bank of the canal unleashed a heavy barrage of shells Wednesday night against Israeli positions across the waterway in the Sinai Peninsula, an area of Egypt which Israeli forces have occupied since the 1967 war.

Viet Reds In Paris Blast Nixon's Report On War

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong denounced today President Nixon's latest Indochina speech as proof he wants to extend and prolong the war in search of military victory.

Entering the 69th session of the Vietnam peace conference, Hanoi's negotiator, Nguyen Minh Vy, accused Nixon of "having recourse to threats in hopes of limiting the Vietnamese people in the exercise of their legitimate defense."

"Mr. Nixon has furnished new proof that despite his multiple statements that he is animated by a desire for peace, is ready to negotiate, his administration during this time still seeks a military victory, a position of strength by the prolongation and an extension of the war."

He said Nixon's policy can "only drag the United States into a war extended to all the Indochinese peninsula and lead it to new defeats."

Nguyen Van Tien, negotiator of the Viet Cong delegation, said Nixon brought forth nothing new.

"He cannot fool anyone, nor camouflage the heavy U. S. troops losses in Cambodia," Tien said.

Tien said, "The piecemeal withdrawal of troops shows once again his obstinate policy and determination to prolong the military occupation of South Vietnam."

Straw Poll Indicates Class Work Is First

A straw poll taken by a displeased chemistry teacher indicates that a majority of College of Marin faculty agree with him that teaching scheduled classes is more important than "crusades, politics, athletic, (or) 'in lieu of sessions' ".

Teacher Paul C. Llewellyn reacted to May's 3-day campus "strike" by writing a tartly worded letter to all fulltime teachers. It said that the view of some faculty members that out-of-class activities are more important than meeting scheduled classes is "unethical, immoral and illegal."

" . . .the community has a right to expect us to do the job for which we were hired. These other activities which have merit should not interfere with our obligations to our students . . .," he wrote.

Llewellyn asked teachers to indicate whether they agreed or not with his position. Out of 67 replies, he said, 38, or about 57 percent, agreed with him and 29 did not.

"Most of the letters were returned with comment," he said. "Most of them were quite emphatic ,one way or the other," he said.

Approximately half the school's 129 full-time teachers answered the poll.

Many who disagreed with him, Llewellyn said, thought he considered outside activities, such as the peace movement, unimportant. "I think they're important," he said, "but not as important as education."

Llewellyn said a major reason the public is rejecting school bond issues in recent elections is the belief "they're not getting their money's worth" when students or teachers leave the classroom for political or other outside activity.

13 Tibetans Are Executed

DARJEELING, India (AP) — Thirteen Tibetans, including a number of women were publicly executed by the Chinese Communists in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa during February, the Tibetan Review reported in its latest issue today.

Quoting refugee sources, the biweekly magazine said at least 20 other persons were publicly executed elsewhere around the country in a new purge begun by the Chinese this year to eliminate "counterrevolutionaries and other class enemies."

Refugees said thousands of persons had been arrested since the beginning of the year and many have been tortured, beaten or sent to slave labor camps.

Store Burglar Gets $6,000 Loot

A burglar stole a heavy trove of jewelry and leather clothing yesterday after breaking into Sales and Possessions, a specialty shop at 89 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo police reported.

Shop owner Lynn B. Staub estimated $6,000 worth of goods were taken. Police said the burglar entered between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 2 p.m. yesterday by kicking in the door of Family Records, the shop next door, then forcing a connecting door.

The jewelry taken was largely turquoise and silver. The clothing included leather vests, shirts, coats and trousers.

Auto Dealership Suffers Vandalism

Officials of Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael told police today the rear windows of three new autos were smashed by unidentified missiles during the night.

Bob Yount, general manager of the agency at 619 Francisco Boulevard, estimated damage at $300. The autos were parked in a rear storage lot.

Yount said the dealership has received letters and a telephone call from the San Francisco Typographical Union asking it to stop advertising in the Independent-Journal, struck by the printers on Jan. 7.

It was the second straight night of vandalism reported at Marin businesses which have continued to advertise in the I-J. Last night, six stores in San Rafael and three in Novato were hit by vandals firing steel nuts. (See story, page 9)

Muldoon said he did not think the Sausalito district can continue to exist as a separate entity and hoped "some form of unionization or unification will give all district children the opportunities they deserve."

He said he feels the children will never receive those opportunities "through the programs of our more militant administrators," apparently referring to Marin Luther King School Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr., fired by the board on May 4.

Muldoon has served on the board since 1967.

Johnson was not available to comment on his reasons for resigning.

NIXON

existing when Nixon took office to 280,000 men.

The President dealt only indirectly with one factor that has fueled criticism of his policy—fears that the South Vietnamese will continue and expand their operations in Cambodia and irreversibly widen the war.

Discussions with the Saigon government indicate their objective is the security of their own country, Nixon said, and added:

"Their activity in Cambodia in the future—after their withdrawal from the sanctuaries—will be determined by the actions of the enemy."

Nixon issued another plea to Hanoi for meaningful negotiations. "The door to a negotiated peace remains wide open," he said. "Every offer we have made at the conference table, publicly or privately, I herewith reaffirm."

He coupled this with a warning that if North Vietnam increases its attacks he will "take strong and effective measures to deal with that situation."

Broemmel Forecasts Assessment Hikes

More than half of Marin's homeowners face higher assessments for next fiscal year.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, speaking on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" today, said that assessment values on 41,000 properties (54 per cent) in Marin have been raised.

The assessment is 23 per cent of the fair market value of property in the county as determined by the assessor.

Broemmel explained that the housing shortage and skyrocketing construction costs have pushed up the market value of most homes. This is especially true in southern Marin, he said. Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon and the view areas of Mill Valley got big increases because of the desirability of the properties and the proximity to San Francisco. Assessment increases in northern Marin were not so great because there is relatively abundant land for expansion there, he explained.

Broemmel, who has been county assessor since 1959, dismissed the "so-called cycle system" as an explanation of the jump in southern Marin assessments this year.

Although Marin properties for some years were appraised in rotation, they aren't now, he said.

He said his reassessment procedures have placed Marin first in assessment equality in the state according to the state Board of Equalization.

Next year, the assessed rate must be raised from 23 per cent to 25 per cent of market value, he noted — "which would automatically increase the tax base by about 9 per cent."

$400,000 Suit Filed In San Quentin Death

A San Rafael attorney has filed a $400,000 wrongful death suit against the State of California and officials of San Quentin Prison in the Feb. 26 death of a young San Quentin inmate.

Attorney Salle S. Soladay said the suit, filed yesterday with the state Board of Control in Sacramento, claims Fred Edward Billingslea, 24, of Detroit, Mich. was "maliciously assaulted, choked, gassed and killed" by prison guards.

Mrs. Soladay is asking $150,000 in compensatory damages from both the state and Warden Louis Nelson, Associate Warden James W. L. Park and several prison guards. She is also seeking $250,000 in punitive damages from the prison officials in the name of Billingslea's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Billingslea, and his wife Susan, all of Detroit.

She said her suit is a test case because, under present laws, the state is immune from liability for any injuries or deaths to prisoners in its institutions, unless it can be proven prison officials did not provide adequate medical treatment.

"At present, only individual guards or other officials can be sued if they mutilate or kill a prisoner," the attorney said.

The suit states that Billingslea, who had a history of mental disorder, was gassed with tear gas in his cell, then dragged to a quiet cell, a type of cell which, according to Mrs. Soladay, has very little ventilation. During the dragging the inmate's larynx was fractured, the attorney claims.

The suit also states that Billingslea was again gassed with tear gas by guards before the door to the quiet cell was closed.

Mrs. Soladay said she has done extensive research in preparing the case and has talked to many prisoners who were in the cellblock where the death occurred.

At the time of Billingslea's death, the Marin County coroner's office listed the cause as pulmonary edema, a lung condition, and noted the prisoner had a fractured larynx.

The attorney said that prior to his death, the young man had informed his family that he was afraid he was going to be killed in San Quentin.

"I am hoping the courts will make the state liable in these kinds of cases," Mrs. Soladay said, "Because we don't know how man Fred Billingslease there have been in the past or will be in the future and nothing can be done until the laws are changed."

Warden Nelson, informed of the action, refused to comment except to say, "This is not the first suit against us and it will not be the last."

Mental Health Panel Opposes Fund Trims

An alcohol detoxification program and additions to the mental retardation program should remain in the 1970-71 budget for community mental health services, the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board decided last night.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, in an economy move, has recommended a total mental health services budget of $3,391,396, which would delete $189,000 needed for alcohol detoxification and additions to the mental retardation program.

The advisory board, headed by chairman Peter Palmer, decided to oppose the administrator's proposed cuts.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella and board member George Monardo reported that a nine-man screening committee will meet next week to begin screening applicants for the job of director of the Marin Mental Health Center.

Trudy Baum, a director of the Marin Association for Mental Health, suggested that a new screening committee from outside the community be chosen because some members of the present committee may have preconcieved ideas. The advisory board, however, decided to stick with the present screening committee, composed of two representatives from the county, two from Marin Hospital District, one from Marin Psychiatric Association, and four from the advisory board.

Chairman Palmer announced that the next meeting of the advisory board will be held at 8 p.m. June 24 in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

Election Day Plan Presented

STANFORD (UPI) — A Stanford University faculty-student committee has recommended that work loads be limited and classes canceled Nov. 2 and 3 so students can participate in the November elections.

The ad hoc group, in a report submitted to university president Kenneth Pitzer, recommended no examinations and new assignments be given. It also requested that special provisions be made to accommodate the needs of those students who do not attend classes those days.

The committee report said it was "imperative" that students, as citizens, "be encouraged to use the political process in seeking change."

Larkspur Adds Youth To Panel

The Larkspur City Council went along last night with a request from the park and recreation commission that two young persons be added to the commission.

The council expanded the commission from five to seven members and said that applications from "students in local schools" will be reviewed so that the new members may be appointed in the fall.

In other action last night, the council approved the park and recreation commission's recommendations for refurbishing of Dolliver Park. At the request of about 500 citizens, the commission had recommended that the city fix up restrooms, build a fence and install garbage cans as well as replace a broken merry-go-round.

Councilman Neil G. Brixon expressed a hope that the park "is now rid of hippies" and that improvements would last. The council will consider the expenditure of about $2,000 on the project when it discusses next year's budget.

The Larkspur City Council also:

APPOINTMENT — Reappointed Dr. Arnold Mayer to the park and recreation commission.

Horse Dealer Enters Denial Of Charges

Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick, 30, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to six counts of fraud stemming from horse dealings as well as one of felony assault.

Sedgwick is accused of hiring two Sacramento men whom he knew in state prison to beat another Novato horseman. One of the Sacramento men, Pierre Jon Hall, 30, has already admitted beating up Dallas Lee Wyatt, 36, on the Atherton Stables property on March 29.

The second man, James Marquis Jr., 37, pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday.

Both his and Sedgwick's cases were continued to June 15 for setting of a trial date.

Sedgwick has been accused of hiring Hall and Marquis to beat Wyatt because Wyatt, who rents the Atherton Stables from Sedgwick, had complained of Sedgwick's horse dealings.

Sedgwick operates the Novato Thoroughbred Farms.

The two alleged assailants are still suffering from bullet wounds allegedly inflicted by Wyatt as they fled the stables.

Anti-Ambassador Marches Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans living in asylum in Sweden organized at least one of the recent demonstrations against U.S. Ambassador Jerome H. Holland, says Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme.

Holland, a Negro, has encountered some hostile crowds and shouts of "nigger" in the weeks since his arrival in Sweden. At one point he was reported considering returning to the United States.

Palme arrived in Washington Wednesday for an eight-day private visit.

He said his government had investigated the incidents carefully, found only a "small group of extremists" to be behind them, and said in one instance they were Americans who had found asylum there.

Fairfax Trustees Set Milk Program Outlay

The Fairfax School District has approved participation in a milk program for the coming school year at an estimated cost of $85 to $100 a year.

Until last year, participation in the program cost the district nothing, but milk prices outran the state subsidy according to board secretary Gwyneth McGee.

She said the district — which approved the program Tuesday — will pay one penny for each 10 bottles of milk. Children now pay 5 cents and the state 3 cents for each bottle of milk, she said.

The voluntary daily program in the district's four schools had 480 participants in April, out of almost 1100 students, according to Mrs. McGee.

The Fairfax District Board also:

BUDGET — Put off until June 16 a discussion of the budget as Supt. H. Reginald Hammond was absent because of illness.

ENROLLMENT — Were informed that school enrollment in the district is 1,072 students, down nine from May 21.

VISITATION — Heard a report from Charlene Locati, a teacher at Deer Park School, on a tour by the School Planning Committee of schools in Sonoma, Petaluma, Mill Valley and Marin City to study school organization for a possible reorganization of the district.

EVALUATION — Approved continuation for another year of a team-teaching program for fith and sixth graders combined at Deer Park School after a report on it by teachers Peggy Petersen and Nancy Leisure.

LETTER — Ordered that a letter be sent to Sen. John J. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, urging him to support inclusion of a school financing provision in Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform bill.

EXCEPTION — Made an exception to a board policy that only school personnel may have keys to schools and authorized one for recreation director Tony Barbera for Fairfax Parks and Recreation Department night classes at Central School.

TEACHERS — Approved a tentative list of 12 summer school teachers.

Pot Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Stanley Michael Kelly, 20, of North Hollywood, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after Judge Hadden W. Roth ruled that the search and seizure of the suspected pot had been illegal.

Kelly was arrested Jan. 29 when a California Highway Patrolman went over to investigate his minibus which was parked on a shoulder of Highway 101. An odor of marijuana greeted the officer, and a search of the vehicle produced a small quantity of suspected pot.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday announced the signing of a bill requiring the highway patrol to establish safety standards for motorcycle helmets.

The bill by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, prohibits the sale of helmets not meeting the patrol's standards but does not require motorcyclists to wear headgear.

Spelling Bee's Champ Is A Girl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Libby Childress of Mount Airy, N.C., won the 1970 National Spelling Bee today after outlasting 74 grade-shool children.

The 14-year-old eighth-grader reached the final round with Tom Moe Jr. of Denver, Colo. The two teen-agers battled through 17 words before Tom stumbled on the word corymb, meaning a flower or fruit cluster. He misspelled it "chorimbe."

Under the rules of the spelling bee, Libby had a chance to spell the same word and she did so correctly and then went on to spell croissant correctly.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Whispers' Might Become A Sentimental Sleeper

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A frankly folksy musical, "Whispers on the Wind," dared premiere Wednesday night at off-Broadway's Theater De Lys.

It is professionally neat and persuasively modest, deliberately countering in method and content the show world's current mania for candor, sophistication and the downbeat. But sweet simplicity has kept "The Fantasticks" running for 10 years, so this just might become another sentimental sleeper.

The cast of five, slipping in and out of multiple vignettes with easy adaptibility, trace the life of a youth through the bruises and smiles of Midwestern upbringing, the break from home to compromise success in big town.

Writer John B. Kuntz has an eye for the tiny significances of youth and an ear for the sad-funny inevitabilities of later years. His lyrics for Lor Crane's score advance matters with cadences that mildly echo Dylan Thomas. The music is unelaborate but attractive in rendition by a quintet of guitars, flutes and electric piano.

The actors sing along heartily, with Nancy Dussault, David Cryer, Patrick Fox, Mary Louise Wilson and R.G. Brown sharing in much merited applause.

Burt Brinckerhoff's direction occasionally indulges in more than necessary activity up and down the platforms and through the panels of David F. Segal's setting, in big scenes atones with lyrical eloquence.

"Whispers on the Wind" speaks softly of life, love and loneliness, but creates entertainment of triumphantly ingratiating charm.

A REFRESHING DRINK

Union Members Are Bailed Out

Three members of the International Typographical Union arrested yesterday in connection with the smashing of windows of Independent-Journal advertisers were bailed out of jail later in the day by a union representative.

Edward Sarkon, described by a representative of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, as a retired member who "helps with fund-raising," posted a total of $4,500 cash bail for the three men.

Novato attorney Robert D. Carrow, who represents other union members charged with crimes in connection with the union's strike against the I-J, said today that he will also represent these three.

Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, are to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Since the wave of vandalism began against Marin businessmen who have continued advertising in the I-J, the striking union has disavowed any connection with the damage.

In a speech before the San Rafael Lions Club on April 15, union organizer Donald H. Abrams said the union would join in the prosecution of any individual arrested and charged with such vandalism.

Union president Leon Olson has also repeatedly disclaimed union connection with damage to stores and attacks on homes of I-J employees.

Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today that he will charge the three men with felony counts of conspiring to commit vandalism.

He said that the slingshots, chunks of lead, brass knuckles and nuts and bolts found in their car as well as a list of Marin businesses will be mentioned in the complaint.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. yesterday on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center after the deputies heard a bulletin from San Rafael police describing broken windows there.

Earlier that night windows of six San Rafael and Novato businesses had been smashed, the latest in a series of such incidents in which about 40 Marin and Southern Sonoma stores have been vandalized.

Students To Pay $850 Damage Bill

The student government at College of Marin has agreed to pay the college $850 which was billed last fall to the Black Students Union for damage following a rock dance on the campus.

The Associated Students voted Tuesday to repay all of the sum not covered by insurance, on grounds the BSU was a student organization and the student government had ultimate responsibility, reported Melanie Annin, co-editor of the College of Marin Times.

The BSU held the dance last Aug. 29 to raise funds for the San Francisco State College legal defense fund. The college reported damage included damaged shrubbery, litter, and cigarette burns on the gymnasium floor.

The BSU attacked the bill as an administration attempt to divide students and discredit the BSU.

The Associated Students last fall stood aside from the BSU-administration dispute.

Rock concerts have been banned on the campus since August's six-band fiasco. The college did not collect damages from the BSU because receipts from the concert reportedly were taken off campus the same night, and the organization treasury did not have $850 to pay.

Strike's Duration

The Independent-Jurnal erred yesterday in reporting — in a story on the arrest of three men in connection with vandalism Tuesday night — that the strike by San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J was ending its sixth month. The strike is entering its sixth month.

Peacock Gap Outfall Line Given Nod

San Rafael Sanitation District's plans to construct an outfall line for the Peacock Gap sewage treatment plant have been accepted by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

John H. Jenks of Palo Alto, consulting engineer, told the district directors yesterday this opened the way to proceed toward construction of the line.

The plant is now operating at capacity, and development in the area has been at a stand still because the city won't issue building permits until the capacity is increased.

Sixty-Trust of Chicago, which wants to develop 102 lots and needs sewer connections, has offered to put up $75,000 to get the line constructed, the loan to be repaid when connection fees are collected.

Directors also agreed that the district should cooperate in a joint study with Ross Valley Sanitary District on long range plans for sanitation facilities, including an outfall line that could serve both districts and San Quentin.

After hearing there could be construction difficulties at the proposed site for a new pumping station at Second and Irwin Streets, directors authorized the staff to consider other sites.

Graduation Set At Sunday Mass

Thirty-six eighth graders will graduate from St. Hilary's School in Tiburon in ceremonies during the 5 p.m. Mass on Sunday.

Speaker will be Rev. George Johnson.

The students will be honored at a breakfast Saturday at 8 a.m. at St. Hilary's church. Student speakers will be Tony Galli, Julie Toso and Heidi Richcreek.

Ex-Marinite Suspected In Devil's Slide Bodies Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — One-time San Rafael male nurse Jaime Sandoval, mystery man in the strange deaths of a Millbrae couple, 10 years ago was arrested yesterday on suspicion of killing two persons whose bodies were discovered Sunday at Devil's Slide, San Mateo County.

San Francisco homicide inspectors said they had "solid evidence" the man and woman were killed in the San Francisco home they shared with the 39-year-old Sandoval, who has served time in the Marin County Jail and San Quentin Prison for sex offenses.

Sandoval was booked on two counts for investigation of murdering Edelmiro Huertas, 63, the man responsible for his parole from San Quentin in 1968, and Carmen Acenzio, 36, Huertas' housekeeper.

Their bullet-riddled bodies were found at the bottom of the 600 foot cliff, called Devil's Slide, wrapped in bed spreads which police said came from Huertas' home.

Huertas, a real estate broker and political leader of San Francisco's Puerto Rican colony, interceded with the California Adult Authority in Sandoval's behalf in gaining the convict's parole in 1968.

Sandoval was serving 2 to 10 years in San Quentin prison after being convicted in 1961 of sexually molesting the two young sons of a couple whose deaths were shrouded in mystery.

He was questioned in 1960 about the death of Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, whom Sandoval had accompanied to Puerto Rico ostensibly to investigate a large inheritance which he was to share with the couple.

Mrs. Douglas vanished in Puerto Rico. Sandoval told authorities she fell from a cliff while the two were walking along the ocean. Her body was never found.

Ten days later, the body of her husband, Donald, was discovered in a car parked on Lucas Valley Road in Lucas Valley. He was dead from carbon monoxide.

His suicide note, however, indicated he felt his wife's death was not an accident and that he had been bilked for $32,000 by Sandoval.

Sandoval subsequently was arrested and convicted for lewd conduct with the couple's two sons.

He spent the next six years in state mental hospitals. He entered San Quentin in 1966.

French Pass Riot Vandalism Bill

PARIS (AP) — The National Assembly today gave 370-94 vote approval to a "he who breaks shall pay" law which the government hopes will curb the destruction of public property as a means of dissension.

It was mostly the Communists and other leftists in the assembly who voted against the controversial measure.

The government introduced the measure after a student demonstration at the Nanterre campus in which hundreds of chairs, tables and windows were broken by students and police.

Today is Thursday, June 4, the 155th day of 1970 with 210 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1800 the finishing touches were put on the White House.

In 1896 Henry Ford wheeled his first car from a brick shed in Detroit and drove it around the darkened streets for a trial run.

In 1942 the Battle of Midway started. The Japanes fleet suffered its first decisive defeat of World War I by American forces.

In 1967 war broke out between Israel and Egypt. It lasted five days and Israeli emerged victoriousnand in possession of much Arab territory.

A thought for the day: Roman playwright Terence saidn "Nothing is so difficult but that it may be found out by seeking."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Attempt To Thwart The Foe In A Doubtful Situation

In some situations a defender can't be sure of choosing the best play. In such cases it often pays to do whatever declarer doesn't want you to do. A subtle example is furnished in today's hand, played in the 1969 world championships.

TRUMP OPENER

West opened a trump, and declarer drew two rounds. After noting the bad trump break, declarer switched to clubs, losing the king to West's ace. West returned another trump, and South won in his own hand to lead the nine of diamonds.

Why the nine? A defender will usually cover an honor, such as the ten, but may allow a nine or an eight to ride through uncovered. South didn't want to have his diamond covered, so he led the nine rather than the ten.

PLAYS LOW

West couldn't tell what was going on. As it happened, South's nine drove out the king; and South could later lead another diamond to make sure of a trick with dummy's queen. This was all he needed for his contract.

SHOULD COVER

Perhaps West couldn't tell what was going on in diamonds, but he should have known that South was trying to avoid a cover. If only for that reason, West should have covered the nine of diamonds with the jack.

Dummy's queen would lose to the king, and East would return a safe black card. Eventually declarer would have to tackle diamonds again, and he would have to lose two more diamond tricks against careful defense.

A word of warning before you apply this lesson. Some of your opponents don't know what's good for them. If you concentrate on thwarting them, you may do them more good than harm.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 2
♥ - A 8 5 4
♦ - 10 9 5 3
♣ - K 6 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards.

If he bids two hearts, you will jump to four hearts; if he bids anything else, you will bid 3-no-trump.

Tonga Joins Commonwealth

LONDON (UPI)—The kingdom of Tonga in the Pacific became a member of the British Commonwealth today, Commonwealth Secretary General Arnold Smith announced.

Tonga, comprising 150 islands and islets in the southwest Pacific with an area of approximately 270 square miles, resumed full control of its external and defense affairs today.

Tonga has agreed to accept Queen Elizabeth as the symbol of a free association of independent nations and as the head of the commonwealth.

Tentative Deadline For Redevelopment

Two representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development last night announced a tentative deadline of Oct. 31 for assurances that Marin City's long-stalled redevelopment project will be completed within two years.

The officials, Allan F. Avery and John Sevy of HUD's urban renewal division in San Francisco, told the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, in charge of Marin City renewal, that the federal government would halt financial aid to the effort if the proposed timetable is not kept.

HUD has already allotted more than $1.3 million to Marin City redevelopment and supports two-thirds of the redevelopment agency's budget A federal pullout would doom the agency and leave its plans in limbo.

However, the Marin City Council has begun a separate renewal effort under a 701 planning program and both the council and the Marin City Community Services District board have announced plans to ask that a proposed $1.6 million tennis and swim center for county residents be located in Marin City to attract new construction.

The redevelopment agency's program, aimed at vacant land in the center of the community and on the ridgeland above, has been delayed for more than five years as a result of differences with the developer and because of the sagging economy.

The builder, Marin Development Corp. (formerly California Development Corp.), has since withdrawn but has failed to come to terms with the agency on reurn or resale of the undeveloped property. The agency has promised a court fight.

While Avery and Sevy acknowledged the Oct. 31 deadline was not a firm one, because it had not been cleared in Washington, they said they had conducted a year-long review of the Marin City situation and had concluded that HUD should insist on "very substantial progress" in the redevelopment effort.

"What we're saying is, if you don't get redevelopment underway.... within a limited period of time . . then it appears in everyone's best interest for the federal government to withdraw," Avery said.

He said he felt the threat was necessary even though conceding HUD was as much to blame for the delay as local officials and residents.

Avery said any new or revised redevelopment plan would require wide community support and added that HUD would need assurances the differences between Marin Development and the redevelopment agency could be resolved within a "very short" space of time beyond Oct. 31.

"We realize we cen be accused of being unrealistic," he said, "but surely the project can be pursued more rapidly than it has been."

Sevy, addressing his remarks to agencies and residents of Marin City, said, "Everybody's on the fire now. You've got to get together now in an unprecedented way."

"This means that someone will have to start tomorrow to arrange the next step instead of waiting until the middle of next week," said Avery.

Agency directors and members of the audience generally welcomed the hard line.

"You should have said it a long time ago," remarked director Juanita S. Cobb. "They're saying to. . .get down to the nitty gritty and that we're at the end of the way. We have to get something going and stop the bunk."

"We can do it," said Wallace K. Shepherd, agency administrative assistant.

Thelma McKinney, a Marin City resident, blamed the delay on the "clandestine-type manner" in which the redevelopment agency has planned Marin City's future and said that with cooperation and communication, "we can come to a more agreeable solution."

Director Richard Harding advised that the first step should be discussion of ways in which the 1956 master plan for the area can be revised.

Applications At 63 For Agency Post

The Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency has received 63 applications for the job of executive director, to be vacated later this year by Donald O. Stutsman.

Stutsman told a meeting of the groups last night that a screening committee would begin reviewing the applications next week.

In other business, the housing authority gave final approval to a revised occupancy policy for public housing units, paid $946 in damages and unpaid rent at leased housing units and deferred action on steps to take in the wake of Tuesday's defeat at the polls of a measure authorizing construction of 600 low income housing units in the county.

The groups will hold their next meeting June 17.

Attorney Takes Helm Of Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edward B. Miller, 48, Chicago, a lawyer with long experience in representing management in labor relations, was sworn in Wednesday as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

President Nixon designated Miller, a Republican, as chairman succeeding Frank W. McCulloch, whose term on the board continues through August. Miller takes the place of Sam Zagoria, a Republican Nixon declined to reappoint. The Democrats have a 3-2 majority on the board.

AFL-CIO president George Meany opposed the appointment of Miller.

Name Is Omitted

The name of Mark Duane Johnson was omitted from the list of graduating seniors at San Marin High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Johnson of 33 Pico Vista, Novato, and will graduate June 11 with the school's first graduating class.

Two Novato City Employees Resign

Novato's director of finance and assistant city engineer have resigned effective June 30, City Manager Charles A. Brown announced today.

Charles L. Foster, director of finance since September 1964, said that he has no plans for the immediate future. He said his resignation was for personal reasons.

William B. Bode was appointed assistant city engineer in March 1964. He was not available for comment.

Money Measures Rejected; How To Tighten Belt

Ballot proposals with dollar marks in them fared badly at the polls Tuesday — not unexpectedly.

Down went state Proposition 1, calling for a quarter-billion-dollar outlay for medical facilities at University of California campuses.

Down to deserved defeat went Proposition 8, which would have called for $1 billion-plus in additional state taxes for schools and welfare.

AND DOWN WENT all but four money measures in Marin County.

San Rafael will be able to go ahead with much-needed sewer improvements, as the city sewer bond issue passed handily, getting over 70 per cent of the vote. But bonds for a new central fire station barely mustered a majority — with two-thirds approval required. And those for a recreation center failed even to gain a majority.

Sausalito will be able to go ahead with purchase of land for a future city hall and library, but Novato cannot purchase park land nor build a recreation center. Novato voters said "no."

Mill Valley School District must wait awhile to sell bonds authorized at 5 per cent maximum interest. Fewer than the necessary two-thirds were willing to have the interest ceiling jacked up to 7 per cent.

TWO OF FIVE school tax increases on Marin ballots succeeded. Ross School District may increase its general operating tax rate by up to $1 per $100 assessed valuation. Lagunitas School District may raise its rate by up to 90 cents.

But proposed tax increases in San Rafael Elementary and High School districts and in Reed School District were defeated — the last-named quite resoundingly.

For the San Rafael Board of Education and the Reed School District trustees, we would like to offer some suggestions regarding the belt-tightening made necessary by these turndowns.

WHEN A SCHOOL TAX increase fails, the result usually is cuts which hurt the children. This should not be. And usually it is unnecessary.

The common results are reduction in bus transportation, larger class sizes, less materials for classroom use, and along with these less upkeep of the school plant.

There are better ways to reduce expenses — ways that will not make the children the victims.

FEW INDEED are the school districts that do not carry top-heavy salary loads for administration and supervision. Both San Rafael districts and the Reed district could reduce expenses in this category — without harming the instruction program one iota.

When school boards approve bills for purchase of books and materials, rarely do they inquire into whether these are for classroom use or merely for the use of the teachers or administrative staff. Many books and periodicals purchased for the latter sit on the shelves looking impressive but doing little good. Many materials are used to turn out wordy reports or create costly displays of no value in the instruction program. Cuts should be made here before taking a penny off materials for the classroom.

There are many other such areas: expensive recruiting practices, needless (and often valueless) conferences for school personnel, administrative detail that constitutes only "paper shuffling," etc., etc. And expenses for athletic supplies should not be overlooked when cuts are to be made.

Reductions in these areas do not hurt the children's education. And that is what the schools are all about — or should be.

Quail Society

The more we see and hear of our indigenous California quail, the more admiration we have for the small fellows.

They seem to have an organized society, in which the adult males scout out watching places and keep watch over the females and their brood of quail chicks. The male calls the signals to the female who is on the ground with the young, leading them and directing traffic. The female in turn keeps up a soft running one-way conversation with the chicks, supposedly so they won't lose track of her and to warn them in case of trouble.

Somehow quail have developed a kind of language. Researchers have been able to find the meaning for 32 sounds the quail makes. Anyone who had a convey of quail in his garden knows the male quail't territorial crowing, his "all is well" and the loud throbbing of his warning signal. In a sense then, we understand rudimentary Quailese. But the ability to speak it is something else.

Bagley Utility Tax Measure Heads For Second Showdown

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley's AB 908, providing for the taxation of utilities operated by the public, gets another test next Tuesday when it will be heard by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure, much opposed by those who think public utilities should operate with all the advantages and none of the struggle encountered by private utilities, has been given majority passage out of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, and was sent to ways and means for approval before going to the floor of the assembly for a test run.

The privately owned public utilities are pushing the bill. The utilities have tired of the tax-free privileges enjoyed by the special district utilities.

The Bagley measure provides that all taxes collected from the publically owned utilities would go to the schools.

To produce the same amount of money for schools which AB 908 will provide, the average homeowner surveys show, would have to pay more in increased real property taxes than he would pay in increased electric rates.

The need of many school districts for additional funds has become quite apparent and if AB 908 fails, schools will have to get raises in property taxes one way or another.

It is estimated that in every city in Northern and Central California owning its own electric services, the homeowner would pay at least twice as much in property taxes to raise the amounts collected for schools by AB 908 as he would pay through his electric bill.

The biggest argument against the Bagley bill is that it would increase electric rates. This argument always carries weight, but there is also the argument that taxes on privately-owned public utilities do not happen to be in equity.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Human Rights Staff Needed

Congratulations to Wat Takeshita for his fine background article on the valuable work done by Austin Thompson and the Marin County Human Rights Department. I was simply aghast to hear of Alan Bruce's suggestion that this department be eliminated for reasons of "economy."

A functioning, fully operating human rights department is one of the minimal services county government must supply under today's circumstances. The suggestion that a commission without staff could fulfill this function is simply a cop-out — we would be creating a "toothless tiger" where a sharp set of teeth is badly needed.

The $50,000 we put out for the human rights department is a mere pittance in terms of what the people of Marin County have been getting in return. Half an hour's rampage can do more damage. The suggestion that we economize in county government by cutting out Austin Thompson and his staff is about as sensible as if a businessman were to "save" the cost of his fire insurance when things get tough. . .

Member Denies 'Crumbs' Comment

Your article on the Marin County Board of Education's May 18 meeting at which time they reviewed the proposal on fiscal independence, quoted me as saying "they're giving us crumbs." This was evidently in reference to some limitations on the proposal suggested by the board of supervisors, i. e., selection of a county superintendent of schools, employment of counsel, etc.

Actually I said nothing of the kind. In fact, after discussing the matter with my fellow members last Monday evening it was the concensus that nothing was said which would suggest that any of us felt that the supervisors' proposal was too restrictive.

It was recalled that Dr. Hollis made some statement such as "they're giving us crumbs" while the rest of his staff seemed supportive of the concept. Consequently, it was because of this apparent difference of opinion between Dr. Hollis and his staff that the matter was referred to the board's administrative services committee.

Then, May 23 in your "brickbat column" the Marin County Board of Education was again chided for finding the proposition of fiscal independence too restrictive as proposed . .

Now, in last night's edition (May 26) an article reports "the Marin County Board of Education may accept after all the 'crumbs' of what it calls 'budget responsibility' ". Since the I-J didn't even have a representative at that meeeting it would seem that the basis for the statement also was from the previous misquotation, as I note the column again refers to a board member's complaint of the county "giving us crumbs."

Also, the article in last night's edition stated that the proposal was referred to committee for redrafting but that the committee made no changes.

As indicated above, the proposal was not referred to committee for redrafting at all. However, by the time it got to committee there were definite changes made by the staff to reconcile their differences . . .

PATRICK W. POLLOCK
Member, Marin County
Board of Education
San Anselmo.

(The reporter who covered the May 18 meeting insists that the "crumbs" comment came from the side of the table at which board member Pollock was sitting, not the end at which Superintendent Hollis was sitting; also, that the referral to committee was to work out a new proposal to be presented by the board of education, the words used by board member James A. Carroll being approximately, "Let's give them our proposal, not just take theirs."

Different Class Supports Teacher

We, the undersigned students at Drake High School, oppose the letter printed on your editorial page May 21 by Judy Emis, "New Low Reached in Sick Society." We know both Mr. (Roger T.) Lim and Mrs. (Adina W.) Robinson to be fine people with high moral standards. Mrs. Robinson's family life education class is held under parental permission. And Mr. Lim teaches a very outstanding American Government class; the speakers mentioned are brought in only to show the "other side," not to convert the students, or turn them into Zen Buddhitsts (radicals?). If he doesn't want to follow an out-of-date textbook — well, who could blame him?

Why doesn't Miss Emis listen to more of the students — to the facts — before she jumps to such drastic conclusions?

Last Of Unionism's Idealists Gone With Death Of Reuther

WASHINGTON — There was a time in the dim, if not too distant, past when the trade union movement supplied an element of idealism, of light and leading, in conspicuous contrast to the brash materialism of the robber baron era. Having fought their way into the game with the help of New Deal legislation, the union bosses today are bent on holding what they have and getting more if they can.

This is pointed up by the death of Walter Reuther, one of the last of those who believed that the unions had a goal beyond mere dollars and cents. He supplied the leaven in the great lethargic lump of the AFL-CIO. Pulling out of the federation after years of futile internecine warfare, he sought in a new organization to give the labor movement a broader base and a more generous approach.

HIS SUCCESSOR, Leonard Woodcock, has said in his first public statement that the United Auto Workers will be out to get every penny they can from the crucial negotiations in the industry this fall. This is understandable, since the Big Three simply raise prices and raise them again without regard for the warning flags of inflation in an economy completely dependent on the motorcar. Yet what in another day was called labor statesmanship might have dictated at least polite recognition of the responsibility of both sides in the seesaw of wages and prices.

Reuther insisted in his latter years that collective bargaining should be a lever to enforce lower prices and lower profits on industry. But it was always hard to see, even as he spoke with the eloquence and the intellect that were his hallmarks, how this could come about.

NOW THE PRESIDENT has embraced the hard hats who back him on Cambodia. Privately, the White House is said to have solicited the visit of the spokesmen for the longshoremen and the construction workers. The hard hats directed a savage attack on peaceful young war protesters in Wall Street that injured at least 70, many of whom after being beaten took refuge in Trinity Church.

The building trades unions have been among the most racist in the country. The earnest effort of the Nixon administration to open up training and jobs to blacks under the "Philadelphia Plan" resulted in Chicago in the assault by the hard hats on Negroes assembled in front of the federal building.

The narrow policy on apprenticeships and on labor-saving techniques in the building industry helps to explain the high cost of housing. With the industry benefiting from various forms of government largesse, labor's monopoly has gone unchallenged. Peter J. Brennan, head of the New York Building Trades Council and leader of the group that called on the President, is beginning to initiate long-needed reforms.

THE LONGSHOREMEN'S unions have had a strongly authoritarian cast, with various duchies rivaling the power of the east coast boss, Thomas W. Gleason. Gleason has followed a hard-right line. On the west coast under Harry Bridges the line is to the left, yet employers seem happy since he keeps the industry free of strikes.

Gleason from time to time tries to set the course of American foreign policy by announcing that his men will not unload this or that commodity from the ships of this or that country which meets with his disapproval. He has threatened Yugoslavia and, more recently, Sweden.

With Reuther gone by the tragic mischance of an air crash, it is hard to see where the forward movement, the lift, is to come from. The incentive merely to pay dues to one segment or another of big labor would seem to be small.

Brazilian Torture Claims Spark Inquiry By Church

By DANIEL DROSDOFF

RIO DE Janeiro (UPI)—The Roman Catholic Church in Brazil has waded in where politicians generally fear to tread—the delicate issue of alleged government torture of political prisoners.

The government has indignantly denied that such torture exists.

An official communique said recently that the accusations were inspired by "international agents of subversion and exploited by a morbid and sensationalist sector of the international press."

BUT THE XI GENERAS Assembly of Brazilian Bishops has decided that the accusations are too loud and too strong to ignore.

The conference issued a declaration last week calling on the government to investigate the charges of torture " in the interests of the good name of Brazil."

Charges of torture have been periodically leveled at Brazil's military government since it came to power in a coup d'etat in 1964.

But it wasn't until the kidnaping of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick in September of last year—an event that sparked a massive government crackdown on suspected terrorists—that torture became a major issue.

Four of the accused Elbrick kidnapers stated in court that they were forced to confess under torture, which was said to include electrical shocks.

THE MOST RECENT case was a declaration in court on May 15 by five members of the leftist National Liberation Front that they were tortured by members of the 10th Infantry Battalion in Goiana.

What has even more directly involved the church in the torture controversy have been accusations that some of the 11 priests and seminarians now being held as terrorist suspects have been subjected to torture.

At least two papal investigations have been launched into these charges. Conclusions have not yet been published.

Pope Paul VI publicly expressed hope in a speech last March that "nations dear to us can disprove these acts of police torture that are attributed to them." Though he did not mention Brazil by name, his remark was interpreted as an appeal to the leaders of the largest Roman Catholic country in the world.

IN ITS DEFENSE the Brazilian government has maintained that the charges of torture have been presented without medical evidence to back them up.

It claims that it has given good treatment to prisoners and that the 15 captives exchanged in return for Elbrick were in good condition, as were the five prisoners exchanged for Japanese Consul Nobuo Okuchi, who was kidnaped in April.

The latter five prisoners, however, charged, once they arrived in exile in Mexico, that they had been tortured.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Another form of wastefulness is expenditure of words beyond the income of ideas. — H. F. Heinrichs.

In theory school boards hire administrators to carry out the basic policies of the board and look after the details of running schools, but in practice more often than not the administrators establish the basic policies and the boards worry about the details. — James D. Koerner.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Readers Fortunate Some Stories Don't Tell It Quite Like It Is

A lot of people who never go to meetings of local government bodies ask what really goes on, whether the news stories accurately reflect the council deliberations, or the tenor arguments about local issues.

Well, they don't. If they did mirror what went on, our readers would die of boredom and we would need a 400-page paper every day.

If you want to know what really goes on at board meetings, the following is a synthesis:

"MR. CHAIRMAN, in view of what we've just heard from Mrs. Thompson's committee, I'd like to move that we pass a resolution urging the board of supervisors to take over full responsibility for chickweed control and apportion the costs among participating areas."

"Is that a motion, Mr. Smith? If that's a motion, I'll second it."

"It has been moved and seconded. Any discussion?"

"Mr. Chairman, I would move an amendment that the chickweed control program be conducted with only methods that are proven ecologically sound and with non-persistent chemicals."

"I second."

"NOW WAIT a minute. Who's going to decide what's ecological or not? Does that mean we can't use 2,4-D? And it's my opinion that this whole area is out of our jurisdiction. The supervisors are in charge of weed abatement, and it's not a local issue for us to butt in on. We weren't elected to decide about chickweed control, and I . . ."

"You're out of order Mr. Wilson. It's been moved and seconded — I mean and amendment is before the floor, and we have to discuss that before . . ."

Mr. Chairman, I'll withdraw my amendment if Mr. Wilson wants to discuss the question of our authority to act."

"Well, I won't withdraw my second. Call for the question."

"That's not debatable. Madame secretary, will you call the roll?"

"WHAT ARE WE voting on?"

"The amendment. Will you read the amendment?"

"That the supervisors be — that the chickweed control program be conducted with only — by the supervisors with only ecologicay sound and nonpertinent chemicals."

"That's non-persistent."

"May we have a show of hands on the amendment? All those in favor . . .is your hand up, Mr. Wilson ? That's three . . .those opposed? That's three.

"The vote is three to three and the amendment fails of passage."

"AS I WAS saying before, this is a county matter and we can't speak for our constituents in this kind of thing. I don't even think we're authorized to vote on it."

"That's pretty short-sighted, Mr. Wilson. After all, our people have chickweed and they pay county taxes too. It's our duty to express our feelings on this matter."

"Mr. chairman, I feel we should not only . . . I move, I mean I move an amendment that we distribute copies of this resolution to all other local governing bodies in the county and ask them to join us in asking the board of supervisors to take up this program."

"Second."

"Call for the question."

"SHOULDN'T THIS come after we vote on the resolution?"

"It's not debatable. The roll, madame secretary?"

"I'm not sure what we're voting on. Is it the amendment, or the resolution?"

"The amendment. A show of hands should be enough, those in favor? That's four hands, those against? One . . Mr. Wilson, you're abstaining?"

"That's right."

"I think there's been enough debate on the question, Mr. chairman, I call for the question on the resolution."

"Wat a minute now, do we want this to relate to chickweed only, or the whole weed thing? I don't think we really know what we're voting on yet."

"I'm sorry, the question has been called, madame secretary, I think we'd better have a roll call on this, would you call the roll?"

A Very Depressing Column About Latest Parlor Game

WASHINGTON — The latest parlor game to catch on in the United States is called "depression." Not since "charades" took the country by storm has there been anything to compare with "depression." The object of the game, which can be played indoors and out, at cocktail parties, dinners, soda fountains or any other place, is to depress the other person more than he depresses you.

Most readers have been playing the game without even realizing it.

THIS IS HOW it goes:

Jones at a cocktail party serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Evans returns serve. "The kids just don't give a damn about anything."

Jones hits it back. "They have no respect and no values."

Evans at the net. "If they didn't have everything handed to them on a platter, they wouldn't be so ready to attack the system."

JONES AIMING for the sidelines. "They ought to get some education before they start telling us how to run things."

Evans making a great save. "What they need is a haircut and a bath."

Jones lobs it back. "They want to talk, but they won't listen."

Evans returns it. "We're in a helluva mess."

Jones swings and misses. "You can say that again."

EVANS WON the game because he depressed Jones more than Jones depressed him. But it was very close.

"Depression"' has also become the most popular game with college and high school students. Here's a mixed-doubles match at a coffee house.

Sophomore serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Junior retrieves it. "Nobody understands us."

Sophomore's date. "I can't stand talking to my parents any more."

Junior's date returns ball. "All they can think about is money, money, money."

Sophomore returns with backhand. "We have nothing to live for."

Junior slams it back. "We can't make any plans for the future."

SOPHOMORE'S DATE runs for the ball. "Nobody gives a damn about us."

Junior's date in backcourt. "Nobody loves us."

Sohpomore hits it back. "All they can say is 'get a haircut.' "

Junior returns it. "They're all hypocrites."

Sophomore's date. "I wish I were dead."

Junior's date. "I wish I were more dead than you were dead."

THIS MATCH happened to be a tie, so it was agreed the couples would have a play off the following evening at the same time.

While the game is being played all over the United States (will we ever forget those matches on Wall Street last month?), Washington is still considered the superbowl of "depression," and you can't go anywhere in this town without someone wanting to play.

If someone tries to get you depressed about the war, you can get him depressed about inflation. And if he attempts to get you depressed about dissent, you can get him depressed about the administration.

There are so many subjects to choose from in Washington that it's getting almost impossible to depress somebody more than he depresses you.

Princess Expecting

OSLO (UPI) — Crown Princess Sonja of Norway, the commoner daughter of an Oslo dressmaker who married Crown Prince Harald in August, 1968, is expecting her first child in January or February, the Royal Palace said Wednesday night.

Promise Of Balance In Fall Term

Pacheco School, which serves Raphael Village in the Novato Unified School District, was racially imbalanced last December, but should not be when school opens this fall, according to Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

The trouble is that the population of Raphael Village, all Hamilton Air Force Base personnel, fluctuates from month-to-month, he said. The state law requires that no school have more than 15 per cent more minority races than the average of the district, Mobley said.

"Sometimes we would have a variation of 6 per cent per month at Pacheco School," he said yesterday.

Mobley told the school board last December that he would have a plan this month to alleviate the situation next school year.

The district, which rented a portable classroom at the Loma Verde School, will not next school year, and a kindergarten class at Loma Verde will move to Pacheco, he said.

"With the addition of this class, we hope to have the racial balance within the state requirements next year," he said.

Mobley reported this to the state Department of Education on Monday, he said.

Hub Budget Jumps For Public Safety

The San Anselmo City Council took its first whacks at the 1970-71 budget of $1,365,475 last night, but instead of cutting added $23,200 to the tentative fire department budget and $11,225 to the tentative police budget.

Councilmen agreed with Fire Chief Frank Sousa that a new fire engine will be needed and added $23,000 toward its purchase over a two-year span. The machine will cost $42,000, more if it is diesel powered, Sousa said.

Also restored to the budget was $200 for a 15-foot hose and couplings.

Tentatively restored to the police budget were $2,600 for a patrol car, $200 for fitting it, $6,825 to hire a dispatcher-clerk, $1,400 more for a training course and $200 for painting walls at headquarters.

The 10 and 15 per cent salary increases requested by both departments were left open for future discussion by negotiating teams, but Mayor James F. Reed promised anxious officers the salaries would be set as soon as possible. The council agreed any raise would be made retroactive to next July 1 if that is legally possible.

City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel told the council its additions to his budget recommendations would add approximately 12 cents to the property tax rate, which he had projected at the present $2.255 per $100.

While the council did not restore to the budget $200,000 sought by Police Chief Raymond Buchignani for a public safety building, councilmen agreed steps must be taken toward financing such a building or an entire new city hall. Reed and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro disagreed on planning methods, Capurro saying no more outside surveys or studies are needed. Kaeppel was directed to consult with San Rafael officials on their successful bond issue election and how it was planned.

The council also tentatively approved without change budgets of $5,241 for the city council, $15,660 for the city administrator, $17,218 for the city clerk, $14,744 for the finance officer, $630 for the treasurer, and $13,939 for the city attorney.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall. Next budget session will be at 7:30 p.m. June 11 at city hall.

Tiburon Councilmen Seek Better Sessions

The Tiburon City Council met as an informal committee of the whole last night to discuss ways of streamlining its meetings and of gaining better working relationships with city officials.

The rambling, open-ended discussion centered on suggestions for efficient utilization of the city manager's staff, the planning and parks and recreation commissions, and citizen advisory committees.

Councilman Albert H. Sennett suggested that all city suspense calendars be publicized so that city officials in different departments would know what each is doing. This could eliminate much duplication among departments, he said, and also keep the council apprised of current department projects.

The council's own committee system was questioned by Councilman Carlisle Becker. "The council has become overburdened with staff functions such as information gathering," he said. "There should be a sharp distinction between staff and council functions."

City Manager Lawrence D. Rose agreed, suggesting that his staff take over more of the preliminary research now being done by council committees. "You might want to experiment with reversing the flow of work," he said. "Right now you're overtaxing the committees and undertaxing the staff."

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood suggested that the first 15 minutes of each council meeting be set aside for questions from the audience instead of holding questions until the end of the meeting, which, she says, discourages people from remaining to speak to the council. She and Becker also agreed that perhaps the council should meet four times a month instead of the present two, and that one of these meetings be conducted as a town meeting to encourage increased citizen participation.

The meeting broke up only 15 minutes after its scheduled time limit. Another meeting as a committee of the whole meeting is planned later this month, the exact date to be decided later.

Chrysler Corp. Recalls Vehicles For Safety Work

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. has announced the recall of 9,908 vehicles, most of them Simca passenger cars, for correction of a variety of problems.

The firm said 9,203 Simca series 1204 and 1118 passenger cars, including 1969 and 1970 models, were recalled for modification of the brake system and inspection of front suspension components.

Some 270 Dodge 1970 model heavy duty LN1000 and LNT1000 trucks were recalled for inspection and possible correction of the air brake system hose routing.

Eight Dodge compact model 1971 trucks were recalled for inspection of the automatic speed control anchor bracket assembly.

Some 490 Dodge model P300 trucks with 319 cubic inch engines were recalled to check for possible interference between the brake master cylinder and the engine exhaust manifold. The trucks were built between 1966 and 1969.

Nation's Economic Slowdown Makes Summers Jobs Scarcer

The carefree days of youth may be even more carefree this summer. Many working-age students won't be able to find jobs.

Jobs will be scarcer than ever for many hundreds of thousands of students because of the nation's economic slowdown.

The competition will be especially steep for the youth who seeks a job for his three months out of school, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. The requisites include ability, luck and connections.

Between April and July of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that 2.7 million students will enter the labor market along with one million high school and college graduates. And about 650,000 jobseekers in the 16-to-21 year old range are expected to go unemployed.

WHAT DOES THIS mean for a student? For many, it means a substantial cutback in their plans to put aside some money for college.

Businesses, forced to make economy cuts due to falling sales, are eliminating many summer positions. This means fewer jobs and more competition.

Summertime employment, for those who find it, however, can be either rewarding or a virtual drudge. Many young men discover their best opportunities and highest pay as construction laborers or farm and factory workers. These jobs make up 46 per cent of summertime employment among males 16 to 21, according to the Labor Department.

While physical jobs tend to take precedence over office jobs for males, the opposite holds true for young women. They find their best work opportunities in clerical positions, with 40 per cent of girls employed last summer as secretaries, file clerks, stenographers and "girl Fridays."

Career-minded students often try to work in their chosen field during the summer. For these jobs, which are scarcer and harder to get, those who made a very early application usually won them.

Future journalists opt for any kind of job on a daily or weekly newspaper and students contemplating a medical future vie for hospital work.

Youngsters who want to work while living at the beach can find that these jobs are already filled. Lifeguard, resort waitressing and seaside refuse collecting jobs are among the hardest to get.

Many young persons are not only seeking summer work but are looking for a job they can continue during the school year.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that in October, 1968, one of every five workers across the nation was 16 to 24 years old, with student workers numbering nearly 5 million. That figure showed a 100 per cent increase since October, 1960.

College and high school placement offices still get a trickle of job tips and many students seek out temporary job agencies, which send workers out on a day-to-day basis. The salaries are minimal but the work is usually steady if work skills are good.

EXOTIC OCCUPATIONS still beckon to some youngsters, although there is not usually much money involved. Summer stock work draws theater aspirants to the stock circuits of New England, Pennsylvania and Southern California. Nearly every state has its historic center and tour guide positions open up for local students well in advance of the season. Political campaigns usually muster arms during the summer months preceding an election and can use young persons. However,

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Does He Need A Psychiatrist Because He Does What Others Do?

DEAR HELEN:

My parents think I need a psychiatrist because of the things I do, which are:

1. I cut school sometimes. Most of the kids do. It's no big thing.

2. I've tried pot, not to escape reality as my mother thinks, but because all the kids around here do it.

3. I lie as an excuse to go out nights. I really want to tell my parents where I'm going, but chances are 10-to-one they'd say "No" so why bother?

4. I've stayed out all night a few times. Nothing wrong happened. I go no farther than making out.

5. Once in a while I get drunk. Everybody does. After all, I'm 16.

I just want to have fun and be like the other kids. If that's abnormal, then there are a lot of wacky teen-agers running around.

Do you think I'm in need of a head shrinker? — T.G.

DEAR T.:

No, but you could do with a mind of your own. A sheep is normal, by sheep standards, but that doesn't keep him from following the others right over a cliff — because everybody does it.

Read on:

DEAR HELEN:

I always figured I was a cool head. I knew when to stop, though it was kind of fun, testing. Besides, the kids would think I was square if I didn't drink or smoke when everybody did.

About two months ago I went to a party and either drank too much or else somebody put something in my drink. I don't remember what happened. Now I'm pregnant.

I confronted my boy friend, who took me to the party, and he said I left him for a stranger in town. I don't know if he's lying or not, but he won't take any responsibility.

For a girl who thought she was smart, how could I be so stupid? I plan to run away because I can't face my parents. They were so thrilled because I'd been accepted this fall at one of the best universities. — HATING HERSELF

DEAR H.H.:

You can't run away from a problem that goes right along with you. Tell your parents, and get in touch with the Planned Parenthood Association in your city. They're there to help you. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read the letter from "Heartbroken Mother" and it could have been written by my mother a year ago.

I did the same thing — ran away without even leaving a note. I thought I couldn't stand my parents, but it turned out it was myself I couldn't stand.

I went through some very bad times, and I did a lot of thinking. After four months my parents found me, and I learned how much they really cared. And how terribly I had hurt them.

It isn't all roses at home — there's never a completely happy ending except in story books, but we're doing a lot better. And I'll never, never knowingly make anyone this unhappy again. — FORMER RUNAWAY

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Pull Those Bits And Pieces Together Into New Wardrobe

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

Are you one of those people who have a wardrobe full of bits and pieces that just hang there, somehow, and never get worn? The odd skirt that's so useful, but so dull, the sweater that never quite seems to go with anything, the dress that does nothing for you?

The sensible thing to do, of course, is to fling them out, firmly and just stick to the clothes that you really enjoy wearing, but it seems wicked, somehow, to send them unloved and unwanted to a jumble sale if they're hardly worn. Another althernative, of course, is to swap them with rejects from your friends, but this can end up with recriminations on both sides with someone, at least, swearing she got the worst of the bargain.

A good trick, if you've a little cash to spare but not too much, is to lay everything out on the bedroom floor, take a good look at it all — then pick on a common denominator color that would link all the separates and turn them into "togethers'. Black accessories for instance, or a colorful suede fringed belt, Indian style, will very often make a very plain sweater and skirt into an outfit that looks as though it has been planned.

Another kind of clothes fatigue that I've spotted just lately is of another kind — man-made fibres if they're laundered frequently, particularly in a washing machine, can suddenly become tired out, even if they are not actually worn out. White garments get that grayish tinge, clingy sweaters suddenly don't cling anymore, but sag alarmingly. I've got a sleeveless one with armholes that now gape right down to the waist! And pleated skirts lose the knife edges to their pleats.

What's to be done about it? In the first place if you buy anything in a man-made fibre that you cherish and want to live with for a long time, don't put it in the washing machine too often, take the little extra trouble to dunk it in suds by hand. White clothes that become dingy can quite easily be brightened up by soaking in a special solution for that purpose. And be careful when you dry your man-made clothes. Don't hang them up unless the manufacturer specifically suggests this, dry them flat, instead, on a towel. Too many knitted garments in synthetics have a nasty tendency to 'grow' if they are plonked dripping wet on the washing line.

The other thing you can do to prevent fatigue is to buy wisely — make sure that the man-mades you buy in the first place are of a good quality and style. The makers of some fibres are so confident about the ability of their product to stand up to strain that they actually have a wear-dated guarantee for approved merchandise — which means that they will actually give you your money back if you don't have a year's fair wear out of the garments you buy. Garments covered by this promise are mainly knitted styles — trouser outfits both casual and tailored and long lean sweaters, some of them with belts, or, the very opposite chopped off tops designed to show your midriff. Finding the clothes is simple — they're in everyone's local store, you simply have to look for the label.

Summer Jobs Are Scarcer

more students take these positions as volunteers.

Although money is an estimable product of summertime activity, some students gain inestimable profits through ventures that don't provide a lot of cash. For instance, a shy youth may gain self-confidence and poise by working as a store clerk or usher and being before the public. Camp counseling may result in early maturity and ability in dealing with young children. Domestic jobs, gardening, painting, cooking and serving food may prove a boon in later life when the student marries and has his own family.

LYNN MC FARLAND

Peissel-McFarland Engagement

The engagement of Lynn McFarland to Charles Robert Peissel of Austin, Tex., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. McFarland of Kentfield. She is a graduate of the Katharine Branson School and Stanford University where she also received the M.A. degree.

Charles is the son of Mrs. John Haag of Houston, Tex., and the late Antoine Peissel. He is the brother of Antoine Peissel Jr., and Mrs. Frank White of Houston. He is a graduate of St. John's High School in Houston and Stanford University. He is attending the graduate school of business at the University of Texas in Austin.

The couple plan an Aug. 28 wedding.

More Shape

One thing absent from the fall fashion scene is the boxy silhouette. As designers lower hemlines, they also bring the clothes nearer to the figure, making the shape narrow and curved, not squared off.

Women Must Stand United On Goals, Says NOW Leader

By BARBARA HOSMER

Women should stand together on the positive issues of women's liberation and not waste their energy criticizing factions of the movement, Aileen Hernandez, national president of the National Organization for Women, said in San Francisco Tuesday night.

She responded to the May 22 press conference when five traditional women's organization spokesmen criticized the clenched fist symbol of some of the factions, saying "we should emphasize the positive goals — full equality for all human beings" — and not spend time carping that the traditional women's clubs are too conservative on women's issues or that others are too militant.

The liberation movement is for all women, she told the San Francisco Chapter of NOW. Making enemies of others in the movement wastes time when women should get on with action on the Equal Rights Amendment in Congress and A.B. 22 to add the world "sex" to the state Fair Employment Practices Act, Miss Hernandez said.

"Outsiders tried to divide the black freedom movement in the same way," she said.

"How to organize more women to understand what the women's equality movement is about is the job. Passing the Equal Rights Amendment is only the first step in a long trip," she said. "Campaigning against bras and demonstrating at the Miss America contest are valid, but that's not really the movement."

She urged support of the Equal Rights Amendment and A. B. 22. Also the state abortion initiative and S. B. 544, the Beilenson bill to eliminate legal restrictions on abortion, set for hearing on June 22 in Sacramento.

She also urged support for child care centers, the placement of women in important political and other decision-making positions, and encouraged women to insist on more than clerical work in political campaigns. She said that blacks and women should work together to totally open up the U.S. employment situation.

Traditional club spokesmen who criticized the women's liberation "clenched fist" May 22 were from the California Business and Professional Women, the state American Association of University Women, Soroptimists Club and the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

AAUW Honor Given To Mrs. Ruth M. Jones

Mrs. Ruth Murray Jones was awarded a life membership in the American Association of University Women by the Marin Branch at a banquet held Tuesday night at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Jones' contributions to AAUW have been varied and continuous since she was one of 50 charter members when the Marin Branch was established in 1932. She served as president from 1937 to 1939 and was one of the founders of the creative writing workshop, which continues today as the poetry workshop.

In 1958 a $500 international study grant was given by AAUW in her name.

A prolific poet, Mrs. Jones has been published and earned prizes throughout the world.

She is also active in the Ina Coolbrith Circle, the oldest literary organization in California; California Chapparal Poets; and the Browning Society. Her poems appear in the Independent-Journal and the Carmel Pine Cone and many other publications in this country, Europe and Asia.

Her current project is helping Gen. Tang Zi-Chang translate from the Chinese books of classic poetry, military history and philosophy to be used by Asian studies departments and university libraries throughout the world.

Ruth Murray was born in Sonoma County and attended the Watkins School, now a state monument, and the University of Nevada. She is the wife of the late Victor W. Jones, who was chairman of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department. Mrs. Jones has three children, eight grandchildren and is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Finn Elected

MRS. JOHN FINN III

Mrs. John Finn of Mill Valley, new president of the Juvenile Court Auxiliary, asks for volunteers to help rehabilitate juvenile offenders.

"There is no way the county can afford enough professional probation officers to lick the rehabilitation problem. Lock-ups do not accomplish rehabilitation. We need a large number of volunteers to work on a one-to-one basis with probationers," says Parnel Finn.

She has served on the boards of the Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, Crippled Children Scoiety, the Marin Circle of Florence Crittenton Home, the Marin Hearing and Speech Center, Marin Music Chest and Symphony Guild of Marin as well as an early participant in the Girl Scouts and the Outdoor Art Club.

Other officers of the Juvenile Court Auxiliary are Mmes. James Adams, vice president; Bryce Anderson, recording secretary; Malcolm Finley, corresponding secretary and Sterling Bradley, administrative secretary and treasurer.

Pork loins are 2 to 4 cents higher in Los Angeles and Portland while 1 to 2 cents lower in San Francisco. Boston butts are as much as 4 cents higher in Los Angeles and 2 cents lower in Portland. Spare ribs are 1 to 4 cents lower in San Francisco. Smoked hams are 1 to 2 cents lower in San Francisco and smoked picnics are 2 cents lower in Portland.

Young turkey hens are a cent lower in California markets.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include apples, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, strawberries, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, onions and potatoes.

County Staff Agrees To 5 Per Cent Raise

A 5 per cent salary raise from July 1 is provided in a new contract worked out between the Marin County Employees Association and the county negotiating team headed by County Administer Alan Bruce.

The agreement will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday for approval.

The salary raise represents a slight gain for the employees association over the previous county offer of 2.5 per cent in July and another 2.5 per cent raise next January. Under the new agreement, the 5 per cent will come in July, and none in January.

However, Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the employees association, declared that his group is unhappy with the new proposal because several "provisos" which the association had requested were turned down by Bruce. Prevo refused to disclose what those "provisos" were.

"We are accepting the new agreement with extreme reluctance, only because we realize this is a tough budget year" said Prevo. "We hope to get fairer treatment next year."

Other changes made in the new agreement include these:

1. An increase of $5 per month for full-time employees in the county's contribution to employee insurance programs.
2. Holidays will conform to state law effective next January. For example, the third Monday in February (instead of Feb. 22) and the last Monday in May (instead of May 30) will be holidays. At present, if holidays fall on Saturdays, county employees got only one of two such holidays. Under the new agreement, employees will get a Friday off if the holiday falls on Saturday and Monday off if the holiday falls on Sunday.
3. Removes the 120-day limit on sick leave accumulation.
4. Clarifies and simplifies provisions for overtime, standby, and call-back, and adds provisions for meals in certain overtime situations.

Kennel Club Puppy Match On June 14

The Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club will stage its annual all-breed puppy and all-age fun match in Corte Madera's Town Park June 14 beginning at 9 a.m.

Puppies and mature dogs will compete for ribbons and trophies in 10 conformation and three or more obedience rings, according to John Jorgensen, president of Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club. The match is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club.

Judges include Stan Hansen and Thomas Brewer, both of San Anselmo; L. Paul Putnam, Joe Brusati, Helen Blair, Phyllis Greer and Jeff Greer, all of Novato; Juanita Howard, Lafayette; James Carroo, Pacifica; Larry Worth, San Carlos; Mary Lou Plinsky, San Jose; Frank Abarta, Sunnyvale; Roy Stenmark and Jean Bobbitt, San Francisco; Ron Giorgi of Corte Madera, Bob Franceschi and Emily Swanson.

Novato Summer School Signups Are Extended

Deadline for registering for Novato Unified School District's summer school has been extended until next Monday, Assist. Supt. Paul C. Mobley has announced.

Because of late applications and parental inquiries about the program, registration, supposed to close last Thursday, was extended he said. The junior and senior high school programs start on June 22 and the elementary on June 29. Both will end on July 31.

A Big Financial Risk In Baseball, Say Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had the money to invest in a major league sport would you buy a baseball team or a pro football club?

If you answered baseball you are probably being emotional. Purchasing a pro football club involves less financial risk.

That, at least, might be the lesson learned from testimony Wednesday in the Curt Flood case as baseball paraded three club owners to the stand as defense witnesses to support the sport's contention that the reserve system is necessary to its operation.

DIFFERENCES

Two of the owners, Francis Dale of the Cincinnati Reds, and Bob Reynolds of the California Angels, also have been involved in pro football ownership and cited the major difference between the sports as being in the area of player development.

"Investment in a pro football team involves less risk," said Dale, who also has an interest in pro football's Cincinnati Bengals, after he had completed testifying.

"The nature of the investment is different—it goes for different things. Pro football doesn't have a farm system to support and there is no lag of three to four years before a player who is signed can make contributions at the major league level."

$1 MILLION

Dale, Reynolds and John McHale, of the Montreal Expos, all estimated that their clubs would spend approximately $1 million on player development and acquisition this season and needed the safeguard of the reserve system to assure a return to their investment.

Dale said on the stand he didn't think baseball could operate successfully with pro football's contract clause in which a player can play out his option and become a free agent.

"I would not be willing to invest $350,000 to $400,000 to bring a player to the major league level and then find I might lose him after a year," said Dale. "The ownership system would break down."

Reynolds, a former part owner of pro football Los Angeles Rams, also cited player development as the major difference between the sports.

"In football, college is the proving ground and the players come right into the majors," said Reynolds. "It happens that way with baseball players very seldom. They must be trained and go through the farm system."

All three owners said they had invested in their clubs only with the knowledge that baseball has certain anti-trust exemptions and would not invest if the sport did not have such exemptions because of financial risk.

The point is vital to the defense, which contends that potential owners would not invest in baseball without anti-trust exemptions. Flood contends those exemptions enable the sport to operate illegally in restriction of trade.

NO LOSERS

In the most interesting exchange under cross examination, Flood's attorney, Jay Topkis, asked McHale, who had characterized baseball as a "highly speculative investment' if he had ever heard of any one losing money by investing in a baseball club.

"No," replied McHale.

"What do you regard as a safe investment?" Topkis asked.

"Government bonds," replied McHale.

At that point Judge Irving Ben Cooper, with a big smile on his face, admonished Topkis to go no further.

"I suggest," said the judge, "you leave that answer alone."

JIM GILMARTIN

Dill Comes Up With A Dilly

My old pal, Frank Dill of San Rafael, the ace NBC sportscaster, really came up with a dilly last night on his TV newscast.

Fearless Francis coolly observed that the June 28 reopening of Sears Point International Raceway would ". . .get road racing off the ground again in Northern California."

That's what happened when the financially troubled track closed last month. It left road racing up in the air.

SEMI-PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL may be gasping for air but it's still warm and breathing.

I can remember in the not-too-distant past when Marin County was crawling with semi-pros with just about every town hosting a sandlot game every Sunday, but in recent years the game has slowly vanished from the scene.

It Looked Like The End

And when Joe Anselmo, who ran a top-flight San Rafael club for several years, moved to Oregon last year it looked like the end of semi-pro ball in the county.

But, young Terry Jarcik has rescued the sport by announcing his Jarcik Insurance Co. of San Rafael again would sponsor a team this summer with initial tryouts scheduled this Saturday, 2-5 p.m. at Albert Park, San Rafael. High school and college players are invited to give it a try.

"The way it looks now," says Jarcik, who sponsored a local team last year, "we'll be the only team in Marin, although I hear that someone up in Novato is trying to field a team."

Jarcik noted he would insist on an all-Marin lineup. Anselmo, he said, was a scout for the Atlanta Braves and imported players from other areas to represent San Rafael in the semi-pro wars. "But I feel we have enough good local talent to field a good, representative Marin team," he said. "We hope to get several of the Marin players who played for Anselmo last year," he added.

It's A Losing Proposition

The young insurance executive noted that semi-pro baseball is a losing proposition, financially. "Last year," he said, "our expenses averaged $55 a game and we collected an average of $10 a game by passing the hat."

Semi-pro baseball fans have a curious disease. Every time they see a hat they run for the biffy. Case of weak kidneys and weaker pocket books.

Obviously, Mr. Jarcik's insurance clients are better fixed than his baseball followers. Also, it's obvious the man loves baseball.

All the Jarcik team's home games — about 13 — will be played at Albert Field beginning June 20.

Good luck to them.

SAN RAFAEL HIGH SCHOOL alumnus Bob McLennan collected quite an award last night at the University of California sports banquet in Berkeley. Co-captain of the Cal track team and the Bears' leading hurdler with best times of 14.1 seconds in the 120-yard hurdles and 51.7 in the intermediates, McLennan was presented the Brutus Hamilton Award for leadership and scholarship.

JUST KEEPS PITCHING

Mudcat Grant Is No Old Man

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim "Mudcat" Grant keeps hearing that he's washed up. He smiles at the rumor—and keeps on pitching.

He gained his first victory of the season with two scoreless innings in relief as the Oakland A's defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 Wednesday night.

35 YEARS OLD

"They say my arm is supposed to be giving out because I'm 35 years old. But it doesn't feel like it," Grant said.

"I'm ready to pitch whenever they ask me." It was his 21st relief appearance of the season. He has already saved five games for Oakland.

The A's will send Jim Hunter, 7-5, against Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, 3-3, in tonight's finale of the three-game series.

Grant feels he is paid to save games rather than win. "When I save a game that means the starter gets the victory. Then two of us benefit. It isn't right when I win. Then the starter doesn't get anything."

He was talking about Rollie Fingers, the Oakland starting pitcher who allowed only two hits in seven innings before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter. One of the hits was a home run by Frank Robinson that made it 1-1.

"With the score tied, we had to take every chance we had to score," Manager John Mc Namara of Oakland said, explaining why he took out Fingers for a pinch-hitter.

The winning runs came in the eighth on Sal Bando's three-run homer off Mike Cuellar, 5-4.

"That's the first hit I ever got off him," Bando said. "He threw me a screwball hoping to get a double play. All I wanted to do was hit it far enough to get the runner home from second."

BARELY

Bando's line drive just barely cleared the centerfield fence for his ninth homer of the season.

Baltimore outfielder Merv Rettenmund chased the ball back to the fence and thought it would hit the barrier and bounce back.

"But it didn't," Rettenmund said. "I couldn't get back to the fence quick enough to catch the ball anyway."

It's A Hitters' Day In Rec Softball

It was a hitter's field day in the San Rafael Recreation Softball League last night as the Refectory routed the Patio Club 17-10 and the Broncos outslugged C.W.A. by 23-18 at Albert Field.

Bill Kilcoyne and Rick Galassi hit home runs for the Refectory while Jim Schmidt hit a grand slam home run and triple and Dan Bell a homer and triple for the Broncos who overcame an early 13-3 deficit.

Draft: Catchers In Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Padres selected catcher Michael Ivie of Decatur, Ga., as the No. 1 pick today in baseball's annual summer free agent draft.

Three of the first four players selected were catchers with Montreal, picking third, selecting Barry Foote, a receiver from Smithfield, N.C., and Milwaukee, choosing fourth, taking catcher Darrell Porter of East High School in Oklahoma City.

The No. 2 pick by Cleveland was Steve Dunning, a right-hand pitcher from Stanford University.

Ivie, an 18-year-old high school graduate is 6-foot-2 and weights 198 pounds.

The annual draft is restricted to high school and college graduates as well as unsigned 21-year-olds. It will run two days with over 1,000 young men probably being picked.

GIANTS FALL

Dream Almost A Nightmare

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Catcher Ted Simmons thought his fondest dream had turned into a nightmare before the St. Louis Cardinals climbed past the San Francisco Giants 6-5 Wednesday night.

Simmons, only last week called up from Tulsa of the American Association, helped the Giants score three runs with a passed ball in the opening inning.

But the switch-hitting 20-year-old checked signals with veteran pitcher Bob Gibson and thereafter caught a strong game to help the Cardinals sweep a two-game series.

DISCOURAGED

"For a while there I was wishing I was back in Southfield, Mich., my hometown," Simmons said after the Cardinals rallied from a 5-1 deficit.

"Bob and I weren't together on our signals at the outset, so we called in Joe Torre from third base to do a little interpreting and got things straightened out.

"This game was something special for me. Ever since Monday night I'd been dreaming about catching Bob Gibson. I can tell it's something else."

In the third inning, the Giants wrapped up their scoring on Ken Henderson's single behind an error, a walk and a fielder's choice.

The Cards pecked away at Giant's right-hander Rich Robertson for runs in the bottom of the third and the fourth, however, and were down 5-3 when Richie Allen led off the seventh.

Allen singled off reliever Frank Reberger, Joe Hague drew a one-out walk and Simmons singled, filling the bases.

Pinch hitter Vic Davalillo then delivered a two-run single to tie the game before Leron Lee struck out. Gibson himself then stroked the game-winning hit, a single beyond the reach of Giant first baseman Willie McCovey.

The hits were the third apiece for Simmons and Gibson, who combined to drive in three runs.

"I can't think of any tougher way to win than that," gasped Gibson, who pitched an eight-hitter and brought his record to 5-3.

Outfielder Bobby Bonds of the Giants was carried from the field on a stretcher after sliding into second base in the second inning.

X rays showed no fracture, but Cardinal team physician, Dr. Stan London said he thought Bonds had suffered a severe sprain of the left ankle.

Two Race Events For Sears Point

Sears Point International Raceway is back in business — at least temporarily.

Two Sports Car Club of America events—the Continental Grand Prix races June 27-28 and the Sonoma Summer sport races July 11-12—will be held at the track under the sponsorship of the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees announced Wednesday they had reached agreement with SCAA and the track owner, Filmways, Inc., to sponsor the races.

Filmways closed the 2-year-old Sonoma road course last month after sustaining heavy financial losses and is trying to sell it. But it made the track available to the Jaycees free of charge for the coming event.

William Bradshaw, local Jaycee president, said any profits from the races will be used for projects to benefit children. One project will be construction of a park in the Hunters Point-Bayview district of San Francisco.

Bradshaw also indicted that if the Jaycee promtions are successful the organization may sponsor two other SCCA events at Sears Point, a Trans-Am race Sept. 20 and a Can-Am race Nov. 8.

Rangers' Stewart Meets With D.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Stewart of the New York Rangers has met for 50 minutes with Nassu County Dist. Atty. William Cahn to discuss the death of goalie Terry Sawchuk, his teammate on the National Hockey League club.

The meeting took place Wednesday as a prelude to a grand jury probe into the matter scheduled to begin Monday.

Sawchuk, 40, died last Sunday of a blood clot. He was hospitalized April 29, reportedly after a bar fight with Stewart which later continued outside the house they shared in East Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

According to another version, the pair merely was engaged in "horseplay."

Nicholas Castellano, lawyer for the 37-fear-old Stewart, said; "There were absolutely no punches thrown. Just a little shoving." He said the two players had argued over "housecleaning."

Both men were separated from their wives.

A smooth approach is essential at the release. At that point, there should be no jerky motions. The hand should come forward at an even pace, lifting the ball over the foul line, then coming more or less straight up in a complete follow-through.

Ron Mix Considers Offer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Offensive tackle Ron Mix wanted the sparkle of Broadway and the coaching of Weeb Ewbank. But instead he'll play for the Oak-Raiders—if he decides to unretire.

Mix, 31, an All-American Football League performer most of his 10 seasons with the San Diego Chargers, was traded to Oakland for two "undisclosed but high" draft choices, one each in 1971 and 1972, the Chargers said Wednesday.

"I want my final year in football to be a total pleasure," said Mix, criticizing what he called demeaning treatment of players by Charger coaches. He said he believes conditions are better with Ewbank and the New York Jets.

Mix, whose uniform, No. 74, was retired by the Chargers after the 1969 season, said the trade to Oakland depends on his decision to play.

"Nothing has changed," he said. "I have a decision to make—do I play again?"

Mix was a player and Al Davis, Oakland managing owner, was a coach at University of Southern California. "I'll talk to Al," said Mix. "We started together at USC and we're old friends."

But Mix said Oakland's offer will have to be "more profitable than on the outside."

Hill Withdraws From Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dave Hill, winner of last week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Open, withdrew from the $150,000 Kemper Open golf tournament Wednesday night.

Hill, winner of three tournaments and No. 2 on the money list last year, telephoned tournament officials from Jackson, Mich., and told them he would be unable to appear in the tournament that opened today at Quail Hollow Country Club.

Hill had entered the tournament with the condition that he be allowed to withdraw if he was unable to rearrange previous commitments in Michigan.

STATE TRACK FIELD MEET

High Hopes For Three Preps

Anyone who wants to see Marin County Athletic League stars competing in the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships had better arrive early tomorrow and Saturday to University of California's Edwards Field in Berkeley.

The MCAL will have three representatives — Mark Jones of Terra Linda, Novato's Ray Sparling and Bob Peterson of San Rafael — who will be entered in field events which are scheduled first both days.

FINEST

The California championship the finest of all state high school meets, as evidenced by the fact that Californians hold national records in seven of the fifteen track and field events.

Relative to other leagues in the state, the MCAL has never been strong. Putting that situation in proper perspective, it is safe to assume that pole vaulter Jones, discus thrower Sparling and long jumper Peterson will have to come up with super performances, by far the best of their lives, if they are to place in this meet.

Of the three, Jones has, on paper, the best chance. His MCAL pole vault record of 14 feet, 1 inch is the ninth best performance in the state this year, and only half of the 28 qualifiers for tomorrow's trials have cleared 14 feet.

Yet five others have gone 14-6 or better, including Roger Martin of Camden and Carl Goldstone of San Mateo, both of whom have the season's best mark at 14-10.

On paper, Sparling hasn't much of a chance. Of the 22 qualifiers, 17 have better season highs than the Novato senior. Ten have tosses of better than 170 feet, and defending champion Chris Adams of Los Altos has a throw of 201 feet.

Sparling's strength lies in his ability to come through under pressure. The two best efforts of his career came during the MCAL championships, when he set a new record with a mark of 158-8, and the North Coast Section Finals two weeks ago at Clayton Valley High School, where he posted a 158-7 to place third.

AVERAGE

Statistically, San Rafael's Peterson is about average among the best long jumpers in the state. The best jump of his career, 22 feet 11½ inches, came in the NCS finals. That was two and a half inches longer than the MCAL record he established this season.

The most impressive thing about Peterson is that he considers himself primarily a sprinter. In fact, he had little trouble winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the MCAL championships.

Only last year did he become interested in the long jump. In Reno for the qualifying round of the Junior Olympics, he entered the long jump after failing to place in either the 100 or 220. Of course he won and went on to the finals in San Diego.

SECOND

So it has been this year also. He failed to qualify for the state meet in the sprints, but took second in the NCS in the long jump.

The best mark in the state this season, 25-7, belongs to Jim McAlister of Blair High School in Pasadena.

Qualifying begins tomorrow at 4 p.m., with finals Saturday starting at 12:30 p.m.

Casanova Finds His Love

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paul Casanova just loves those Chicago White Sox pitchers—Tommy John in particular—while Duke Sims is taking his anger out on the Milwaukee Brewers and the Fourth Estate.

Casanova rendered John speechless Wednesday night with his third straight 3-for-3 game against the White Sox lefty as Washington rallied for a 5-4 victory.

Sims, Cleveland's catcher-turned-outfielder, belted two homers for the second game in a row in a 7-6 triumph over the Brewers and then tried to disprove Leo Durocher's theory that nice guys finish last by refusing to talk to the press.

'GET OUT!'

"I don't talk, man, I don't talk to anyone," Sims snapped. "Get out of here." Then he turned and walked away.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland downed Baltimore 4-1, Detroit shaded California 5-4 in 11 innings and the New York Yankees topped Kansas City 5-3. Minnesota at Boston was rained out.

Casanova, whose streak against John dates back to last season, singled in the third inning, doubled home the final two runs of a four-run fourth and singled in the sixth. Besides going 9-for-9 against John in their last three meetings, Casanova has driven in 10 runs over that stretch.

HOME RUNS

Sims, reportedly irked because a newsman allegedly misquoted him, got the Indians started with a three-run homer in the first inning and connected again in the third to snap a 4-4 tie. That gave him three consecutive homers, including his last time at bat Tuesday night, but he grounded into a double play on his next trip.

The Brewers scored twice in the eighth to trim a 7-4 deficit and loaded the bases with one out in the ninth. But Dennis Higgins fanned Steve Hovley and Dick Ellsworth came on with a 3-0 count on Tommy Harper, who had homered earlier, and got him to bounce into a force play on the 3-1 pitch.

UNLOAD

The Tigers, held to two hits and trailing the Angels 3-0, erupted for four runs in the ninth against Andy Messersmith and two relievers. Gates Brown started it with a pinch homer and Jim Northrup cracked a three-run homer with two out to put the Tigers in front 4-3.

The Angels tied it in the last of the ninth on Alex Johnson's run-scoring single, but Detroit won it in the 11th when Stanley singled, stole second and scored on a single by Willie Horton.

The Yankees trailed the Royals 3-2 with one out in the fifth when they kayoed Dick Drago with three consecutive extra-base hits—a triple by Bobby Murcer, Roy White's game-tying double and Danny Cater's fourth homer.

There's Still Some Life In The Old Arms

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's still some life left in the elderly pitching arms of Jim Bunning and Hank Aguirre—the hurlers nobody wanted—and Bob Gibson's batting eye isn't gone quite yet, either.

The three veteran pitchers all enjoyed banner performances Wednesday, helping their teams to victories in the rain-abbreviated National League schedule.

Bunning passed the 2,700 career strikeout mark—third on the alltime list behind only Cy Young and Walter Johnson—as Philadelphia thumped Cincinnati 11-4. Aguirre won his third game—his highest total since 1966—helping Chicago top Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings. And Gibson ripped three hits including a seventh inning single that broke a tie and moved St. Louis to a 6-5 victory over San Francisco.

SHUTOUT

In the only other National League game played, Houston's Jack Billingham shut out Montreal 5-0. New York at Atlanta and San Diego at Pittsburgh were both postponed by rain.

Bunning pitched the first six innings against the Reds and then Dick Selma finished up as Philadelphia exploded for seven runs in its last three swings to end a five-game Cincinnati winning streak.

Larry Hisle's bases-loaded, two-out single broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh and then the Phillies added five wrapup runs in the ninth, two on a single by Tony Taylor, who had opened the game with a first pitch homer.

THIRD WIN

Bunning, a free-agent pickup over the winter, won his third game—not a terribly large number for most pitchers but an important plateau for Chicago's Aguirre, another ex-free agent who had not managed that many in four seasons.

Billingham, making his first start of the year, extended his shutout string to 20 innings with his whitewash against Montreal. The tall right-hander scattered eight hits and struck out 10 Expos.

So You Think You Really Know The Game Of Football

MEXICO CITY — All right, the game today is "So You Think You Know Football?" Ready? Places, everybody! Masks in place? Will you come in and sign in, please, Football?

Football is a game played by Deacon David Unitas, Roman Olsen, Harold (Red) Rockne, Glenn S. (Pop) Lombardi, Paul (Bear) Brown, and Joe Willie Nightlife and Jarrin' John and Pitchin' Paul and Slingin' Sam and Chuckin' Charlie. Right?

It is played by a Down-And-Out and a Z-Flared and a Square-Out to the Tight End or a Flanker Buttonhooked or a Wide Receiver and it's always a Big Third Down Play and, All Right, everybody, Let's Hear It For The Big D! Right?

Wrong.

FOOTBALL IS played by Pele Q. Brazil whose family thinks his name is "Edson Arantes do Nascimento," and it is a game of "Thousands Riot, Two Killed" and a moat around the field, and it has caused an invasion of one Latin American country by another and it is a game Americans equate with grand opera. The music's nice but what the hell are they talking about? Otherwise known as Why - aCn't - You - People - Speak - English?

It is a game not run by Pete Czar and you don't have to weigh 300 pounds and wear plaster-of-paris on your forearm (you don't really need a forearm). It was not invented by Walter Camp or Amos Alonzo Heffelfinger or Jim Indian or Papa Bear or Johnny Blood. It was invented by, like Marco Polo. Or maybe he just brought it back from China.

WHAT THE rest of the world calls "football" (so-called because it really IS), we call "soccer." It is the oldest game known to man. The ancient Etruscans (or somebody) used to play it with a human skull. The Incas used to play it where the winner got to eat the loser's heart (giving rise to the ancient Incan expression "Eat your heart out").

Outlined against the blue-gray October sky is not the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, but the 11 mudders of Manchester United. Never mind the Crimson Tide of Alabama, how about the Juventus of Turin? The Trastevereside?

YOU HAVE to have the footwork of a cha-cha instructor, the stamina of a goat. You don't run three yards at a time every 30 seconds as in American football. Nobody's named "Pudge" or Howg" or "The Seven Blocks of Granite." The field is 120 yards long, 75 yards wide and everybody, but everybody, runs up and down it all the time. There are no free substitution rules. Halves are 45 minutes long with a 10-minute rest in between. You run several miles a game. It's never third - and - three in this game. It's always first and 100.

TO BE A journalist in international football is a whole new game, too. Grantland Rice would be profoundly depressed. There's none of this "The Cardinals Lost The Game But Lefty's Arm Is Coming 'Round" type of thing. No "Rams Lose But Scare Packers" kind of equivocation. Soccer journalists are part gossip columnists, part public scolds, and all vicious. And the little niceties of "according to informed sources," or "the Times has learned today," or "it was alleged," or "rumored," or "reported" are scorned. YOU are the informed source. To give you an example the World Cup defenders, the British team, flew into Mexico City the other night to be welcomed by headlines "The English Arrive — Drunk."

You have to learn that the name of the team takes a plural verb. "Arsenal HAVE two goals," is the preferred form. "Trasteverside ARE ahead." It is like saying "New York have the bases loaded" or, if they stumble coming down the ramp to the World Series, the headline, "New York Are Drunk."

FINALLY, IT is a population freak. Green Bay is the only small town in the United States that can compete on Big League terms with New York, Chicago, Washington. In football, El Salvador, Morocco, Israel, Peru, Uruguay and Bulgaria get in the 16-team final along with Soveit Russia, Great Britain, Italy, Brazil and Germany. El Salvador put out the United States, to give you an example. Belgium put out Spain, Sweden put out France. Surinam, wherever the hell that is, almost made it.

BUT I AM ready. I have my crash helmet, wine in a goatskin, I have learned to say "Not that way, you fool!" and "England are a fraud!" in Spanish to go with my already - extensive phraseology, like "in Spain, the people have no love for bananas" and I will say learnedly, "I had no idea Brazil are so good" or "surely Pele is the most deadly header in the world." A few stones in my pocket to throw at the refs, a picture of Zapata in my wallet, a rose for Delores Del Rio, a chorus or two of "La Paloma" in the Reforma, and I shall be ready for El Futbol Mundial!

THE SPORTING GENTRY: FRANK BERNARDI

Second Term As Bowling Head

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Frank Bernardi, in his second term as president of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, is looking forward to some high average leagues emerging from the 1970-71 bowling year.

With leagues already through with the 1969-70 season and the summer season starting, Bernardi is already thinking ahead to a possible 940 scratch league at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and a 925 league at Nave Lanes near Ignacio.

Highest leagues this year have been a 910 classic and a 910 travel league. A 940 team comes out to a 188 average per man.

The 49-year-old Bernardi, owner of the Marin County franchise for Roto-Rooter Sewer Service, said there was a strong possibility for the two leagues, each with eight teams.

SANTA ROSA NATIVE

A native of Santa Rosa, where he lived through high school and junior college days, Bernardi has been bowling for 25 years and has a 192 average. He bowls in both the 910 Marin County leagues.

After his school days, Bernardi spent some time in the Mount Shasta area where he worked in lumber mills. When World War II came, he was ruled 4-F, but returned to the Bay Area to work at the Alameda Naval shipyards. He started bowling in leagues in the Oakland-Berkeley area in 1945, and for a while was in the 935 Classic League in Oakland.

He got his start in the Roto-Rooter business in Oakland around 1949 before moving to Marin County and starting his present business in 1956.

WIFE ACTIVE

Frank has been active in Marin County Men's Bowling Association for the past seven years, serving as vice president before his election to the presidency. His wife, Inez, is also an active bowler and is first vice president in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association. Their oldest son, Jeffery, 17, a senior at Drake High School, bowls in the North Bay Junior Traveling League. The Bernardis have another son, Michael, 15, a sophomore at Drake. Family home is at 86 Valley Road, San Anselmo.

FRANK BERNARDI
Bowling leader

Bernardi teamed with Dan Burke to win the Marin County doubles title in 1969 at the association's "City" tournament. He has a pair of 700s to his credit and they came nearly 20 years apart.

HIGH MARKS

"I rolled a 701 series at Albany Bowl back in the early '50's," said Bernardi, "and last year at Country Club Bowl I rolled a 701 in the 910 Classic." High game for him also came last year, a 279.

Bernardi heads a board of 24 officers, and says, "I feel fortunate to have such a hard-working board. They put in so much of their time to help run tournaments. One of them put in at least 50 hours of his time organizing one of our tournaments."

The association has increased the number of directors because of added activities, such as the new 170 Masters Tournament started this year. Other main tourneys put on by the association are the City Tournament and the Marin Masters.

STIMULATE INTEREST

"We always try to run different types of tournaments to stimulate interest in bowling," said Bernardi.

"I feel fortunate that we have so much cooperation between the three Marin County bowling houses," he said. Having just returned from the American Bowling Congress convention in Knoxville, Tenn., in April, he added, "this is not the case with all the local associations."

Two touring golf pros from Texas have distinctive license plates. Dudley Wysong's license carries his last name. Rocky Thompson's tag reads "Rock."

Where Marin's tax dollar comes from and where it goes in the proposed 1970-71 budget is shown in two torn dollar bills representing a $36,024,555 total.
(Independent-Journal chart by Jack Lucey)

Supervisors Poise Ax; Budget Up $2.76 Million

A proposed fiscal 1970-71 budget totaling $36,024,555 with a tax rate of $2.47 per $100 assessed valuation has been handed the Marin County Board of Supervisors by the county administrator.

On the basis of past "trends," according to County Administrator Alan Bruce, $14 million will be raised through the county's property tax, about $15 million from federal and state aid, and the remaining $7 million from other sources.

Accepting the document this week, John F. McInnis, board chairman, made clear the supervisors have yet to sharpen their carving knives.

"I want to emphasize again that this is just a proposed budget," McInnis said.

The board was warned May 5 by Bruce to expect the heavy package which represents a $2,763,133 increase over this year's operating budget. The proposed budget would delete three county departments and reduce the county work force by 31 positions.

The supervisors, who will begin budget hearings June 15, said copies of the budget will be available to the public tomorrow at the assessor's office.

While the budget has been proposed with much fanfare, it fails to make clear what next year's county payroll total will be.

It does include a "minimum dollar increase" for employees, the administrator's office has reported, but declined to give a total figure for the money scattered in various department budgets.

Bruce said yesterday — after county employees had agreed to a 5 per cent pay boost, which must still be approved by the board of supervisors — that if the raise is accepted it will not have a great impact on his proposed budget.

A cursory glance at the budget shows that besides abolishing the county's human rights department, the New Careers program and the county farm adviser, its greatest effect on Marin taxpayers would be a million-dollar increase in property taxes to support law enforcement agencies.

The administrator said the law enforcement increase represents 80 per cent of the total proposed property tax increase.

Bruce says the hike is not because he treated law enforcement agencies "more gently than others," but because during the past several years law enforcement costs have escalated at an accelerated rate.

Other services accounting for Bruce's proposed increase are welfare with hikes totaling $1.3 million and roads and engineering with a combined increase of $750,000 above the current budget.

A breakdown of next year's proposed budget funds as compared with this year's (in parentheses) are: general fund ($28,078,932), $30,557,437; road fund ($2,926,495), $3,590,714; capital improvement fund $997,600), $847,100; 1965 Civic Center building fund ($10,000) $15,000; special aviation fund ($79,429), $61,826; fish and game preservation fund ($10,000), same; contingencies-general ($108,000), $51,430; and county bond and interest ($451,430), $891,048.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Asthma's Breathing Struggle May Afflict One At Any Age

AN ATTACK of asthma may last for minutes or weeks. Each bout is a struggle for breath with gasping, choking, and wheezing.

The victim can inhale but has difficulty exhaling because of narrowed bronchi. Expiration is prolonged and accompanied by a loud wheezing sound.

Acute attacks are easily controlled with an injection of epinephrine or by inhaling isoproterenol. When wheezing continues or recurs, a cortisonelike hormone is administered.

DECONGESTANTS AND liquifying agents also are helpful. Isoproterenol, when used in excess or in larger than recommended dosages, has an adverse effect upon the heart.

Salbutamol, a British product, also is inhaled and has the same effect as isoproterenol on the asthma but produces less cardiac stimulation. The British are also experimenting with cromolyn that also is inhaled and prevents the bronchi from narrowing as a result of spasm. Fenspiride, a French product, may prove useful, too.

Disodium cromoglycate (DSC), a relatively new product, is said to protect the individual against asthmatic attacks. The dry powder is administered via a special inhaler. It is said to lessen the need for corticosteroids and may help those who develop frequent attacks.

ASTHMA IS BEST treated by finding and eliminating the cause.

This is easier said than done because there are innumerable possibilities. External culprits include pollens, fungal spores, furs, feathers, animal dander, house dust, harvesting products, occupational dusts, lint, cosmetics and deteriorating insects. Foods are not a common cause, but at one time or another all foods have been implicated.

Interna causes may also trigger an attack. The most common of these are emotional stress, colds, and other respiratory infections. Asthma of internal origin is more common in children and adults over 45.

Between 15 and 45 years, asthma caused by an external offender usually appears for the first time.

EATS COFFEE

C. C. writes: I get a terrific wallop when I eat powdered coffee right out of the jar. Is this practice harmful?

REPLY

It depends upon the amount consumed. There is no difference between taking the granules straight or dissolved in hot water. A teaspoonful is equivalent to one cup of coffee.

YOUNG AND ARTICULATE

Mrs. Y. H. writes: My 2-year-old daughter speaks more plainly than her 5-year-old brother. Is this an unusual state of affairs?

REPLY

Yes. Your daughter may be precocious and your son may be normal or slow. Girls usually learn to speak earlier than do boys.

INNER EAR TROUBLE

P. K. writes: Please explain inner ear trouble.

REPLY

The inner ear contains the nerve elements and consists of the labyrinth, the semicircular canals, and the audtitory nerves. Disturbances in these parts usually are associated with dizziness and nerve deafness.

HYPERTHYROIDISM AND PRESSURE

P. O. K. writes: Could an overly active thyroid cause high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. The systolic pressure usually goes up but the diastolic pressure remains the same or goes down.

Flood Advisory Meeting Put Off

Tonight's meeting of the Richardson Bay Flood Control Zone Advisory Board has been postponed until 8 p.m. Tuesday in Mill Valley City Hall.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said tonight's meeting was postponed because the county's agreement to buy tidelots from George Kappas changes the zone budget for 1970-71. He needs more time to compile adjusted figures.

Marin County Supervisors, sitting as directors of the flood control and water conservation district, decided on Tuesday to buy two lots and leaseholds on three others from Kappas for $115,000. The lots lie along Saucelito Canal, which will be dredged by the flood control zone.

The agenda also includes a report from engineering consultant Stanley M. Bala on the cost estimates for the Lomita Drive project to correct flooding near Edna Maguire School.

More than a million Americans completed the Red Cross first aid course in 1969.

Marinite Passed Over For Seat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The executive committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's board of directors screened 10 applicants yesterday for two vacancies on the agency's 10-member hearing board and agreed to recommend two.

They are Dr. Theodore I. Cleveland of Berkeley and Prof. Charles Kruger of Stanford University.

The recommendations will be made to the board of directors June 10 in Richmond.

The committee passed over incumbent E. Spencer Bodine of Kentfield, a candidate for a second term on the hearing board. He completes his first term this month. The other vacancy was created by the resignation of Joseph Hunter of San Mateo County.

Hanoi, Cong Units Stepping Up Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops carried out their heaviest shelling attacks in Vietnam in a month during the night and were reported today to have captured a village 10 miles from Phnom Penh, their closest penetration to the Cambodian capital.

UPI correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from Phnom Penh the guerrillas captured the village of Setbo south of the city Tuesday. Cambodian troops were said to be counterattacking, with no report on their progress.

Other Communist soldiers in Cambodia attacked the province capital of Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh, in what appeared to be an attempt to seize another way-station for a supply line into central Cambodia from Laos. Fighting raged through the morning.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam went to Phnom Penh this morning on an official state visit and urged an alliance between the two countries so "together it will be possible for us to rapidly check the Communist threat and bring back peace."

The reports of guerrilla shellings in Vietnam came as military spokesmen reported 165 Americans killed in Indochina fighting last week, 55 of them in Cambodia. The death toll was 23 higher than the previous week. Another 757 GIs were wounded.

President Brief And To Point

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's progress report on Indochina, carried by the three major networks and many independent stations Wednesday night, was brief and to the point.

The President went on the air live promptly at 9 p.m. EDT, and finished 15 minutes later. His address was unusual in that film clips were cut in showing weapons and supplies seized by the United States and South Vietnamese troops during the Cambodia operation—film supplied by the White House.

After he finished, correspondents of all three networks took over for another 15 minutes for a summary, adding a few embellishments or statistics here or there.

Des O'Connor and his London-based summer "Music Hall" series on NBC may not constitute the most electrifying entertainment, but O'Connor has a nice understated way with humor, an attractive singing voice and sort of grows on the viewer.

An important member of his cast is a little dog who attempts to nip O'Connor—no one else—whenever he gets near. This week Des added a talking trout who did vocal impressions of James Stewart and Kirk Douglas.

Weakest element of the show is the comedy sketches which seem to add up to a lot of noise, people and confusion but few laughs.

"Music Hall" subscribes to the tenet that television performers seen weekly in their own series make exciting guest stars. This week the American imports were Joanne Worley doing just about what she does on "Laugh-In" and Dan Blocker doing something designed as comedy.

In one segment, Miss Worley walked up to Blocker, dressed in the uniform of the guards of the Tower of London.

"Are you a Beefeater?" she asked.

"No, I'm a vegetarian," he replied.

Blackout and the incomprehensible sound of studio audience laughter.

Andy Griffith, Mary Tyler Moore and Danny Thomas all will return to network television in new series next season. Each is a star pretty much created by television.

The following season, however, TV's own will be getting some high-powered competition from motion picture stars taking the big plunge.

James Stewart is the most recent addition to the large roster that includes Shirley MacLaine, Tony Curtis, James Garner and Henry Fonda.

Stewart's half-hour comedy series is scheduled for NBC broadcast, part of a Warner Brothers deal with the star that includes some theatrical films.

Alioto Pledges Unruh Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, once considered a likely California gubernatorial candidate, has pledged to back fellow Democrat Jess Unruh.

He sent a telegram of congratulations and support to Unruh Wednesday and said he would help all of his party's statewide candidates.

"Your great victory is a prelude to an even greater one in November," he wired the Assembly speaker. "The state administration, already buffeted by a declining economy and rising unrest, will founder on its own failures and the rising tide of Democratic solidarity."

Alioto told Unruh he will "undertake any assignment you think might be helpful in your campaign."

Interim Reed School District Chief Picked

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent of Marin County Schools, will serve as interim superintendent of the Reed School District starting Monday.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw will start a two-year leave July 1, and Friese will serve until the district board makes a permanent appointment to the post.

Trustees voted last night to contract with the Marin County Schools Office for the services of an interim superintendent at a cost of $100 per working day, and Friese was named.

Trustee James B. Richwagen commented that the cost was the equivalent of "a $22,000 a year salary."

Trustees also appointed two new principals. Irwin C. Karp of Petaluma, superintendent-principal of Wilmar School District was named principal of Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon schools at a salary of $17,000 a year. He will succeed Edward Mosconi, who recently was selected to be principal of Granada School.

B. J. Dennis, a principal in the Whisman School District, Mountain View, was named principal of Bel Aire School at $17,000 a year. He will succeed Robert D. Gowan, who recently was named principal of the new Reedland Woods School.

Trustees hired seven teachers for the 1970-71 school year, but delayed filling an eighth post, psychologist-intern, pending further study of the post. Richwagen had suggested that the board postpone all hiring.

Trustees have been interviewing teaching applicants, and Richwagen felt the interviews were too brief, and more time was needed before acting.

Board Chariman Leo Souza said this problem arose as a result of the board "doing this function, normally delegated to the superintendent."

Trustees voted unanimously to hire June Braden for Granada School at $6,925 a year, Anne Morris for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $9,625 a year; and Delpha Carpenter, teacher of educationally handicapped children, Reedland Woods School, $9,525 a year.

With Richwagen abstaining, trustees hired Patricia O'Callahan, for either Reedland Woods or Del Mar schools at $8,375; Mary Dixon Puncec, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,625, and Jackson F. Simmons, Reedland Woods or Del Mar, $8,675.

Wallace Thompson was hired as a teacher at Granada at a salary of $10,725, by a 4-1 vote with Richwagen dissenting.

Trustees also hired William Muggenthale, maintenance man at $507 a month, and Stanley Norman as night custodian at Granada School, $529 a month.

They accepted the resignations of Deirdre Lennihan, teacher aide at Del Mar School and Plew Brow, custodian, Del Mar School.

Thomas J. Clisham, humanities teacher, Del Mar School, was granted a one-year leave, to teach in Malaysia.

Budget Wrestling Without Hoped For Tax Increase

Reed School District trustees, in the wake of a tax rate hike defeat at the polls, wrestled last night with a 1970-71 budget in which it must provide for opening Reedland Woods School.

The district's bid for a 60-cent increase in the operating rate limit to $2.85 per $100 assessed valuation was defeated Tuesday by the voters 2,396 to 1,795.

Victor W. Butler Jr., business affairs director, asked what he should do in view of the election defeat.

Trustees said he should work on the basis of a planning budget submitted in April.

At that time the budget was $2,048,218, up $162,914 from this year's budget, but trustees called for further study on six proposed new jobs.

Trustees set June 23 for presentation of the revised budget, with approval of a tentative budget set for July 1 and approval of a publication budget July 21.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said he would present recommendations regarding override taxes at the June 23 session.

Trustees again dug into the cost of euipping and furnishing Reedland Woods for opening this fall, and approved expenditures totaling $47,400.

They also gained $10,000 in credit from Pendergraft Construction Co. because the wrong type of carpeting was installed at the school and agreed that it be earmarked for the school.

Robert D. Gowan, Reedland Woods principal, explained that opening costs were cut by providing 2,800 books for the library and furniture from other schools in the district.

The $47,400 opening budget didn't include lockers for all 300 expected pupils, or a proposed portable building.

Trustees stressed the need for turfing at the site before winter rains, and felt there should be as much landscaping and erosion control as possible.

The Reed School District Board Also:

PARENT-TEACHER CLUB — Heard a report from Mary Ann DiGrazia, president of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club that the club had provided $18,734 in eulpment and services during the past year.

COMMUNICATIONS CENTER — Heard a report from Diane Bramman that the communications council of the parent-teacher club has recommended to incoming club officers that a communications center be established that would serve all parent volunteer organizations and provide a meeting place "outside of school and district offices."

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. June 16 at Bel Aire School.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Donavon Dean Brush, 33, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent to attempted burglary yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon rejected a request to release him on his own recognizance and continued bail at $2,500. Brush was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today.

Brush was arrested Monday by Petaluma police for the attempted break-in at Silva's Appliance Center, 402 Petaluma Boulevard South.

Blinder To Direct Hub Town Meeting

Dr. Martin G. Blinder, San Anselmo psychiatrist and a city council candidate this spring, was elected 1970 chairman for the San Anselmo town meeting yesterday

Former chairman Everett J. Farey said the planning committee last night tentatively set the town meeting for early October, and set the next committee meeting for July 1.
